THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY PROJECT.

The bill to amend the Dominion Lands Act introduced in the House of Commons on Tuesday by Hon. Frank Oliver, is mainly important from the fact that it will afford the Government a means of raising the money necessary for the construction of a railway to Hudson Bay.

Parliament, which recognizes that the growing needs of the Canadian West demand a new outlet to the markets of Great Britain, has already approved the railway project, and the Government, by this measure, proposes, if it is found necessary to pledge the country sufficiently to build or aid in building the railway, to provide a new source of revenue under which the country will not run the risk of loss.

The old way of granting aid would have been to give the promoters 12,900 acres of land per mile, but the Government has rejected for all time the policy of land grants. The new way will be to give settlers and homesteaders the right of pre-empting certain lands at $3 per acre and thus create a fund to aid in financing the road. For this purpose there will be set apart 28,000,000 acres of land in Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan, in what is known as the semi-arid belt. A settler or homesteader in this area can pre-empt 160 additional acres at the price named and can get his patent after he has resided six years on his homestead.

An unofficial estimate places the cost of the railway at $30,000 a mile, or $15,000,000 for the 500 miles of road. With 28,000,000 acres available there should be no difficulty in disposing of 6,000,000 acres at $3 an acre, which would produce the amount required. As to how the proposed railway will be built is as yet a matter of speculation, the Government's policy not having been announced.

The country's experience of Government-owned railways has been unhappy, and in this case there are exceptional difficulties in the way of making it a national enterprise. If it were only 500 miles long it would be at the mercy of the Canadian Northern, and to connect it with the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Pacific it would be necessary to extend it 250 miles farther. Only by that means could the new road be brought into touch with the business of the more settled portions of the west. It would also be left to the Government to arrange for the handling of freight during the few months each year the bay and straits are open. There would be needed in addition large storage elevators and a line of steamers to carry freight, and arrangements would have to be made at Liverpool for a fleet of steamers to leave for the bay on the opening of navigation.

All of this work, together with the making of necessary commercial arrangements for distributing the freight on the other side of the Atlantic, is more than any Government should undertake. Besides it would be to the interest of the three big railway systems to keep traffic from a Government line.

Another suggestion made is that the Government build the road and lease to a company by an arrangement of similar to that made with the Grand Trunk Pacific in regard to the lines from Winnipeg to Moncton.

Still another plan is that the Government aid a company to build the railway, and in return for such aid be given the right to control rates and intervene generally for the protection of the shipping public. The Canadian Northern or any other company may be expected to look for more than a guarantee of its bonds. Unlike the prairie systems of other western roads, the proposed railway would have no immediate prospect of traffic along its route. Everything would depend on through-trade to Britain, and years might elapse before it proved profitable. The company would doubtless expect a guarantee of its bonds to be supplemented by direct cash assistance.

The fact that Mr. Oliver spoke of the Government giving "adequate aid" to such a railway would seem to indicate that the Government does not contemplate either building or operating the road.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Grover Cleveland was for years before his death the only surviving ex-president of the United States. He was the only Democrat who had filled that high office since Buchanan's retirement in 1861. He was first elected over Blaine in 1884, but was narrowly defeated by Harrison four years later. He retained his hold on the confidence and affection of the Democratic party, and was again its successful standard-bearer in the fall of 1892. He was succeeded by McKinley in March, 1897.

Cleveland was indisputably the most notable public figure in the United States, and the greatest president since Lincoln. He was not a brilliant man, but he had character and moral courage. During his first administration he curbed extravagance, reformed many abuses, and immeasurably raised the tone of politics. His outstanding act was his attack upon protection. He carried his party with him in his crusade for a revenue tariff, and it was his winning cry in 1892, after his exclusion from office for a term. He kept the faith, but was betrayed by a clique of Democratic senators, who mutilated the tariff measure of the House of Representatives in behalf of the protected interests. He refused to sign the amended bill, terming it party perjury and dishonor, but he allowed it to become law.

During his second term he came into conflict with the larger section of his party on the silver question. He resolutely repelled every attack upon the gold standard, and with voice and pen waged war on the free silver heresy. To Cleveland more than to any other man, or any influence, the United States owed its escape from financial shipwreck. Even a portion of the Republican party had become infected with the silver craze. His opponents and former friends united in heaping obloquy upon his head, and no president since the civil war was more execrated by large numbers of his countrymen.

