

HUNDREDS UNABLE TO HEAR THE STORY OF MAJOR MORRIS

Turned Away From Auditorium When Survivor Tells of the Empress Disaster.

HOLD OVERFLOW MEETING

Tale of Marine Tragedy Grips Londoners, Who Wait for Hours to Hear It.

To an audience that crammed the seating capacity and every available inch of standing room in the Auditorium, Major Frank Morris, of the Salvation Army headquarters staff, told a graphic story of the Empress of Ireland disaster Sunday night. It was the story told to an advertiser reporter Friday on his arrival in the city, direct from the gruesome results of the tragedy. As told last night by the sole London survivor of a party of 22, it struck home with the big crowd in a way that held every eye on the speaker. Many were moved to tears. As he spoke of the last few minutes before the vessel took her death plunge, one might have heard a pin drop in the assemblage.

Hold Overflow Meeting.

The meeting was advertised to open at 8 o'clock. By 7 the hall was half-filled. A half-hour later found every seat taken. The next few minutes found a crush for the standing room at the back of the hall. This was soon filled. Then the crowd began to block the aisles. Seeing that the hall would soon be crowded to the danger point, Salvation Army officials in charge held a hasty consultation.

While men and women turned away hundreds of disappointed people, it was decided to hold an overflow meeting at the army citadel. The announcement to the impatient crowd outside started the flow towards Dundas street and to Clarence. The assembly hall at the barracks was soon filled. There the crowd waited for more than an hour, until Major Morris put in an appearance.

Although through the columns of the press the story had been made known to Londoners, the narrative was followed with an interest that is seldom seen in an audience.

Tells Graphic Story. Without any attempt at making his story dramatic, Major Morris told of the casting off from the pier at Quebec, the last good-byes waved to the crowd on the docks, the playing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," by the picked band, and of the liner falling her way out into the river.

He told of the last letters being written. They were taken off by the pilot only fifteen minutes before the disaster occurred. He spoke of the passengers promanaging the decks, of turning in, one by one, to their berths.

As he led up to the last scene before the collision occurred, a hush of expectancy fell over the audience. His vivid description of the climb to the deck on the leaping stairs, and rushing up into the night, where chaos reigned, while the vessel listed sickeningly to starboard, seemed to hold the assemblage as in a trance. Perhaps the most striking word-picture of all was the last plunge of the leviathan, when the hundreds of struggling human beings were carried to destruction with the monster as it left the surface.

Many Wept At Tale. In the audience were many who had lost loved ones in the marine tragedy. They had been brought there as if by a powerful magnetic force. As they did not want to come. Yet there was something in the words of the man who had come back from the grave that they could not but hear. As they listened they wept.

His Worship, Mayor C. M. R. Graham, spoke feelingly of the number in the disaster. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Frank C. Harper.

RECEIVES PURSE OF GOLD

Returning Missionary Remembered by Adelaide Street Church.

A purse of gold was presented to Miss Lottie McLeod, of Adelaide Street Baptist Church by church members last night after the church service. Miss McLeod will leave at 9 o'clock this morning for Ottawa, where she will visit relatives, prior to a voyage to India, where she is going shortly as a missionary.

In the sermon last night, Rev. J. H. Boyd spoke of Miss McLeod's mission and her work which she will take up at Samulcotta, India. Miss McLeod is a Londoner, and has always been a member of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church.

Miss McLeod thanked the members of the church for their friendship and many kindnesses to her, in a short address, following the pastor's sermon.

After the service, more than 300 of the congregation assembled in the basement of the church, where a farewell address was read by Mrs. J. H. Boyd, on behalf of the Ladies' Mission Circle. Mrs. S. A. Catling made the presentation of the purse. All of those present filed past Miss McLeod and shook hands with her.

SERVICES AT ST. PETER'S FOR CORPUS CHRISTI DAY

Rev. Father Fallon Celebrates Mass—Children of Separate Schools in Procession.

At the special services in St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning, for the Sunday following Corpus Christi Day, Rev. Father James Fallon, formerly of Ottawa University, and brother of Bishop Fallon, celebrated mass, and Rev. Father Harding officiated as deacon, assisted by Joseph Bell, student in St. Peter's seminary.

In the procession which followed, the children of the separate schools of this city, arrayed in white, together with members and representatives of local Catholic societies participated. The attendance at all the cathedral services yesterday was very large.

ENGLAND NEEDS HER ARMY, SAYS RECTOR

Not Be Worth Much Without It, Canon Tucker Tells London Soldiers.

