Rule 112. At the first meeting of the Library Committee, in each Session of Parliament, the Librarian shall report a list of books absent at the commencement of the Session, specifying the names of any persons who have retained the same, in contravention of any of the foregoing Rules.

During the Session of Parliament, as well as during the Recess, no book shall be lent to any person who is not a Member of this House. (Order by the Library Committee, February 12th, 1878.)
