

George Munro

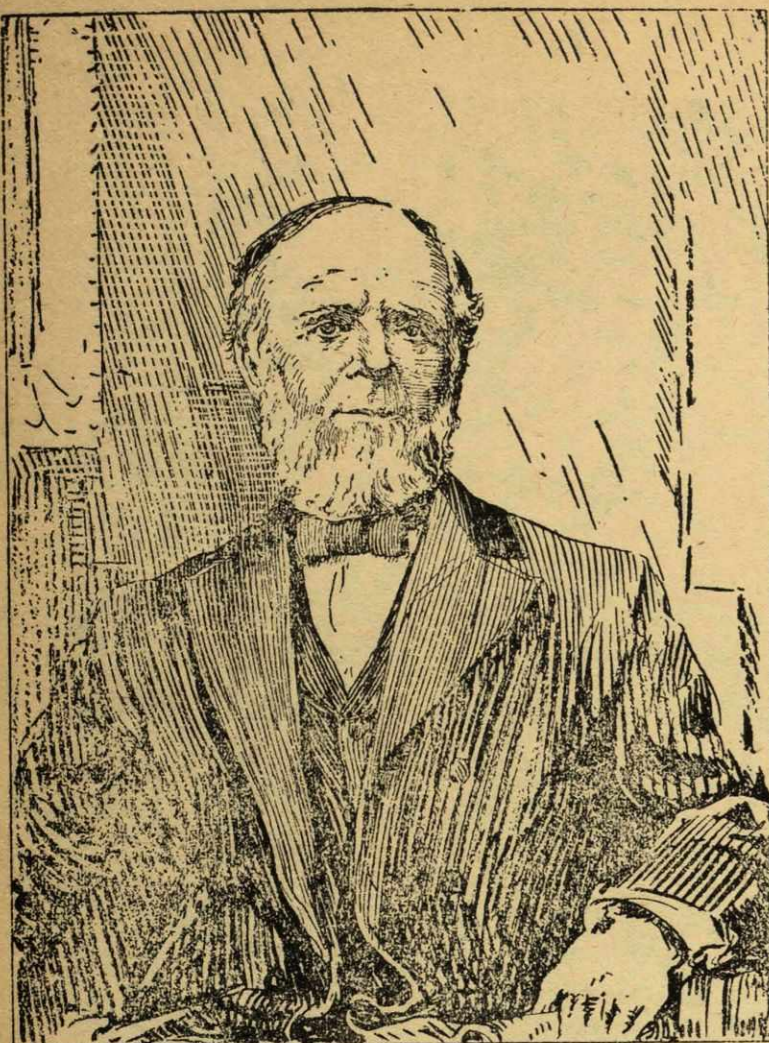

George Munro, the first of Dalhousie's great benefactors was born in Pictou County on November 12, 1825. He was a teacher in the Free Church Academy in Halifax before leaving his native province to enter the publishing business in New York city. There he became the Dime Novel King of North America.

Munro amassed a great fortune and contributed 350,000 dollars to Dalhousie within five years. His gift came in 1879 at a time when Dalhousie was in dire financial straits and it was feared that its doors would have to be closed and the college cease to be.

Chairs in physics, history, political economy, constitutional and international law, philosophy and English literature were endowed by him and he also established tutorships in mathematics and classics and supplied valuable bursaries for properly qualified students.

George Munro was a pioneer in the respect that no such sum had been previously given any university in Canada. It went for the improvement of the staff and students and not for the erection of buildings.

The munificence of George Munro set Dalhousie firmly on her feet and the university does well to set aside a day to commemorate his life.

Sir James Dunn

Sir James Dunn

Sir James Dunn, whose name is now familiar to all Dalhousians, was born in Bathurst, New Brunswick in 1875. The son of a ship-builder, Dunn had to save every penny in order to further his education. After receiving his degree from Dalhousie Law School in 1898, this great benefactor continued to further his learning in the fields of politics and business.

Making a profitable switch from law to high finance, Sir James Dunn was a multi-millionaire by the age of 39. Successful in other fields as well, he undertook in the First World War important secret assignments for the British government. It was at this time and for these efforts that Dunn won the title of Baronet.

Always interested in his old home, he founded at Dalhousie an scholarship for post graduate study in law and with the gift of $300,000 the University has established a Sir James Dunn chair in Law. From the Sir James Dunn Foundation one and three-quarter million dollars has been given to Dalhousie and is being used for the erection of a science building.

In Dr. Kerr's office we see signs of an additional gift — His Lordship's desks and handsome bookends which were thoughtfully given to the University.

"Fly away, Sheedy", said J. Paul's* tweetie,
"Your hair's too seedy for me".

Sheedy was sitting on his girl's front perch. "My love for you", said he "is plain as the nose on my face. Toucan live as cheeply as one, so . . ." "Stop", she cried. "I'll never be yours till you do something about that messy hair" So Sheedy hopped down to the store and pecked up some Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now his tweetie is happy because his hair always looks handsome and healthy without a trace of grease. Nest time you're at the store get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil.