"The men of today are lovers of money, pleasure and themselves," said Canon Tucker at St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday afternoon, where special divine service was held for the Seventh Regiment. "By their acts," he continued, "they are detaching God and putting themselves in His place. Money, pleasure and self is a mark of the last reign."

"You are soldiers of Jesus Christ, the King of Kings," he said, looking over the several hundred members of the regiment attired in their full dress uniform, "and your first duty is obedience in loyalty to the reign of righteousness and of God."

"I am a believer in universal peace and in the saying of the great American general who declared 'War is hell.'"

He said enemies were needed to keep out the devil and that if England disbanded her army tomorrow and the world would not be worth much in six months.

The members of the Seventh regiment, headed by the regiment band, marched to the church shortly after 2:30 o'clock, accompanied by the Sixteenth Canadian Army Service Corps. They filled the main body of the church, while the band took a position on the balcony and furnished the music for the singing of hymns.

The church was filled to its capacity.

CONGREGATIONALISM NECESSARY TO UNION

Amalgamation of Churches Can Never Be Consummated Without It.

"Denominationalism is not born of sin but of the spirit of God," said Rev. J. H. Boyd, of Adelaide Street Baptist Church, preaching yesterday morning on "Protestantism and Church Union." Some one had said that denominationalism was the curse of Christendom. This was not true. Denominationalism had begun in the struggle for truth and freedom of religion and had played its part in the revolt against Roman Catholicism.

But now there were forces tending towards church union. Among them were the deeper study of the Bible, the revival of the missionary spirit of the church, the increasing spirit of brotherly charity, and the rising growth of democracy. The Roman Catholic church stood for authority and hierarchy in church government, the Baptist church for democracy, and most of the other Protestant denominations attempted to mingle authority and democracy. This must give way to congregationalism before organic church union can be effected, Mr. Bingham said.

"Centralized church government must give way to representative church government. I fear we shall never see organic church union until this dualism, this attempt to mingle authority and democracy is superseded," said Mr. Bingham, who pointed out that democracy is increasing in the other churches. In the Methodist church, for instance, the stationing committee now never attempted to override the wishes of the congregations. Church union might be hastened by fostering the life principles of Christianity. It could never be accomplished by ignoring the spiritual message and principles of the Christian religion. No mechanical or external methods could ever bring church union about. The great principles were the right of the soul to have direct access to God and the regeneration of the soul by the spirit of God.

There was a danger in the union movement of neglecting the proclamation of the soul's regeneration. The spiritual as well as the social and ethical gospel must be preached. The worst parts of great cities were not always found in the slums. There was as much hell, Mr. Bingham said, on the boulevard and in the brown stone front houses as in the slums. One might expect a pauper to a peer without changing his heart. Both rich and poor outside of Christ required this change of heart.

Organic church union could never be brought about by a process of addition, but rather of elimination. The Baptists having no formal creeds, no ritualism, no authoritative creed, no rituals or tucks of any kind, had nothing to eliminate, nothing to give up or retain.

Baptism by immersion, while not preferred by all Christians, is at least recognized by all Christian churches as a valid mode of baptism. The whole Christian world did not acknowledge sprinkling or pouring as a valid method, said Mr. Bingham.

EGERTON STREET CHURCH DEDICATED

New Edifice of East End Baptists Is Officially Opened.

BUILDING IS CROWDED

Congregations of 1,200 at Both Services—Rev. W. A. Cameron, Toronto, Speaker.

The opening and dedication services of the new Egerton Street Baptist Church, Toronto, being the special speaker at all the services. The church was crowded to its capacity of 1,200 at each service.

The dedication service, held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, was featured by the presence of 400 children from the Sunday schools, who joined heartily in the hymns and took a great interest in the service.

The pastor of the church, Rev. W. C. Riddiford, occupied the pulpit together with Rev. J. E. Hawkins, of Maitland Street Baptist Church; Rev. H. H. Bingham, Talbot street; Rev. J. H. Boyd, of Adelaide Street Baptist Church; Rev. W. M. Walker, London South Baptist Church, and his brother, Rev. J. A. K. Walker, a missionary who has just returned from India, and who acted the lesson.

Rev. Mr. Cameron delivered the dedication prayer, after which all the ministers present gave short congratulatory messages from their respective congregations.

Rev. Mr. Boyd spoke on behalf of the mother church, Adelaide Street Baptist Church, stating the present situation of the church and its hope of a mission of the Adelaide street congregation and that it was first started in a little house near its present site, with six or seven children attending Sabbath school.