The industrial depression due to the currency agitation was attributed by the protectionists to the mild measure of tariff reduction, and the responsibility was also laid at the door of Cleveland as the champion of tariff reform. When he finished his second term in 1897 he appeared to be disgraced and discredited in the eyes of the majority of the American people. But he was vindicated by time and events, and his old prestige and popularity revived before his death. For the past few years he held a unique place in public estimation. No man's place was more eagerly listened to, not even Roosevelt's—or carried greater authority. His countrymen came to recognize at last his courage, his probity, his patriotism, and his lofty ideals of public life and duty.

The Cossacks had a hand in the butchery at Teheran. Is Russia behind the bloody work?

Three Rivers, Que., has three rivers in the neighborhood, but it is a safe wager that it had no high-pressure system.

The Ottawa Opposition has decided to drop the Hodgins charges. But will it take back the slanders for which the charges were made a pretext?

Premier Whitney wants another imperial conference called at once. It was said of the historian Gibbon that he came to believe he was the Roman Empire. Perhaps Mr. Whitney thinks he's the whole British Empire since his famous victory.

Our local contemporary pretends to something inconsistent in The Advertiser's advocacy of a water scheme in which "filtered river water is the chief feature." Filtered river water for what? For fire protection only—not for drinking. The Advertiser has never contended that filtered river water was not fit to put out a fire with. Why cannot our contemporary be straightforward in its discussion of this question? A few months ago it denounced high-pressure as a fad and said the last had been heard of it in London. Now it claims that high-pressure was the strong point in the bylaw which was defeated on Monday.

A DISTINGUISHED AMATEUR.
[Toronto Telegram.]
Assuredly Lord Alverstone ought to be a good judge of amateurs, his lordship having proved himself the rankest kind of amateur in diplomatic conflict with the Yankees.

A ROMANY RIOT.
[Standard of Empire.]
The gypsies who gathered at Epsom for the Derby from all parts of the country, in accordance with their annual practice, showed that they had lost none of the amateur instinct which distinguished Jasper Petulengro, Tawno Chikno and the old race of fifty years ago, whose prowess is told in Browne's immortal works, "Lavengro" and the "Romany Rye". Several families who were returning from Epsom in nine caravans had a dispute about money matters on the road. At Coulsden, in Surrey, the procession came to a halt, while the gypsy women exchanged taunts and insults in Romany. Eventually the men were worked up to a terrible pitch of excitement, and a general fight broke out. Both men and women joined in the women scratching and tearing at hair, and the men using knives and clubs. When the riot had lasted for twenty minutes the landlord of a local inn formed a phalanx of villagers, and charged at their head into the midst of the melee. The riot was eventually suppressed, and it was found that 84 men and women had received cuts, bruises and other injuries.

PRETTY GOOD MEN.

[Toronto Globe.]
Speaking on this subject in a Toronto church on Sunday last, Rev. Dr. Shearer, secretary of the board of moral and social reform of the Presbyterian Church, testified that, after extensive and close-range dealing with the large majority of the politicians of both parties, not only in the Dominion Parliament, but also in all the Provincial Legislatures, his deliberate judgment is that the typical Canadian politician is above the average of our citizenship alike in caliber and in character.

A GREAT OUTLOOK.

[Montreal Herald.]
Five million acres under crop, half of it in wheat, the promise of the best crop in history, present worth for 25,000 more men and 5,000 more women. That is the cheerful budget from the Canadian West. They may keep the bulletins coming as fast as they like.

EMPIRE DAY.

[Alfred Noyes, in London Daily Mail.]
There was a queen of the seas "ere the world was made."
Her robes were fairer than rainbows, her crown was brighter than gold;
The cliffs of her sunlit island were white as the clouds above;
The light of her scepter was Freedom, the base of her throne was Love.

And roundabout her porches, clustering warm and close,
Children and children's children like olive branches rose.
And they listened the deep sea music that brought their souls to birth,
And their sails broke out in adventure as the flowers break out of the earth.

They left the land that nursed them, and over the wandering foam,
With the strength that their mother gave them in the old fair days at home,
With the faith that their souls might fight when they clung around her knees,
They builded them cities and nations beyond the sunning seas.

She watched them growing in honor, and her soul increased in pride,
And whenever a fathom threatened, her sword flashed out at their side;
She watched them growing in stature till they needed her now no more;
And her wise men said: "They have left thee! Now close and bar the door."

