JEWISH PEOPLE OBSERVE FEAST OF THE PASSOVER

Celebrate Anniversary of Liberation From Yoke of Egyptians.

PRAY IN SYNAGOGUE

Merry-Making In Homes Follows Religious Service of Commemoration.

As the sun sank into the west on Saturday the Hebrew race the world over began the celebration of the Feast of the Passover.

For one whole week, especially the first two and the last two days, ceremony of a deeply religious significance will be mingled with feasting and merry-making.

The occasion is the anniversary of the liberation of the Israelites from the yoke of the Egyptian Pharaohs and the subsequent foundation of the Hebrew nation in the land of Canaan. Everywhere devout Jews lift their voices in thanksgiving to Jehovah for his mercies to his chosen people, and everywhere Hebrews revel in their freedom.

Observe Holiday Universally.
Because the exodus from Egypt is considered one of the greatest events in the history of the Jewish people, and because the love for liberty is one of the strongest characteristics of the race, the Feast of the Passover, according to local authorities on the subject, is perhaps the most universally observed holiday and ceremony in the Jewish calendar.

Certainly it is strictly observed in London. Practically every family of the one hundred or so in this city turns to the observance of the traditional customs governing the week.

At dusk on Saturday and yesterday the synagogues were crowded by white-robed figures bent in prayer and worship. The hour of prayer was broken only by the reading aloud from the Biblical script. Reading from the ancient Hebrew script is a difficult task, and so it is done by one especially trained in the work.

With service in the synagogues ended, the worshippers turned to feasting and merry-making, carried on in the following manner: In every home a sumptuous board is spread. At its head the head of the household sits, usually robed in white. Before anyone has partaken of the tempting food he rises and from a great book called the Hagadah, reads aloud a stirring account of the flight of the Jews from the plague-stricken lands of Egypt.

Suddenly, while the story is still unfinished he breaks off and everyone turns to eating. When the meal is ended the reader again picks up the book and reads the story to its happy ending. During the evening every member of the family is required to drink four glasses of sacramental grape wine.

Feast Sumptuously.
Unlike other Jewish holidays, there is no fasting in the week of the Passover. In fact, the table is spread even more sumptuously than ever. The richest and most delicate viands add zest to the meals. No bread is eaten, however. In its place Matzos, or Passover biscuits, is eaten throughout the week.

Matzos is unleavened bread, made entirely of wheat flour and water and resembling soda crackers in formation. It is not without reason that Matzos is substituted for bread. To the Jew it is the symbol of the flight of their forefathers. It is the food that was carried by the Israelites as they sought safety in the wilderness beyond the Red Sea.

When, according to Bible history, after the tenth God-sent plague swept Egypt and Moses had called to the Israelites to desert their toil in the brickyards to follow him, they left so hurriedly that the bread which they prepared for the journey had no time to leaven. As they carried the dough in sacks over the shoulder it is said the heat of the sun baked it into hard biscuits, and so the first Matzos was formed.

It is not considered as wholesome as bread, and so to guard against any untoward incident many nuts are eaten throughout the week. Eggs, too, find a prominent place on the festive tables, as they are considered a symbol of the new-born hopes of the ancient race.

The first two and last two days are considered the most holy of the holiday. On Saturday night, Sunday and on the following Friday and Saturday no work is done, although the Jew is allowed to carry on his daily toil in the intervening days. The synagogues are formally visited only on the holy days.

MAN HAS APPENDIX ON
Doctors At St. Joseph's Hospital Remove Organ From Unique Position.

One of the most extraordinary instances of organic malformation was revealed at St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday, when, during an operation for appendicitis, a man was found to have his appendix on the left side instead of the right side.

A local doctor, who told of the occurrence, said that in his 40 years of practice he had never seen a similar case. The patient, a man of Melbourne, came to the hospital suffering from acute pains on the left of the abdomen. The doctors were puzzled, and several were called in for consultation.