"The progress of this church in the last few years has been phenomenal," said Mr. Boyd, "and I hope it will continue to grow stronger and better. You have the good and able support and encouragement of the Adelaide Street Church. May God bless you in this district in which He has placed you."

Rev. Mr. Bingham, who followed, stated that if Mr. Boyd spoke on behalf of the mother church, he would speak on behalf of the grandmother church, as the Adelaide Street Church was originally the daughter of the Talbot Street Baptist Church.

"My prayer is that the men and women may get a true vision of God, which is the prime object of the church," said Mr. Bingham, "and that many may come in here and be saved and that this church will be the means of sending many missionaries to far off lands."

Rev. Mr. Cameron spoke from the following text in the morning: Luke x, 27, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself."

"Our text has been described as the definition of true religion, but it is impossible to define religion," said Mr. Cameron. "These words of the text are among the most wonderful the earth has ever listened to, and never came from men."

"True religion is not a law but a spirit, not a creed but a life. The heart of man was made for love, and only in the love of Christ can the love of man expand. Love is religion, and religion is love. Love is the very heart of God."

"You will notice the extent of Christ's demand," continued the speaker, "first, 'With all thy heart.' The heart is named first, as the place from which all the rays of the moral life go forth."

"And with all thy soul." The soul is the highest element of our being. It is the divine faculty in us. "And with all thy mind." We are reasonable beings and our service to God must, therefore, be a reasonable service.

"Now, in conclusion," said Mr. Cameron, "let us spend a moment on the last clause, 'And thy neighbor as thyself.' But who is our neighbor? Christ has answered the question. The good Samaritan finds a neighbor where he finds a suffering man, the lesson being more strongly taught by making the helper a Samaritan."

"In this last clause our Master shows the selfishness of His love to God."

At the evening service, William James Riddiford, son of the pastor, had the honor of being the first person baptized in the new edifice.

JIMMY SIMPSON "PANS" ANTI-SUFFRAGE PREMIER

Waxes Merry at Whitney's Expense—M. and M. Parliamentary "Lackeys."

"Mackenzie and Mann don't go to Parliament themselves. If you were to ask them, they would tell you that they don't need to. They have their own lackeys in Parliament to do whatever they wish." So said Controller James Simpson, of Toronto, better known as "Jimmy" Simpson, the darling of the Socialists and laborites of that city, in an address in the "Unique Theatre" here yesterday afternoon on "The Purposes and Power of Socialism."

The Governments of Canada, federal and provincial, have given away 65,000,000 acres of the best land in Canada, $25,000,000 in cold cash, and have endorsed the bonds of railway companies to the extent of $245,000,000," said the speaker. "Today less than forty men in Canada control one-third of the wealth of the whole country."

"Touching on the woman suffrage question, Controller Simpson waxed merry at the expense of Premier Sir James Whitney, of Ontario, who refused to allow franchise to married women who hold property."

"It would seem that he believes a woman's intelligence ceases when she marries and that when her husband says 'No' she must say 'No' again," said Mr. Simpson, who pointed out that the International Socialist movement stands in favor of the enfranchisement of woman on the same terms as men.

The audience was a large and interested one, practically filling the theatre. It was composed of young and old, men and women. The local orators were not in full force, for it was under the auspices of the Social Democratic Party of Canada, local No. 44, that the lecture was given, but there were also present Fabian Christians, Socialists, and sympathizers. "Intellectuals of various other radicals, the questions asked Mr. Simpson at the close of the meeting ranging from the points of Socialism, to the aims and modus operandi of the syndicalists."

"I think I am safe in saying that there is more of the religion of Jesus Christ in the masses here than in the church," said John A. Cottam, in the discussion, "than in all the churches in the city today."

Mr. Sargent, president of the London local, presided in the evening. Mr. Simpson spoke on the evening of the annual custom, several suffragettes interrupted with protests against the torturing of women. The service was delayed several minutes, while two women who were chained to seats were removed. As they were carried out they shouted: "God Save Mrs. Pankhurst."

A crowd this afternoon overran a platform in Hyde Park, where a militant flag-raising, before four men, who were holding a meeting were able to begin their speech. The police got the men to the station for protection with difficulty.

Two meetings in Hyde Park of non-militant suffragettes were broken up and it required a strong police force to quell the disturbances.

Reports that seem to be authentic came tonight that a party of eight men who had ventured too near the crater just before the sixth eruption this forenoon, were overwhelmed by a sudden explosion that sent a mass of rock, ashes and thick smoke some 2,000 feet in the air. There was a seventh outbreak of the peak this evening, and tonight persons at Red Bluff reported that flames could be seen issuing from the greatly enlarged crater.