"Close it, for these are thy children," a bitter and thankless name,
A serpent's tooth in the darkness, a jest in the sun's broad shine;
Close it, for they have left thee, as children will at the last;
Come, set your house in order, and let the past be past!"

She said: "I was young and they loved me; and now I am growing old,
I have yet a dream of fulfillment, ere the gray quite cover the gold;
I have dreamed of the end of battles, and a kingdom of love to be;
When the poor and the weak shall be helped, if my children stand by me."

"I have dreamed of the end of battles, and a world made fair and good,
When the great confederate nations establish their brotherhood;
Yea, now, that my children desire it, that deep old dream comes true,
For, with half the world united, the world may be made anew."

A sound like the sound of an ocean that yearned through time and space,
An ocean of worshipping faces that surged to her glorious face,
An ocean of rolling thunder that swelled to the full and was dumb;
"Mother, England, our Mother, speak, and thy children come!"

Head Chief—Terrible, sire. His struggles were frightful.
Cannibal King—Well, serve him as a piece of resistance.

HUNTING COVOTES IN MANITOBA.

[Canadian Cor. Forest and Stream.]
Hunting for young covotes is all the rage here now. The method of securing them is to take a collie dog and go to the haunts of the covotes here, generally in thick, scrubby undergrowth. When the old covote sees the collie she runs to the den where the young are, and the collie follows and barks at the den. Then the hunters dig out the young.

Alexander Almo and his son dug out fourteen from two dens one day last week. Another man got 35, and this man has brought in all in 94.

There is a bounty of $2 on each covote paid by the Government. The covotes are pointed in several districts of the Province.

THE FOREST FIRE.

[Walter Dunn, in Denver Post.]
A lighted match and a careless man,
And a noble forest's grave!
And wild winds every flame to fan—
Is there no power to save?

Mark how the frightened deep-wood things,
Shrink back as the monarchs fall!
And the doe's shrill voice with distraction rings
As she bellows her warning call.

Great pines that have stood for a hundred years
Go thundering down to doom,
And the wood things, stunned by a thousand fears,
Stand crazed in the crash and boom.

The red glare grows and the terrors spread—
As only such terrors can;
And the blame should fall on a single head—
The head of the careless man.

WHERE BRITAIN SCORES.

[New York Tribune.]
The most significant incident of the last twenty years has been Great Britain's masterful re-entry into continental politics and diplomacy under the lead of King Edward. The close relations between Great Britain and the four Latin powers—especially close with France—have been the British rapprochement with Russia, make a striking contrast to the days when Great Britain was in "splendid isolation." France also was isolated, and Germany was allied secretly with Russia and openly with Italy and Austria-Hungary, and enjoyed an unchallenged supremacy in continental councils.

INSTANTLY KILLED BY LIVE WIRE

Hamilton Carpenters Meet a Swift and Horrible Death at Work.

Hamilton, June 25.—A swift and horrible death overtook Albert E. Scotney and George Bambrick, two carpenters, yesterday, both men being electrocuted and horribly burned by the electric power wire at B. Greening's wire works on Queen street. They were erecting a shed in the rear of the Queen street mill, and the guy wire attached to the power pole interfered with their work. They had released this, and were carrying it away, when it crossed over the wire which carried power to the transformers, and a current of 2,000 volts passed through them. They were dragged a short distance and fell into a pool of water, and while they lay on the ground the swinging wire, charged with the deadly current, kept touching their bodies, causing long streams of flame to fly out. They lived but a very short time after the first shock.

There were no witnesses of the accident, but some workmen who were near were soon on the scene, and knocked the wire away with a pole. Dr. Gilrie and Coroner Anderson were quickly called to the spot, but the unfortunate men were beyond human help.

CHAIRMAN GIBBONS HAS RETURNED

From a Meeting of the International Waterways Commission.

Mr. George C. Gibbons, K. C., chairman of the Canadian section of the International Waterways Commission, has returned from Toronto where he has been attending a meeting of the joint commissions.

The discussion was largely about the boundary between Canada and the United States along the St. Lawrence River, and as far west as Lake Superior.

The meeting was just one of the many meetings "we have held," said Mr. Gibbons. "There is nothing for publication. We are making a rapid progress as we can with a very difficult problem, and it will be some time yet, perhaps two years, before the final award is made by the joint commission. There is a great deal of ground to be covered, and a vast amount of material to go over, so you see it is impossible to hurry the matter to a conclusion."