Upon examination it was found that all symptoms pointed to appendicitis, but the phenomenon of the case was that the pain was at the left. The operation showed an inflamed condition, with the appendix situated at the extreme left of the abdomen. Attending practitioners think the condition must have been congenital, as far as they know, only one other similar malformation has ever been discovered in Canada.

Avers U.F.C.-Labor Bloc Workingman's Best Friend

Arthur Mould Asserts Present Administration Has Done More Than Any Government In Past 40 Years.

The U. F. C.-Labor administration at Toronto has done more for the workingmen than any government for the past 40 years, according to Arthur Mould, prominent member of the London Labor party, who delivered one of his characteristic aggressive addresses at the Labor Temple Sunday afternoon.

The gathering was staged primarily to hear Rev. A. E. Smith, former member of the Manitoba Legislature from Brandon, who failed to reach the city as arranged by the local executive.

Colbert Succeeded.
Dr. Hugh A. Stevenson, M.L.A. for London, presided during the early portion of the meeting, and when called to keep an appointment was succeeded by Ald. John Colbert, president of the London Street Railway Men's Union.

Mr. Mould dealt at considerable length with the general labor political movement through the country, reviewing at length the activities of his associates at the recent Brantford convention, at which he attended as a delegate from London.

He traced the records of the old-line parties, agreeing that while they had enacted certain legislation perhaps beneficial to the workers, it was accomplished only as an election shout on the verge of an election, while the Farmer-Labor administration had made possible legislation that had been pigeon-holed by the old-line politicians for years and years.

Discussing the proposed "international cancellation of war debts," one of the important issues at the Brantford assembly, Mr. Mould pointed out that Canada, with a population of 8,000,000, was forced to shoulder a first charge against the federal budget of $150,000,000 interest.

Grappling With Problems.
The leading financiers throughout the country are grappling with the big finance problems of the day, he asserted. They know what they are "up against," he reminded them, "they have the bull by the tail," he asserted, "and they are afraid to let go. They are afraid because they do not know how. It may not be that they would be so much opposed to the cancellation, but once that was effected, even an average man would insist that the internal debts also be cancelled. That would revolutionize the entire system."

"The financiers cannot do it. They know that the system would have to be changed, and the more that I view the situation from the inside, the more convinced I am that we shall live to note a complete change."

"To whom do we owe this?" he asked. H. B. Ashplant questioned the speaker.

"To ourselves," replied Mr. Mould promptly. "I can consistently blame the millionaires if we also continue to bite off a part. I may say as I have before that I do not hold any war bonds. To me they represent 'blood money.' When men gave their lives for the cause of democracy it was a sacrifice. The others should have given their wealth. But they used it some of them, to obtain more, and thereby fasten the shackles tighter upon those who came back and those who are here."

Continuing the speaker explained that a couple of years ago the people did not care to hear the truth. Books upon the subject of alleged "war profiteering" were published but remained unsold.

"The people did not want to hear about those who made thousands with watered bacon," he said, "and let's get on with the war and kill more Germans." Now, however, when men like Lloyd George come out and give assurance that the war might have terminated sooner, we lesser mortals are entitled to speak more freely."

Governed By Banks.

New York Goes Crazy On New Game
It's Simple and "Coo Coo" Is Its Name

New York, April 2.—This city has been inscribed. Each player takes a turn and punches one of the papers out of its hole. The player must then choose the winner of the game. Young and old, crabbled or gay, stuck-up or jolly, they all fall for the newest game, which has been branded as "Coo Coo" by the order of business and school classes. Some of the most dignified members of a gathering invariably get the most undignified things to do and one can imagine the results.

Want To Improve Status.
"We want to improve the general status of the workers in Canada. We can't afford to be in our own pockets, and we are not working for London alone."

Touching again the Brantford convention, Mr. Mould referred briefly to George Halerow, Labor M.L.A. for Hamilton, whom he related, seemed reluctant to be bound strictly by the Labor platform.

