HAVE YOU A BAD LEG

With Wounds that discharge or otherwise, perhaps surrounded with inflammation and swollen that when you press your finger on the inflamed part it leaves the impression? If so, under the skin you have poison that defies all the remedies you have tried, which if not extracted, you never can recover, but go on suffering till death releases you. Perhaps your knees are swollen, the joints being ulcerated, the same with the ankles, round which the skin may be discolored, or there may be wounds; the disease, if allowed to continue, will deprive you of the power to walk. You may have attended various hospitals and had medical advice and been told your case is hopeless, or advised to submit to amputation; but do not, for I can cure you. I don't say perhaps, but I will. Because others have failed, it is no reason I should. Send at once to the Drug Stores for ALBERTS' Grasshopper Ointment and Pills, which is a certain remedy for the cure of Bad Legs, Housemaids' Knees, Ulcerated Joints, Carbuncles, Poisoned Hands, Abscesses, Corns and Bunions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

CONDITION POWDER.

Is the following condition powder harmful in any way to a mare in foal: Sulphate of iron, gentian, ginger, antimony, saltpetre, tartar emetic, fenugreek, equal parts?

T. L.

Ans.—The above drugs used in moderate doses should prove a suitable tonic; safe to use for an in-foal mare. We would not, however, advise its continued use. If the mare is in ordinary health, all she needs is good care and feed. You might, however, give her a teaspoonful twice a day for a week, and then once a day for the next week; but continual dopping is to be deprecated.

PROBABLY PARTURIENT PARALYSIS.

I had a cow due to calve in a few days, that was strong and healthy to all appearance; but one morning I found her unable to rise, and after putting her upon her feet, she could not stand. Yet, she still continued to eat heartily; but in a few days she ate less, and finally would not eat at all, in a week she calved, and two days after she died. There was no sign of injury of any sort.

1. What do you think could be the matter?

2. Could you prescribe any remedy?

Ans.—1. From the symptoms given, we would think the cow had either parturient paralysis, or else parturient apoplexy (milk fever), more likely the former.

2. Treatment for parturient paralysis would have consisted in good nursing, feeding the patient well on the best quality of food, keeping comfortable, and giving the best of care and a nerve stimulant of say one fluid dram nux vomica in a drench three times daily. With this, a stimulating liniment might have been applied to the loin, of ammonia, turpentine and linseed oil. Treatment for milk fever, which sometimes, though seldom, occurs before calving, would have been pumping air into the udder as so often recommended in these columns.

BURSAL ENLARGEMENT—WINTER LAYING OF CEMENT.

1. Colt has a lump (soft) on inside hind leg, known to me as a puff. Give treatment and cause.

2. I would like to put in cement floor in horse stable, and as time is more available in winter, would it be advisable to put it in now? Has any special way to be adopted for winter laying?

E. G. K.

Ans.—1. Our correspondent should be more specific as to the location of the swelling, whether at the fetlock, hock or stifle. The affection is a bursal enlargement of some sort, and if situated at the hock is probably a thoroughpin. Bathe long and often for a few days with cold water if inflammation is present, and, when quite allayed, blister mildly every month, as long as necessary. If the swelling is at the fetlock, bandage, shoe with a high-heeled shoe, and apply some astringent lotion. Thoroughpin is usually associated with bog spavin, causes of which are premature overwork and defective conformation, due to heredity. The thoroughpin is due to the pressure of the fluid constituting the bog spavin on the bursae of the peroneus tendon, which is thus pushed out of place.

2. Unless you are fortunate in having some other place to keep your horses, we do not see how you can advantageously lay the floor now. A difficulty that is met in winter laying of cement is the frost. This might be guarded against by artificial heat, and one Canadian contractor informs us that he gets over the difficulty by mixing the cement with a cement-mixer, using warm water in which is dissolved 15 lbs. of salt and 1½ lbs. of carbonate of soda to the barrel of water. But, having seen cement sidewalks prove a failure on account of frost soon after laying, we feel chary about recommending the laying of cement in winter, except when one can readily control the temperature until the cement has firmly set.

Mr. Horace N. Crossley advertises in this paper a pair of pure-bred Hackney mares, which, from the description, should be a desirable investment for anyone needing stock of that sort.

USED MEN AT THE OFFICE UP AND AND TIED OUT WOMEN IN THE HOME CHILDREN AT SCHOOL

Every day in the week and every week in the year men, women and children feel all used up and tired out.

The strain of business, the cares of home and social life and the task of study cause terrible suffering from heart and nerve troubles. The efforts put forth to keep up to the modern "high pressure" mode of life in this age soon wears out the strongest system, shatters the nerves and weakens the heart.

Thousands find life a burden and others an early grave. The strain on the system causes nervousness, palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, faint and dizzy spells, skip beats, weak and irregular pulse, smothering and sinking spells, etc. The blood becomes weak and watery and eventually causes decline.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are indicated for all diseases arising from a weak and debilitated condition of the heart or of the nerve centres. Mrs. Thos. Hall, Keldon, Ont., writes: "For the past two or three years I have been troubled with nervousness and heart failure, and the doctors failed to give me any relief. I decided at last to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial, and I would not now be without them if they cost twice as much. I have recommended them to my neighbors and friends."
