WONDER OF URANIUM.

Its Invisible Radiance, Discovered by Becquerel, Made Use of in Recent Extended Photographic Experiments.

Prof. George F. Parker, of the University of Pennsylvania, has been experimenting with uranium, whose invisible radiance was discovered by Becquerel and with the new radioactive metals polonium and radium, found in pitch-blende by Madame Currie.

He recently exhibited a series of photographic plates on which impressions had been produced by these substances. His procedure has been as follows, says Scientific American: A photographic plate was enclosed in black paper and then covered with yellow paper. After one whole day's exposure to the sunlight no effect was produced. This precaution proved the thoroughness of the protection. Then the various metals and salts were placed outside the covering of the plate and they produced dark stains.

In order to take photographs of objects such as a hand or foot these objects would be placed between the metal and the plate and the result would be similar to those obtained by the "x" rays. Such substances as bone show clearly through the flesh and surrounding tissue. A photograph can be taken by means of radium in half a minute.

The property of a new metal is apparently of great practical value. The results of the "x" rays, now so useful in surgical diagnosis, can be duplicated by a method much cheaper.

Radium seems to suffer no diminution of energy or loss of weight during the process. In addition to producing an impression on the photographic plate, radium produces phosphorescence and discharges electrified bodies. Thus it will be seen that it possesses all the qualities of the Roentgen rays.

Radium apparently violates one of the fundamental laws of physics, namely, that of the conservation of energy. It does not appear to derive its photographic power from the sunlight nor lose it by expenditure.

Danger in Celluloid.

In 1898 The Lancet, of London, appointed a commission to investigate the subject of the accidental catching fire of celluloid ornaments, which showed, by placing a celluloid comb in a wig at various distances from a glowing fire, the probability of accidents to wearers of such an article. It was further found that a curling iron heated to the temperature necessary for curling readily started the evolution of dense and highly-inflammable fumes. The danger of exposing celluloid toys in shop windows near electric lamps was shown. The following illustrate the accidents from celluloid: A man while smoking a cigar was playing an American organ with celluloid keys. Some red-hot ash dropped on the keys, and they burst into flames, which were extinguished with difficulty.

A boy was wearing a celluloid collar tied with a string. To move the collar he burned the string. The collar ignited and lighted drops of the composition fell on his clothing. His throat and face were badly burned. A woman seated before a fire which was not unusually strong found her hair enveloped in smoke and flames from ignition of her comb. Before the flames could be extinguished an area of scalp 4 x 1 1/2 inches was destroyed. The burn was to the skull and the hair of the injured area was permanently destroyed. It is urged that the Government should interfere and compel the manufacturers of celluloid to render it less inflammable.

The Color Cure.

The part played by color in the treatment of disease, is just now attracting fresh attention. The success of the Italian doctors in their employment of red in the sick room has set some people talking about this subject, though it is quite modern discovery. In fact, the discovery that color affected the nerves, and through the nerves the general health of the body was made many years ago, we know that Edward II., for instance, when he was Prince Edward, was cured of smallpox—if we are to believe the court physician—solely by the brilliant scarlet employed in the decoration of his bed and the room in which the bed stood. But to say that color, per se, can cure a person of smallpox, or any other malady, is to state what science must absolutely deny. Nevertheless, it cannot be too widely known that success in sick nursing may depend in a greater or less degree on the scheme of coloring that obtains in the patient's room. Whether scarlet or the other various shades of red is the universal panacea we know not, but it is quite safe to say that anything in the shade of mournful and dyspeptic yellows and greens should not be utilized in ministering to a mind diseased. Color, in this sense, after all, is only another word for environment, and it is quite certain that brightness and cheerfulness, whatever their tints, are useful factors in the treatment of sickness. — London Globe.

Presence of Mind.

Some years ago a battery of British artillery was at big gun practice at Bermuda. One of the guns was found to have a serious flaw. The officer in charge, not caring to risk half a dozen valuable lives, inquired:

"Sergeant, have we any unexpired men here?"

"Yes, sir," answered the sergeant, "Paddy Jackson has just completed his time."

"Well, then," replied the thoughtful officer, "Paddy Jackson will fire the first gun."

The Duke of Wellington once met, by accident, an officer in a state of inebriety.

"Look here, sir," said the Iron Duke, "what would you do if you met one of your men in the condition in which I find you?"

