British Correspondent Visits Our Trenches at the Front.

High Praise Given-Territory is Now "Canada."

As the mist and rain descended and the Lerizon shrank from ten miles to one we journeyed to the trenches in the plain, where a horizon from 200 to 39 yards is all that a man needs. Down there in "the common crofts" certain advantages belong to thick weather.

Where the communication trench is a slough you may clamber on to the bank and try to reel as confluent as your guide that the enemy will neither see you nor inter you. You take short cuts here and there, trusting that the member of the working party is quite accurate when no asspress you that the interval is "dead". working party is quite interval is "dead assures you that the interval is "dead arcting for buncts," though the ideom has an uncomery sound.

In one of the latest conceptions of astronomers the stellar universe has a diameter of 19,600 to 15,000 light year's with a thickness of 2,000 to 3,009, and our sun has a place a little removed from the centre. It embraces 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 stars within the range of telescopic visibility, with dark and invisible bodies whose number cannot be computed.

sonic visionity. When the computed whose number cannot be computed are surprisingly uniform in mass, the are surprisingly uniform in mass, the range of variation being not more than fiftyfold, but in density the range is from more than twice that of the sun to only one-millionth and is absolute luminosity or brightness from 3,000 times that of the sun to about one three-thousandth. The temperature rises from near absolute zero in the neublac to 20,000 degrees C. In certain giant hot stars.

It is suggested that our universe may be not the only one and that the small Magellanic cloud, for instance, may be reclatively small universe of about 1,000 light years in diameter.

Another seperate star system at similar distance is possibly astronomers hold, the Andromeda nebula.

One of the stew-ards was leading him to the place reserved for him on the platform when he was recognized, and immediately cheers rang through the hall. Quite unconscious that these were meant for him, he said, apologetically: "No the Prince of Wales is arriving. I ought to have come sooner.