A treaty between Canada and the United States will be based on the final award of the commissions.

LATE MRS. GRAHAM

Funeral at Glenoe Was Very Largely Attended.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Dunlop Graham, which was held from the family residence at Glenoe, June 24, was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased.

The cortege, which was over a mile long, gave evidence of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The end came very unexpectedly, and was a great shock to her relatives and friends, both around Glenoe and Dorchester station, where she spent her girlhood days.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers, of this city. Mrs. Graham has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in his sad bereavement.

She is survived by her husband, her father and mother, of Dorchester Station; her sisters, Mrs. James Duncan, and Miss Mary Bell, of London; Mrs. Chas. Busby, of Sarnia, and Miss Addie, of Dorchester, and six brothers, Edwin and Ewen, of London; James and Milton, of Dorchester; Ephraim, of Calgary, and Benjamin, of Detroit.

WRIGHT-DREW

Pretty Wedding Performed by Rev. Canon Hague.

One of the prettiest of June weddings was that performed by the Rev. Canon Hague, of the Memorial Church last evening when Miss Ethel Drew, daughter of Mr. Alfred Drew, of 720 William street, became the wife of Mr. Geo. E. Wright, of 739 Richmond street.

The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents at 8 o'clock.

Miss Harriet Drew assisted her sister and Mr. Wright was attended by Mr. A. B. Smith, of this city.

The happy young couple will reside on Grosvenor street.

ST. HYACINTHE BANK TAKEN BY MONTREAL

The Latter Will Guarantee Depositors Against Loss.

Montreal, June 25.—The Bank of Montreal has taken over the Bank of St. Hyacinthe, an action that will guarantee the depositors.

This decision was reached yesterday afternoon during a conference between the St. Hyacinthe directors and the Bank of Montreal management.

Today the latter will open a branch in St. Hyacinthe, occupying the premises of the defunct institution.

Heavy advances to the southern counties railway, which went into liquidation, and a steady run caused by the alarm following La Banque de St. Jean suspension were the causes that led to the closing of the St. Hyacinthe institution. Hon. M. E. Bernier of the railway commission and Senator Desaulles are the heaviest stockholders.

A Day of Picnics at Springbank River Park Is Very Popular Now

Local People and Outsiders Enjoy Themselves Down the River.

Springbank Park seems to be coming to the front as the ideal spot for holding picnics in this part of Middlesex. People from all over the county gathered there yesterday, no less than eight picnics being in progress during the afternoon, to say nothing of innumerable little family parties who had their suppers by the river bank or under the trees. A great many citizens came down after tea and spent the evening.

The park probably never looked prettier, the recent rains having imparted to the trees and shrubs that delightful invigorating green that is so pleasing to the eye.

Many of the older people from St. Johns, Hyde Park and other places, who were picnicking there and had not seen Springbank for many years expressed themselves as much surprised at the beautiful appearance of the park.

The Maccabees.

One of the principal picnics of the day was that of a party of Maccabees made up of the different local lodges, and some out-of-town visitors.

This party arrived early in the afternoon, and the visitors, especially, were delighted to find that London had such a beautiful park.

The local Maccabees took them in charge, showing them the reservoir, the pump-house and other points of interest.

A programme of sports was arranged and carried out on the grounds west of the ball diamond.

In the standing broad jump, Mr. Adkins also won first, and Mr. Ballantyne second.

The most amusing feature of the programme was a baseball throwing contest in which the ladies took part. Miss Long, of London, winning first prize and Mrs. Mann, of Aylmer, second.

Prize-winners.

The other prize-winners were: Men's race, 100 yards—Sir Knight W. King, Aylmer, 1; Sir Knight C. B. Adkins, Springfield, 2; Sir Knight Alex. Wootton, 3.

Married ladies' race—Mrs. M. Morrow, 1; Mrs. Bartlett, 2; Mrs. Hutchinson, 3.

Single ladies' race—Miss Trim, Aylmer, 1; Miss Kirkpatrick, London, 2; Miss Henderson, London, 3.

Married men's race—C. B. Adkins, Springfield, 1; W. Hartson, London, 2. Single men's race—W. King, Aylmer, 1; J. Goldberg, 2; J. Ballantyne, London, 3.

Girls' race, under 12—Ella Spence, 1; Emma Dicken, 2; I. Sleeper, 3.

Boys' race, under 12—Fred Shaddock, 1; Edwin Spence, 2.

