

LARGEST HOTEL IN THE WORLD

The Pennsylvania, in New York, is To Have 2,200 Bedrooms

Will Occupy Half of a Block in Seventh Avenue — Man Who Once Was Bell Boy Has Leased it and New York Bonifaces Wender

(New York Times) Some time in 1918 the largest hotel in the world will be opened on the Seventh Avenue block between Thirty-second and Thirty-third streets, opposite the Pennsylvania Railroad station...

Mr. Statter is famed for the novel ideas he has introduced into hotel management. He has tried out interesting schemes in Buffalo, Cleveland, and Detroit...

That has been his life's hobby and business, and it is expressed in one of his service maxims that "the guest is always right."

"In all minor discussions," he says, "between Statter and his guests, the employer is dead wrong—from the guest's standpoint and from ours."

"The proper of study of mankind is man." That has been his life's hobby and business, and it is expressed in one of his service maxims that "the guest is always right."

"Let it be understood, first of all," he replied, "that I am not coming to New York with the object of starting something in the general meaning of that slang phrase. I am going to try to please every New Yorker and every out-of-town visitor so well that, whether he pays ten cents for a sandwich or $10 for the most expensive dish, he will want to come again."

"I have been studying the business and hotel needs of your city for several years and I took the Pennsylvania because it was in the heart of the three great hotel centres—centres which I believe are permanently fixed in view of their exceptional transit facilities."

"You would be interested in my shirts," he said, "which will bring you comfortable, perfect fitting shirts. Send for my new book of samples today."

OFFENSIVE ON PROJECT FORMED BY JOFFRE

Col. Repington Reviews Allies' Spring Drive on Western Front

French Were Hailed — Necessitated Attracting Enemy Reserves to British Front and Holding Them Until Artillery Came Up

London, June 27.—Colonel Repington, the military expert of the Times, reviews the spring offensive on the western front as follows: "At the close of the winter campaign the Allies possessed the greatest strength and splendid spirit. They were numerically superior to the enemy, and the advantage in armament was marked."

"The allied plan was based upon a project of Marshal Joffre, formed before he relinquished the supreme command. It aimed at an attack on a broad front by the British and French armies combined."

After recalling the stages of the battle of Arras, Colonel Repington proceeds: "The British commander-in-chief thought of his own armies and his own plan. He might well have been content for his own army to have the famous Vimy Ridge, gained immensely enhanced facilities for observation and caused the enemy heavy losses in men, material and horses."

Dealing with the second stage of the Arras battle, Colonel Repington writes: "The character of the fighting completely changed. The enemy had had time to bring his reserves in men, material and horses into the fight, and had received orders to conduct the defence aggressively, regardless of loss."

Three recruits were secured in the city yesterday. They were: a Richardson, Richardson, R. F. C.; Private O'Donnell, St. John, Divisional Signalling School, and Private Downey, Norton, Canadian Engineers, Casualties.

The names of three New Brunswick men appear in the midweek casualty list: Wounded, H. H. Mason, Head of the St. John's Hospital, Gloucester; ill, C. H. Besley, St. John.

IN THE FLEET AT SEBASTOPOL

Petrograd, June 27.—Rear Admiral James H. Glennon, U.S.N., and his staff left for the city of Sebastopol on the Black Sea fleet at Sebastopol, where the admiral was the central figure of a remarkable demonstration and was directly instrumental in routing the mutinous sailors to a sense of their duty and responsibilities.

After hearing the admiral's meeting voted, 60 to 3, to restore all the Black Sea fleet with the exception of Admiral Koltchak and his staff, who were distrusted by the sailors. The meeting also voted to support the provisional government. Since then conditions with the fleet have been tranquil.

Former St John Men Among Boston Recruits—Engineers Taking No More Men Here

The men that are arriving in St. John from Boston recruiting officers are of the very best class of men and deserve a royal welcome from the citizens of St. John.

London, June 26, via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.—The report of the Mesopotamian commission, constituting another historic war document, was issued tonight as a blue book of 188 pages. It deals comprehensively with the operations from the time of the origin of the campaign, down through the various stages of the advance towards Bagdad and its incidental happenings.

Here is another despatch dealing with the tartan worn by Colonel Guthrie's Killies. It is from the Montreal Gazette: "Every New Yorker who has seen Captain Paul Koenig was successful in piloting the submarine Deutschland from Kiel to Baltimore, the McLean Highlanders will, for the first time since 1705, wear plaid kilts of the seven colors of their clan."

The missing color was discovered in the cargo of the former ship, the British cargo ship, the McLean Highlanders, according to Colonel P. A. Guthrie, commander of the McLean regiment, who is at present in the staff of the British recruiting mission.

Colonel Guthrie, whose mother was a McLean, was an officer with the First Contingent which went from Canada. At the second battle of Ypres, only 164 men and four officers of his entire regiment reported at the end of the action.

Colonel Guthrie's lively recruiting methods aroused hot discussion and some criticism in New Brunswick, where he staged a sham battle and carefully planted one-legged men before the battle in order to give realism to the scene.

It is said that Colonel Guthrie is one of the most wounded men in the British army. He has been wounded eleven times, without a gas attack, and was thrown into the Atlantic while wounded as a result of the torpedoing of the steamship Hesperian by a German submarine.

