Yesterday about 4.15 p.m. a runaway of an unusually exciting kind varied the monotony of Yonge-street. It gave rise, too, to an act of unusual gallantry on the part of P. C. Wallace, No. 76, who at the risk of his life snecessied in attention.

all day under the shoulder blades, in the left side, and down the back of my limbs. It seemed to be worse to the job.

Down the street the runaways fled, taking the right hand as they passed the sawer excavation, but being unable to reach any more rigs until they neared King-street. Then in quick succession a buggy belonging to Edward E. Klein of Toronto Junction and a wagon, owned by the I. X. L. Laundry felt victims to their prowess. Both were bedly smashed. A moment mose and they would have plunged into the crowded King-street corner with form durded forward, he solsad me horses' heads, there was a brief desparate struggle and the runaway was over. An Interprising Firm.

The firm of A. R. McKinlay & Co., the accessors of the old firm of Macfarlane, successors of the old firm of Macfarlane, McKinlay & Co., who have been manufacturing window shades for the past nine years at 37 St. Alban-street, and whose trade has been steadily increasing each successive year, are now showing a new feature in artistic shades, the sole production of Mr. A. R. McKinlay. These new and unique designs have only been introduced this season and have been received with good favor by the trade generally. The firm are fully supplied with sufficient material to supply all who may favor them with their wants in that line, or in any branch of their trade. They claim now to be producing a shade cloth that is superior to anything that has ever been produced, and they think that they are showing this season some of the prettiest designs in fringes, laces and tassels thathave been shown by any other house in the trade, and invite a careful inspection of their stock either through their representatives on the road or at their factory, where a complete display of samples of everything sold or manufactured by the firm can be seen in their sample room. Many of the new designs which we referred to in the beginning of this notice may be seen displayed in the window of Messis. T. G. Foster & Co. of No. 235 and 237 Yonge-street, and are certainly much to be admired. Mr. McKinlay deserves credit for his new idea of an art blind. McKinlay & Co., who have been manufac

They consist of three sets, each composed of a driving pulley eight feet in diaposed of a driving pulley eight feet in diameter by 50 inches wide, and carrying 24 ropes. The weight of each wheel in the rough is 8250. There are two driven pulleys 64 inches in diameter by 50 inches wide, carrying the same number of ropes, with a weight of 5400 pounds each.

The three sets are the same throughout. These will replace eight-ply rubber band belts. It is claimed that they are the finest pulleys of the kind ever made in Ottawa. They are formed in a continuous circle inside and outside with no marks of cores.

scout For Butterflies and Beetles. The Natural History Section of the Canadian Institute will have their third and las summer excursion next Saturday afternoon, July 30, to Lorne Park. Two copies of a book on butterflies by G. H. French will be given as prizes for the best collections of given as prizes for the best collections of insects made during the afternoon by members or their friends, the collections to be confined to the two orders, Lepidoptera (butterflies and moths) and Coleoptera (beetles). The woods and ravines round Lorne Park afford excellent collecting ground for botanists, as well as entomologists; geological specimens may be found along the lake shores, and reptiles of several kinds in the marshes, so there is every probability that large and interesting collections will be made in the various departments of natural history. At the close, of the afternoon there will be a meeting of the members, and specimens taken during the afternoon will be exhibited and described by the different naturalists. Return tickets for the steamboat can be obtained from Mr. Hollingworth, 394 Yonge-street.

An Explanation. Editor World: In your report of an inter view with W. L. Huddart and myself con cerning the Merritton disaster in your issue of Tuesday a most unjust and untruthfu reflection is cast on the action of Dr. You mans in the following paragraph:

A Dr. Youmans of St. Catharines had his nose split and was so disconcerted that he did not exactly know where he was. When Dr. Wilson discovered that he was a physician he got him to settle down to care for the wounded. settle down to care for the wounded.

No such words were ever used by me and no such impression given. Indeed the facts were quite the contrary, the doctor though painfully injured himself immediately devoted his attention to his less fortunate fellows. Nor did he cease until the last man was removed to the hospital, To him belongs the credit more than to any other of relieving the suffering of the afflicted ones. In all fairness to Dr. Youmans and to simple justice to me I trust you will publish the above,

Don't Want Sunday Excursions. For some weeks the Street Railway en ployes have been agitating the question of a Bunday excursion, and they intend to ask the Mayor. to allow them to charter a boat for the occasion. But it has just occurred to a number of them that they cannot consistently ask people to vote against Sunday street cars when they themselves want to make others lose their Sunday rest. As a result no less than 110 have signed a petition asking the Mayor to use his utmost influence against the proposition. York, via Eric Railway.

life succeeded in stopping the errant team.
The delinquent team was one belonging to Charles Rodgers & Co., 97 Yonge-street, and Charles Gregory was the driver.
Gregory was driving down Yonge-street, when about opposite Albert-street the reins parted and he lost control. The horses started at a comparatively moderate pace down street and passed Queen: at Richmond-street Gregory, finding he had no control over the animals, and thinking discretion the better part of valor, jumped from the wagon and lit on the ground a badly damaged man.

Just after parting company with their driver the team fell foul of two light rigs, one a butcher's cart belonging to William Dancy, Chestnut and Edward-streets, and the other a covered buggy owned by Dr. Page of Bracondale. Both were badly smashed, Dr. Page's buggy looking as if the runaways had devoted full five minutes to the job.

Down the street the runaways fied, taking