Eggs and spoon race—Miss Ethel Lyon, 1; Mrs. Lyon, 2.

Supper was served in the rear of the pavilion, after which a musical programme was rendered, including numbers by Miss Stewart, of Springfield; Miss E. Long, Miss M. H. Hewer and Miss M. Hewer.

Provincial Commander Trussler, of Camlachie, gave an address of a fraternal nature and the programme was brought to a close by a fancy drill, in which the ladies of the Springfield, Forest City and Aylmer hives took part.

Butchers and Grocers' Picnic.

A large party of the local butchers and grocers spent the afternoon at the park, and made things lively for quite a while by engaging in a keenly contested baseball match.

By some good hitting the grocers succeeded in winning out, the score being 9 to 5. Messrs. Russel and Simon were the batteries for the

Hyde Park Methodists.

Early in the afternoon about fifty of the members of the Hyde Park Methodist Sunday School arrived, and spent a most enjoyable time for the rest of the day.

Shortly after their arrival they were joined by another party from the Methodist Sunday School of St. John's.

Both churches are under the pastorate of Rev. John Mayham, who with the assistance of the Sunday school superintendents, arranged many games for the younger people.

Many of the adults visited the pump-house, the reservoir and other points.

Red Men, Too.

In the evening a number of Indians who are picking berries on the farms nearby, picnicked in the park, many of them taking in the show in the evening.

The theater appears very popular. Manager Stoddart giving the people their money's worth.

St. Andrew's Sunday School.

The members of the Sunday school orchestra of St. Andrew's Church also held an outing in Springbank Park yesterday afternoon.

About forty of the members were present, and an enjoyable time was spent. Baseball and other games were indulged in, but no programme of sports had been arranged.

Askin Street League.

The Epworth League of the Askin Street Methodist Church held its annual picnic down the river yesterday afternoon and evening.

It is estimated that at least 200 members and their friends turned out.

The boys' branch of the institutional department picked teams, and played a very fast game of baseball.

A good programme of sports was carried out.

The following is the list of prize-winners:

Boys' 100-yard race—Jack Reynolds, Bert Allison, Bert Ravenscroft, Girls' 50-yard race—May Norris, Carrie Fitchett, Alice Allport.

Pole vault—Farrier Gilbert, Wm. McFarland, winner's vault, 8 feet.

Needle and thread race—Miss May Deacon, Farrier Gilbert.

Boys' standing broad jump—Jack Reynolds, Harry Vanstone, Bert Allison.

Pig race—Miss Edith Glanville, Leslie Jones.

Senior, hop, step and jump—Jack Reynolds, Harry Vanstone, Bert Ravenscroft. Winner's distance, 25 feet.

Senior, 100-yard race—Farrier Gilbert, Jack Reynolds, Geo. Wilson. Winner's time, 11 seconds.

Wheelbarrow race—Bert Ravenscroft, Willie Kennedy.

Several other events were called off on account of darkness.

The programme of sports was in charge of Mr. Bert Childs, president of the institutional department of the Epworth League.

After the sports had been carried out the picnickers were grouped and photographed.

Torrid Term in Chicago—U. S. Treasurer Treat Prostrated in New York.

Chicago, June 24.—Chicago has cool weather today. The hot wave which prevailed for five days was broken Tuesday night.

Tuesday's death list as the result of the heat was the largest for any one day in the city's history. Sixteen persons died either directly or indirectly as the result of the temperature.

Cleveland, June 24.—Mrs. Amelia Schwab dropped dead, a victim of the heat, and many prostrations were reported from various parts of the city Tuesday.

New York, June 24.—United States Treasurer Charles H. Treat was overcome by the heat Tuesday. His condition is not serious.

Amherst, N. S., is supplied with electric power and light generated from the waste products of a coal mine. This is in accordance with Mr. Edison's prophecy that the future site of electric generation would be at the pit's mouth.

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures sick women.

Miss M. R. Morin, 335 Ontario St., Montreal, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I was in very poor health and doctored for months, receiving very little benefit. I had lost all ambition, was nervous, and subject to dizzy spells and painful periods each month."

A friend suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the proper medicine for me. I procured a bottle of this remedy and began taking, and before it was finished, I felt so much better that I continued its use and gave it a thorough test, with the result I am to-day well and a much healthier girl than I was three years ago. I have no more painful periods, dizziness or nervous troubles."
