Flower o' the Corn

Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 75c.

"'Flower o' the Corn' is a Scotch lass, whose father is chaplain to a Scotch regiment, and her life is bound up in a most tragic manner with the fate of one Captain Maurice Raith. War and intrigue in the Lowlands and Southern France form the woof and this love story the web, of a stirring tale."

The Book of the Season

Confessions of a Wife

By Mary Adams

It is the story of a wife from the beginning of courtship and ending about three years after marriage, and it is one of the most intimate heart biographies ever written.

A well-known critic says:

"There is a sense of freshness pervading the whole that lifts it above the ordinary."