"Labor must insist," he warned, "that men standing for the Labor platform must remain true to that platform. If not we should find all heeling their own row, and the speaker said that he would get to what he can for his own little circle."

BULGARIAN MINISTERS
SENTENCED TO PRISON
Cabinet Members Found Guilty of Bringing Country Into War.

Associated Press Despatch.
Sofia, Bulgaria, April 2.—All the members of the Radoslawoff cabinet have been found guilty of the charge of having brought their country into the world war on the German side. All of them have been sentenced to imprisonment.

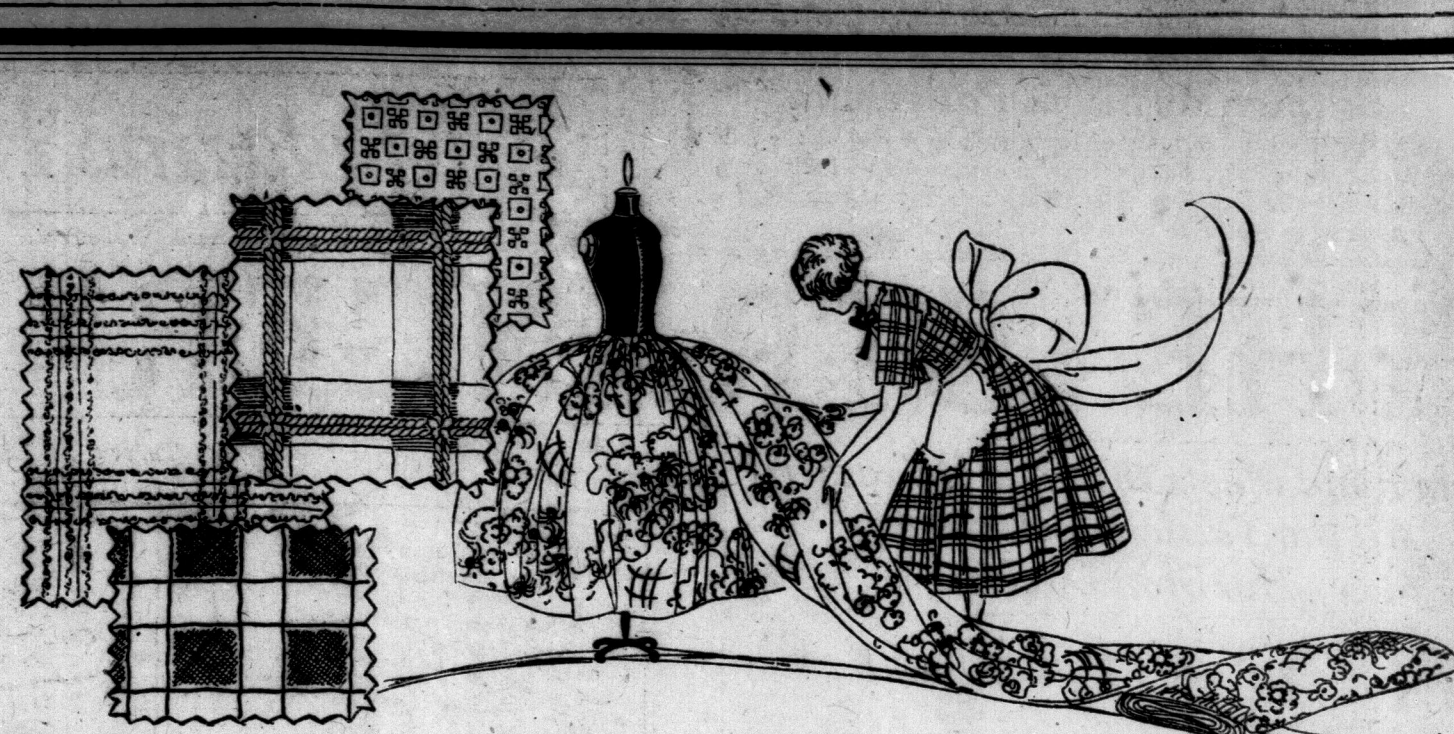

Only five of the accused ministers attended the trial. Mr. Radoslawoff and General Boyadzieff, who was minister of war, fled the country; three of the other ministers are in hospitals, and one of the accused died in prison.

