

The Star

Established in 1818. Under the title of "The Star," Whole No. 1141.

ST. JOHN, TUESDAY, APRIL 7, 1840.

VOL. XII. No. 41.

PUBLISHED ON TUESDAYS, BY DONALD A. CAMERON, Office in Prince William-street, near the Market square, over the Marine Assurance Office. Terms—15s. per annum, exclusive of postage, half in advance.

Weekly Almanack.

APRIL—1840.	SUN	MOON	FULL
	Rises.	Sets.	Rises.
8 WEDNESDAY	5 28	6 36	1 20
9 THURSDAY	5 26	6 37	2 8
10 FRIDAY	5 25	6 38	2 44
11 SATURDAY	5 23	6 39	3 12
12 SUNDAY	5 20	6 41	3 35
13 MONDAY	5 18	6 42	3 54
14 TUESDAY	5 16	6 43	4 12

First Quarter 9th, 1h. 43m. morning.

BANK OF NEW-BRUNSWICK.

CHAS. LEAVELL, Esq., President.
Discount Days...
Hours of Business, from 10 to 3.

COMMERCIAL BANK OF NEW-BRUNSWICK.

HEAVY GILBERT, Esq., President.
Discount Days...
Hours of Business, from 10 to 3.

BANK OF BRITISH NORTH AMERICA.

R. H. LISTON, Esq., Manager.
Discount Days...
Hours of Business, from 10 to 3.

NEW-BRUNSWICK FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Office open every day, (Sundays excepted), from 11 to 5 o'clock.
JOHN EYD, Esquire, President.

NEW-BRUNSWICK MARINE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

Office open every day, (Sundays excepted), from 10 to 5 o'clock.
JAMES KING, Esquire, President.

The Garland.

From Fisher's Drawing Room Scrap Book.

HOUSEHOLD TREASURES.

What are they? gold and silver,
Or what such ore can buy?
The pride of silken luxury;
Rich robes of Tyrian dye;
Guests that were thronging in,
With loudly proud and state;
Or thankful, liveried, serving men,
To stand about the gate?
Or are they daintiest meats,
Sent up on silver tines?
Or golden chased cups, or brimmed
With rich, pale ale and wine,
Or parchments setting forth
Broad lands our fathers held,
Parks for our deer, ponds for our fish,
And woods that may be felled?
No, no, they are not these, or else
God help the poor man's need!
There, sitting 'mid his little ones,
He would be poor indeed!
They are not these! our household wealth
Belong not to degree,
It is the love within our souls—
The children at our knee!
My heart is filled with gladness
When I behold how true
How bright are rich men's children
With their thick, golden hair;
For I know 'mid countless treasures,
Gleaned from the east and west,
These living, loving human things,
Are still the rich man's best!
But my heart overfloweth to mine eyes,
And a prayer is on my tongue,
When I see the poor man's children,
The toiling, though the young,
Gathering with sunlight hands
The dusty wayside flowers.
Alas! that pasture symbolize
Lily's after, darker hours.

My heart overfloweth to mine eyes,
When I see the poor man stand,
After his daily work is done,
With children by the hand,
And that sweet names do call,
For I know he has no treasure,
Like these dear children small.

Oh, children young, I bless ye,
Ye keep such love alive;
And the home can never be desolate,
Where love has room to thrive!
Oh, precious household treasures,
Lily's sweetest, lily's claim;
The Saviour bless'd ye white on earth,
I bless ye in his name.

The foregoing is beautifully illustrated in a highly finished engraving, representing a blooming mother receiving the loving embraces of two infantine prattlers. A lap-dog appears conspicuously in the group, and looking wistfully upwards, as careless of the divided attention bestowed upon him by the daughter, and envying to the young archer brother the unalloyed delight upon which he has climbed, in resting his ruddy cheek upon that of his fond parent.

THE FORSAKEN.

He never meets me, as of old,
As friends, less cheris'd, meet me;
His glance is ever calm and cold,
To welcome, or to greet me:
His sighs ne'er follow where I move,
Or tell what others' sighs do—
But though his lips ne'er say "I love,"
I often think his eyes do!

He never turns amid the throng,
Where colder eyes will listen;
Or gives one thought to that poor song,
Once made his eyes' glister:
But sometimes, when our glances meet,
As looks less warm—more wise—do,
Albeit his lips ne'er say, "his sweet,"
I often think his eyes do!

Oh! brighter smiles than mine may glaze
His hours of mirth, or sorrow;
And fierer forms than mine may pass
Across his path, to-morrow:
But something whispers solace yet,
As stars through darken'd skies do,
His lips ne'er say, "I don't forget,"
I often think his eyes do!

Miscellaneous.

HISTORY OF THE BRITISH TRADE WITH CHINA.

