desperate counter-attacks. He is evidently estimating from his own experience that the allies cannot maintain their present pace for long; but

General Maurice speaks to the contrary, for he says that a greater British offensive than the offensive at Arras is coming. Enough has developed from the present effensive to show that the enemy has gravely underestimated the fighting power of the British army. It has greatly surprised him to discover the immense increase in British strength, the immense improvements in British tactics, and the fresh superiority of the British artillery and aviation services since the opening of the Somme engage-

Altho the British aviators have gained a marked ascendancy over the German aviators and are destroying many of the foe every day, they still have to fight many hundreds of fresh German machines. The new aircraft produced by the enemy as if from Pandora's box are of extremely gaudy hues and often fantastic shapes. The British pilots, however, despatch business in the same old way and they display greater daring and more skilful handling of their machines.

The French forward movement progressed mainly by local advances yesterday. The chief work is now to clear the enemy out of various islands in the conquered ground where he is holding out in expectation of help from his beaten comrades. The French made progress at the following points: North of Saney, Chevreux sector, northwest of Prosnes, and the northern slopes of the Vauclerc Plateau. Heavy German counter-attacks northeast of Soissons and north of the Aisne went the way of their previous ones. The French parried the blows

New York, May 10.—Three dramatic events which will become historic in the annals of New York marked the activities of the French war mission here today. In their chronological order they were:

Berlin, May 10.—Via London.—The German statement follows:

"Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht—On the Arras front the artilizery battle continues with increasing violence. Our trenches to the west of Lens and Avion were the objective yesterday of fruitless enemy operations. Fresnoy remained entirely in our hands in spite of repeated British attacks. The fighting for possession of Bullecourt still fluctuates.

"Army group of the German Crown Prince—Between Soissons and Rheims the fighting was again more active at some points, but generally speaking, it was confined to moderate limits. At Winterburg and at Saint Marie farm French attacks, repeated several times, were repulsed after bitter fighting and by a counter-attack. Northwest of Prosnes the enemy attempted docal advances without avail.

"Army group of Duke Albrecht—Operations by German reconnoitring detachments in several sectors book a favorable course.

"Nine enemy airplanes were brought down in aerial battles and one by the fire of our enti-aircraft guns."

Conference Deplores Conduct of Workmen Over Dilution of Labor.

London, May 10.—A long official re-port of a conference of fifty trades unionists connected with engineering and shipbuilding industries, which and snipourding shoustries, without was held at the ministry of munitions today, reveals, according to a statement issued by Arthur Henderson minister without portfolio, who presided, the existence of strikes of enineers in various parts of the coun try which are "gravely impeding the supply of certain vital munitions which are being pressed for by the army in France."

The conference was addressed by Mr. Henderson, Dr. Christopher Addison, minister of munitions; John John Hodge, minister of labor; and Frederick G. Kellaway, secretary to the minister of munitions. All their speeches were devoted to showing that the measures being adopted by the government for the dilution of private labor, which apparently pre-voked the strikes, were only emergency war measures, which would not be permanently detrimental to the interests of the trades unionists.

The conference passed a resolution Major-General Maurice confirms previous estimates that the German casualties in the western theatre of the war have been terribe and incomparably larger than the British casualties. The success of this offensive in its first month is great. The Anglo-French forces have captured about 50,000 prisoners and 450 guns in the past month. They have taken twice the number of prisoners, four times the amount of ground, and five times the number of guns taken on the Somme. The Arras offensive is much bigger than that of the Somme. The next offensive will be much bigger than the Arras one. He said that there was no indication that the Germans had withdrawn troops from the eastern front. Speaking of the recent loss of Fresnoy, Gen. Maurice said that it has neither caused surprise nor upset the British plans of operations. The British staff has been surprised that the Germans had not succeeded before in making gains in view of the tremendous counter-attacks. deprecating the strikes. The ministers, on their part, undertook to discuss amendment to any bills objected to, which are still before parliament.