The latest volcano seemed to be in full eruption after nearly two weeks of what appeared to be geysier activity. Steam and vapor had been emitted, and some rocks and ash had been reported during the intervening outbreaks.

Tonight the decoration committee met at 7 o'clock to be followed by the printing committee at 8:30 Tuesday night the invitation committee must be arranged for getting out the thousands of invitations which will be sent to old boys all over America, and vice, but the work of God is not to be some still further away. STEAMSHIPS ARRIVED.

New York, June 15.—Arrived: Steamers Lapland, Antwerp; California, Glasgow.

NEW YORK, June 15.—With more than 650 persons on board, all of them thankful to have escaped a disaster similar to that in which the Empress of Ireland recently went to the bottom of the St. Lawrence, the American liner New York, a gaping hole in her stern where the Hamburg-American liner Pretoria struck her in the fog off New York early yesterday, reached port safely today.

As the steamer passed Fire Island on her way into port, an impressive service of thanksgiving, presided over by the Rev. Francis E. Clark, of Boston, founder of the Christian Endeavor Society, was held. There was scarcely a dry eye among the congregation while "Nearer, my God, to Thee" was being sung in memory of those less fortunate than the New York's passengers in wrecks at sea.

Coming up the bay this afternoon, the wounded liner wore a big tarpaulin bandage over the gash in her side cut by the Pretoria's prow and anchor. Although the hole covers a range of three of the broad plates of the liner and extends from her upper works to within ten feet of the water line, it was said that repairs would be made immediately to her regular schedule for Europe.

CHATHAM BOY LOSES LIFE IN THAMES RIVER

Gets Beyond His Depth While in Bathing With a Friend.

CHATHAM, June 14.—Francis Salisbury, aged eight, stepson of Frank Oldershaw, was drowned in the Thames near Twickenham Park about four o'clock yesterday afternoon. He went in bathing with a boy chum and got beyond his depth. His chum did nothing to help him, but at once called help. The drowning was notified of the accident and immediately brought the city's new pump motor into commission, but the boy's heart had stopped beating before the alarm was given.

COOK MUST HANG

[Canadian Press.] Quebec, June 15.—Judge Ritchie has refused to grant the application for stay of execution made on behalf of Edward Cook, under sentence of death for the murder of a peddler last December. Cook will be hanged on June 30.

NEURALGIA of the Heart

This Letter Tells of Wonderful Change Effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. James G. Clark, Fosterville, York County, N.B., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from what the doctors said was neuralgia of the heart. The pain started in the back of the neck and worked down into the region of the heart. Though I had taken a lot of medicine of one kind and another, I could not get anything to help me until I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

"When I began this treatment I could not rest in bed, except by sitting upright, on account of the dreadful pains about the heart and the quick, loud beating. The change which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made in my condition is wonderful. It has entirely overcome these symptoms, and is making me strong and well. If this statement will help to relieve the suffering of others, you are at liberty to use it."

BOMB EXPLODED IN A FASHIONABLE CHURCH

Pews and Windows Damaged in St. George's, London—Famous Painting Escapes.

[Canadian Press.] LONDON, June 14.—A bomb was exploded in St. George's Church, Hanover Square, tonight.

There is evidence to show that the explosion was the work of suffragettes, and coming so close upon the bomb outrage in Westminster Abbey, the destruction of this famous edifice has increased alarm as to how far the militant women intend to go.

The caretaker of St. George's had locked the church after a careful inspection on the conclusion of the evening service. A few minutes after ten o'clock a passerby heard an explosion, and summoned the fire brigade. The firemen forcing the doors, found the church filled with a dense smoke. Three pews in the north aisle and three stained windows were damaged by the explosion, while a pew immediately in front of the altar was blown down. Fortunately the famous painting of "The Last Supper" by Sir James Thornhill, which hangs over the altar, was not damaged, although the window above it was splintered.

The firemen found a square tin box and several pieces of candle in the overturned pew, and a member of the congregation said that the pew was occupied at the evening service by a woman in a light dress, who was seen to get up and checked dress. An envelope was found in the church in which was written: "A protest against the torture of women."

It has long been a favorite church for fashionable weddings. Premier Asquith was married in this church, in 1894, and ex-President Roosevelt was married there in 1883.

Scene at St. Paul's. While the judges of the High Courts and the Lord Mayor were attending service in St. Paul's Cathedral today, according to the annual custom, several suffragettes interrupted with protests against the torturing of women. The service was delayed several minutes, while two women who were chained to seats were removed. As they were carried out they shouted: "God Save Mrs. Pankhurst."