In a former article we gave some account of the opium trade to China. We are now about to give a brief history of the commerce between that country and Europe, which, from its great value and apparent interest, notwithstanding the hostility the Chinese rulers have generally shown to foreign commerce, it is notorious to all acquainted with the manners and customs of the people, that they are eminently mercantile and trading in their habits, and are restricted only by their Government from carrying on trade with Europeans to a large extent. The conquest of the country by the Tartars subjected it to the rule of princes who had lived in an inland and central portion of a mighty continent, the habits of the people of which were such as to be entirely independent of all commerce, foreign or domestic, and who, roaming from place to place with their tents, and living entirely upon their flocks and herds, had no need for any other articles than such as they could procure from the soil. The Tartar rulers engrained their antipathy to commerce upon the natural jealousy of foreign intercourse common to oriental courts; and the result has been the confinement of the foreign trade of the most populous empire of the globe to a few ports, and to a few cities, to two cities in the district of Quanghai, Macao and Canton. China was but little known to the ancients, though even before the Christian era it had attained a high degree of civilization. At a very early period, its silk, raw, felt, manufactures, the English, in anticipation of an attack on Macao by the French, landing troops there for the defence of the Portuguese, their allies. The Viceroys refused to open it until every soldier had been embarked, with the exception of a few, who were left to guard the fort. The chief product of the country, was not then known in Europe, nor, indeed, until a long time after. The Arabs were the first traders and carried on a regular trade as more than a century ago, in 1513, five vessels, under the command of Captain Waddell, were dispatched, and conveying letters from Queen Elizabeth to the Emperor, but they were unfortunately lost upon the voyage out, and the attempt was not for a long time afterwards renewed. In 1577, five vessels, under the command of Captain Waddell, were dispatched, and conveying letters from Queen Elizabeth to the Emperor, but they were unfortunately lost upon the voyage out, and the attempt was not for a long time afterwards renewed. In 1577, five vessels, under the command of Captain Waddell, were dispatched, and conveying letters from Queen Elizabeth to the Emperor, but they were unfortunately lost upon the voyage out, and the attempt was not for a long time afterwards renewed.

SCOTLAND.

Scotland is a mountainous and irregular country, but its dimensions may be roughly estimated that length, 250 miles, extreme breadth 180. Extent of surface in square miles 32,167. Its population in 1831, including that of the Minorca, which belongs to it, was 2,365,114. The established religion is the Protestant Presbyterian, but all sects enjoy full liberty and freedom of opinion. Anciently, Scotland was a kingdom of itself, but in 1033 the kings of Scotland and England were united in the person of James the Sixth, subsequently the legislature of both countries were united in 1707 in the reign of Queen Anne. Its government is therefore incorporated with that of England—both are ruled by the same monarch, and subject to nearly the same laws. Its revenue, gross and net are also included in the statement given in the preceding paragraph. The principal towns are Edinburgh, Glasgow, Greenock, Aberdeen and Dundee. The Scotts famed for its elegant construction and magnificent buildings, which have gained for it the title of "Modern Athens," and for its large and numerous manufactures, and its principal shipping port on the west coast, on account of its natural importance it has been styled the "Liverpool of Scotland."

Ireland. The length of the island is 224 miles, and the breadth 168. Its area is 31,874 square miles. The population in 1831 was 7,767,401, but it may now be estimated at 8,000,000. Five-sixths of the people profess the Roman Catholic religion, the remaining sixth is composed of nearly an equal number of the adherents of the Episcopal, the Presbyterian, and the Methodist churches. The principal agricultural product, and which it exports great quantities, both to Britain and foreign countries, is the city of Dublin is the capital, its population is 380,000. The principal towns are Cork, Belfast, and Londonderry.

Death of Principal Baird.

With sincere regret we have to announce the death of the venerable Principal Baird, which took place on Tuesday, the 2nd inst. at 10 o'clock, in the 79th year of his age. Besides the high office in the University, which he had held for half a century, Principal Baird for forty years had the honor of being one of the ministers of the High Church of Scotland, and in both situations ever acquiring himself with distinguished usefulness, and with becoming dignity. Whilst in the pastoral charge of the Parish of Dunkeith, he received a presentation in the year 1799 to the parish of the High Church of Scotland, and was translated to the New Greyfriars; and about the same time was elected Professor of Oriental Languages in the University of Edinburgh. In the following year he was appointed to the Principality of the High Church of Scotland, and in 1815 he succeeded Dr. Blair in the High Church—having in the interval been for a short period minister of the North Church. It is well known how zealously every opportunity of doing good, afforded by these situations, he was ready to embrace, and how his philanthropic individual, and how many benefits, both public and private, flowed from his hand in the course of his long career. Principal Baird was behind him a father, and still stronger tie to respect, esteem, and grateful remembrance, in his uncommon exertions to advance that plan, which employed so many of his later years, for extending the blessing of a religious education to the poor members of his fellow-countrymen in the Highlands and Islands of Scotland. Of the great and prosperous scheme he was the author, and until removed by the infirmities of age, the able and unwearied promoter; and with his history his name will ever be inseparably connected. It is known to the Church of Scotland and to the public, that the advantages reaped to the scheme from the talents, labors, personal influence, and pious enthusiasm of Principal Baird, are beyond estimation. He was a devoted adherent of his measures, for the Christian education of many thousand children of the poor; and we know not the individual that might not have enjoyed him such a satisfaction.

DEATH OF THE LANDGRAVE OF HESSE HOMBURG, FORMERLY PRINCE OF SASSONIA.

Accidents were received at Buckingham Palace on Wednesday, at noon, of the death of Her Royal Highness the Landgrave of Hesse Homburg. Her Royal Highness had been ill for a long time past; but the accounts received in town a few days ago were more favourable. Immediately after the countess her Majesty paid a visit of condolence upon the occasion, and the members of the Royal family in town. The precise time of the death of the Landgrave of Hesse Homburg has not been ascertained, but we understand it took place on Friday last. The deceased was the only daughter of King George IV. and Her Royal Highness was born on the 24th May 1770, and was married April 7, 1818, to the Landgrave Frederick Joseph Louis of Hesse Homburg, who died the 2d of April, 1822. Her Royal Highness had been in delicate health for some time past.

THE LATE MR. COULTS.

Mr. Coult's was a tall, thin, sparely shabby dresser. He was, in fact, a remarkable figure, and his clothes, always simple, were the subject of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which revealed the business coat of an office. He was often mistaken for an indigent person, and used to be the subject of many jokes. The following is one of many instances:—Mr. Coult, from his total want of business, called at the bank, for the purpose of being "rubbed at the seams," which