Fix Blame For Kut Disaster

Divided Responsibility Held Responsible For Failure of Justifiable Military Expedition

The responsibility for this untoward advance, says the commission, lies with Sir John Nixon, whose confident optimism was the main cause of the decision. Others responsible, in order of sequence, were Lord Hardinge, viceroy of India; General Beauchamp-Duff, commander-in-chief; Major-General Barron, military secretary to the Indian office; Austro-Chinese secretary of state for India, and the war committee of the cabinet.

The matter of the expropriation of property in White and Richey streets was under discussion. The property owners were not yet in a position to name persons to act for them so the appointment of arbitrators by the municipality was postponed until the regular meeting in July.

The figure estimated by Mr. Hoadley was in the vicinity of $25,000, while the lowest tenders were $46,000, which with additional expenses, means $50,000. Councillor Hays took the chair and the warden presented a resolution that the order-in-council passed August 29 pledging the municipality to issue bonds to the extent of $46,000 be rescinded and that the issue of bonds be only made for the completion of contracts now outstanding by the hospital commissioners.

The resolution was passed in its amended form. Dr. Thomas Walker, chairman of the hospital commissioners, M. E. Agar and Dr. Macdonald, superintendent of the hospital, were present and submitted information where it was solicited. All three pressed the need of the work going on and of the danger and inadequacy of the present equipment.

UPON THIS SUGGESTION AN ADDITION was made to the resolution that the amount of bonds shall provide, too, for the erection of a chimney suitable to serve all three boilers.

BULGARIAN CRUELTY

Roumanian Prisoners Half-Starved and Ill-Clad

Roumanian Army Headquarters, June 27.—Official reports of the barbarous way the Roumanian prisoners of war were treated by the Bulgarians have raised deep indignation. After the fall of Tuturcan the prisoners were driven to the interior of Bulgaria and obliged to work. Some days they practically had no food, but small slices of bread. So soon as they arrived at their destination all their money and clothes were taken away, and they had to go through the severest winter only half clothed.

Waras Women Against Cutting Corns and Says They Lift Right Out

Because style decrees that women crowd and buckle up their tender toes in high heel footwear they suffer from corns, then they cut and trim at these painful pests which merely make them grow hard. This suicidal habit may cause lockjaw and women are warned to stop it.

A few drops of a drug called freezone applied directly upon a sore corn, root and all, lifts out without pain. Ask the drug store man for a quarter of an ounce of freezone, which costs very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

This drug is gunny but it dries in a moment and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin.

MURDER VICTIM BURIED

Woodstock, N. B., June 26.—The funeral of Harry Wiley, the victim of the tragedy of last Saturday, was held yesterday at Glassville and was attended by people from every section of the country. It was the largest funeral ever seen in the vicinity. The services were conducted by Rev. F. W. Franchette, of Hartland, and were most impressive.

CADETS INSPECTED

The inspection of the cadet corps took place yesterday evening on the School grounds in the presence of Lieutenant Colonel A. H. Powell, who witnessed the maneuvers and drill carried out by the St. Stephen and St. Andrews cadet corps. The boys looked certainly prim and neat in their Highland uniforms. The St. Stephen boys wearing the Fraser plaid and the St. Andrews cadets the Gordon tartan.

A march past was performed by each corps and Lieutenant Colonel Powell and also the inspector expressed their warm appreciation of the work carried out and the efficient instruction given the boys by their respective instructors, Lieutenant Vail and Major Magee.

Will Not Order The Power Plant

County Council Decides to Limit Expenditure at Present to Construction of Building

A recommendation that the appropriation for the new power house and laundry at the General Public Hospital be increased from $46,000 to $72,000, because of the fact that the engineer's estimates for the interior equipment were but fifty per cent of the quotations tendered, was thrown out at a special meeting of the municipal council yesterday afternoon called specially to consider the matter.

Moreover, a resolution was adopted rescinding the order-in-council of August 29 last and making the issue of bonds only sufficient to cover the work already under contract. It was decided to call in representatives of the various manufacturers of boilers and steamfittings in the city to get advice from them in the matter of internal equipment in the power. Much criticism was directed against Engineer F. M. Hoadley, of Montreal, who prepared the estimates for the equipment.

Upon this suggestion an addition was made to the resolution that the amount of bonds shall provide, too, for the erection of a chimney suitable to serve all three boilers.

THE RESOLUTION WAS PASSED IN ITS amended form. Dr. Thomas Walker, chairman of the hospital commissioners, M. E. Agar and Dr. Macdonald, superintendent of the hospital, were present and submitted information where it was solicited. FOUND BLOOD STAINS At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Dr. E. L. Kenney, coroner, and his jury inquiring into the death, met at the scene of the tragedy and inspected the places where witnesses pointed out they saw men concealed and also where Harris was picked up semi-conscious. The chief of police, Sergeant J. J. Smith, several policemen and detectives were also present. It is said that blood stains were found on the side of the Haley house where Miss Margaret Coleman stated she saw two men shortly before the tragedy was enacted. Several places along the wall there were marks made by a white powdery substance and it was thought finger and palm marks were detected. It could not be established in any case, however, whose marks these were and it is not known whether the feature is regarded by any particular importance by the police. The inquiry for the taking of further evidence will be resumed at the court house next Tuesday night.
