THE REAL WORK.

We must be here to work,
And men who work can only work for men.

And, not to work in vain, must comprehend

Humanity, and so work humanly,
And raise men's bodies, still by raising souls,

As God did first.

—Elizabeth B. Browning.

Follow the Christ, the King!
Live pure! Speak true! Right wrong!
Follow the King!

Else wherefore born?

—Tennyson.

—The end of life is not money, but duty; the law of life is not competition, but co-operation; the bond of life is not self-interest, but brotherhood.
—Rainsford.

The truths which men discover are their servants, not their masters. When a man of science has, by the action of his own mind, developed some hidden law of nature, some general principle of life, that discovery is as if it were his own creation, which might have been lost to the generations but for him. As one of the forces of the world it is an agent, not a lord—to be used, not obeyed. No matter whether it be in physics or morals, the truth has been subjected to man's authoritative tests, has been fused in the crucible of his own mind, has passed under the die of his moulding power; and when it comes forth for the currency of general thought it bears the image and superscription of man, not of God.—A. H. Vinton.
