

might illustrate on canvas the horrors of war from the mementoes here left of its ruthless work.

Bullets are picked up and exhibited by the band, and soldiers, who participated in the fray, are comparing at the same time their gathered mementoes and their personal recollections of the bloody field in the long luxuriant grass, one strikes his foot against skulls and bones, mingled with the deadly missiles that brought them to the earth.

In one case a foot protruded with the flesh still partially preserved; in another an entire skeleton lay exposed upon the surface, without any covering whatever. The tatters of what had been his uniform showed that he had been a clergyman.

The Pennsylvania Reserves bivouacked for the night on the ground where they themselves were engaged in deadly strife in the battle fourteen months ago, and the skulls and bones of some of their former companions in arms lay around within the light of their camp-fires.

A soldier of the First Regiment struck his foot against a cartridge box near his tent, and picking it up, read on it the name of an old associate who had been among the missing, and whose death was only known from his prolonged absence.

An officer of my acquaintance recognized the spot where his tent was pitched, and near which he was severely wounded, and where he lay through a long, weary night, by the side of a dead Captain. The painful reminiscences which the place called up rendered it impossible for him to remain long in that spot.

To the MORTUARY OF LIVER COMPLAINT.—Among the wonderful medical properties which have rendered HOPKINS'S STOMACH BITTERS prominent among the health-restoring preparations of the age, its medicinal virtues are not the least remarkable. No words can do justice to its marvellous effect upon the diseased liver.

READ THIS!

Still another of our well-known and highly respectable neighbors has come forward, under a sense of duty, and made the following statement:—

St. Constant, Dist. of L'Assomption, May 25th, 1862.

Messrs. Devins & Bolton, Drug-gists, next the Court-house, Montreal:

Dear Sirs,—When I began writing BOSTON'S SCARF-BARKER, I had been for nine months suffering with rheumatism, and had completely lost the use of my legs, being unable to walk during four months out of the nine.

Very respectfully yours, THOMAS QUELLIAN.

This peculiar kind of infection which we call Scrophulous lumps in the constitution of multitudes of men. It either produces or is produced by an unwholesome, vitiated state of the blood, wherein that fluid becomes incompetent to sustain the vital forces in their vigorous action.

contamination is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered digestion from unwholesome food, impure air, fish and filthy habits, the depressing virus, and above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending from parents to children, and the third and fourth generation; indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is compounded from the most effectual antidotes that medical science has discovered for this afflicting distemper, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That it is far superior to any other remedy yet devised, is known by all who have given it a trial.