Six of the accused were sentenced to life imprisonment. They are: Yasseli Radoslawoff, former premier and minister of the interior; Dimitri Tomcheff, minister of finance; Pierre Pesheff, minister of public instruction; Dr. P. Dintcheff, minister of agriculture; Ivan Popoff, minister of justice, and Dobry Petkoff, minister of public works. General Nadenoff, former minister of war, was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment, and five other generals from five to ten years.

Three of the convicted men were ordered to pay war damages amounting to 32,700,000,000 lire.

Radoslawoff left Sofia after the Bulgarian collapse in 1918. He went to Berlin, where he remained for a considerable time, but eventually departed from that city, fearing assassination.

K. Apostoloff, former minister of railways, post and telegraphs, and General N. Jekoff, commander-in-chief of the army, both were sentenced to ten years.

Home Sewing Week

The Important Event For Dressmakers and Home Sewers
After Easter, comes home sewing. Increasingly large numbers of women are realizing the importance, advantages, and economy of HOME SEWING. The whole of the coming week is being devoted to demonstrating to you, the materials, necessities, and ideas we have gathered together to make your plans and work as pleasant and easy as possible. HOME SEWING makes for more individuality in dress; you have better materials, better workmanship, and quite often two dresses for the price of one. See the displays of beautiful wash fabrics, household cottons, staples, notions, etc., displayed in our windows and throughout the Main Floor all next week.

THIS STORE THE HOME OF FAMOUS FABRICS
DURO FROTTE, the wonderful Ratine weave that is absolutely fast colors, with plain colors to match the assortment of smart checks and stripes; such new colors as mufin brown, kashan blue, Boermuda rose, indo blue, etc.; 39-inch $1.85

HORROCKSES' MATEEN, a weave of quite new effect, the vogue of the Ratine, suggests such novel fabrics, plain color to match each check and stripe; stunning shades of canary yellow, fiesta (a deeper shade than coral); 33-inch $1.15

DURO SHIRTINGS—The color's there to stay and you can rely on it. A Duro shirt is not going to be a faded shirt. This Shirting is a Madras weave in pretty color stripes on white; plenty to choose from; 32-inch 65c yard

ANDERSON RATINE—The value is big here. A real Ratine because the fabric is woven of what are technically known as Ratine yarns, both weft and warp. This insures against the material slipping. The color range is too big to describe in detail. See display, also shown in white, the very thing for useful wear, children's wear, the beach or for motoring; 35-inch 75c yard

ANDERSON'S CREPE is a cotton canton in weave, very new, much favored for summer dresses, children's wear, etc., and there is a big assortment of pretty new colors. Be sure you see this inexpensive novelty; 36-inch 75c yard

ANDERSON'S GINGHAM—Remember, this famous house makes many lines of Gingham. We sell several qualities, but are noted for our wonderful assortment of the best. Our prices are the lowest, you will agree, when you see the qualities.

About 40 checks and plaids, with plain to match most of them; 32-inch 55c yard

Also fine assortment, branded on selvedge, excellent quality; 32-inch 40c yard

French and Swiss Ratines
Eponge, Homespun, Silk Jersey Ratine, Sponge Cloth, Swiss Crepe Knit, a most comprehensive range of beautiful merchandise, much of it just marked off for this special week. The colors are wonderful, so are the weaves, with stripes, checks, smart checks or stripes; openwork fabrics, fabrics with patterns woven in with the old-time handloom. It is a far cry from the old negro cotton picker to these finished products, which will, we are assured, provide even the most fastidious with summer apparel that is new and very important, that is inexpensive.
