

ably planned, and infinitely superior to that from Suakim and Berber, advocated by Gordon. That it was too late, was due to the miserable vacillation of a Government that reckoned party and politics of more account than human life or the honour of their country.

THE END.