The officer drew himself up, gave the military salute, and replied, with great gravity, "I would not condescend to speak to the brute."

His wit saved him his commission.

Slowly Dying From Catarrh.

Thousands are in this terrible condition but don't realize their danger. If you have the slightest taint of Catarrh, would it not be wise to commence Catarrhose treatment now and be perfectly cured in a short time? This pleasant remedy cures without the use of drugs, atomizers or snuffs.

You inhale the medicated vapor which spreads to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the germs and heals the inflamed surfaces. Catarrhose cures catarrhal, lung and throat troubles. A trial will demonstrate the value of Catarrhose, which sells for $1. Small size 25c, at Drugists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Who Sails Boats in Boston?

Who sails boats around Boston? Why, every one, says W. J. Henderson in the Atlantic. From the "Adams boys," the swiftest yacht racers of the east, down to the Marblehead street boy, every one takes pride in his skill in getting the best work out of some sort of a sailing boat. Those who do not sail talk about it, and on a summer day in the drowsy atmosphere of a Boston club or in the shadow of some tall pile in Washington street you shall hear more racing seamen's lore than anywhere else in this country, except on the cruising ground of the rocking chair fleet at the Larchmont Yacht club. Boston's claim to be the hub of the universe may be disputed perhaps when you consider the steel industry or the unimportant matter of freight tonnage, but when you come to talk about sailing you must admit that Boston is the greatest yachting port in this country. Even the little children there know the history of the America's cup, and the public school boy can sail a dory with a leg of mutton sail for driving power and an oar for steering gear.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

How it shakes one up, invades sleep, destroys strength, adds a real misery to life. Not the stomach but the nerves are affected. Starved nerves make the whole trouble. You need Ferrozone because it is a nerve food. It supplies the elements that are needed to make rich red blood. This is the savings bank of health. The richer the blood in red cells, the richer you are to be in health. Ferrozone quickly makes blood, strengthens the nervous system, strengthens the digestive organs and, presto! the nervous disturbance disappears. Sold by McCall & Co.

Her One Success.

In the civil war time a western woman who had lost her husband in the field and who hoped to win a livelihood for herself and her little ones by writing sent to Harper's Magazine a story which had no special distinction and was returned. In the desperate mood that followed this rejection she sat down with pen and ink and wrote "Why I wrote it," and her story under that title was accepted and published, winning a sympathetic response from all its readers. But this production, the echo of a vital moment, was her one story in the magazine. Oliver Wendell Holmes said that anybody could write an interesting novel if he could truly tell the story of his own life.

Obedient Orders.

"What was the cause of that awful racket and disturbance in your office just before you came?" asked one of the tenants on the third floor.

"You know that young cowboy that came yesterday to begin the study of law with me?" said the other.

"Yes."

"Well, I thought he might as well begin at the bottom, and I told him that when he came down this morning the first thing for him to do would be to clean out the office. He found half a dozen fellows there waiting for me, but he did it all right."

A Clear Cut Warning.

"Young ladies," said an absentminded teacher of Latin to his class in Virgil, "I understand that you count upon my calling on you in alphabetical order and prepare your lessons accordingly. I am surprised and disappointed at such conduct. Hereafter I warn you I shall begin at the other end of the alphabet!"

CATCH PHRASES.

Their Utility in Advancing the Interests of Business Men.

There are many instances of where a suitable catch line well drilled into people has been of great value in building business. The best catch line is one that fits your business best, and the discoverer of such a line is apt to be due more to inspiration than to effort. Pick the distinctive feature of your stock or business methods and endeavor to express it in a breath.

If you can find a phrase that expresses your central business idea or emphasizes some feature that marks your store alone, you can make good use of it. It puts into condensed form an idea that will get hold of people and influence them if persistently presented to them. One fact about your business well lodged in the heads of people is as good as a score that do not penetrate.

You can make people believe about what you like if you go about it properly. If a man comes to you today and tells you there will be a panic inside of six months, you will pay no attention to him. If another comes tomorrow with the same story, he will get no attention, but you will wonder what is getting into folks. The third man you will argue the matter with. The fourth will get more of a hearing, and you will begin to see signs of disaster yourself. By the time the tenth man has made the statement you will be ready to tell folks the same story yourself.

Probably you yourself could not be influenced in such a manner, but the common run of people are built that way and will believe what they are told often enough. That is why an expressive catch phrase does good. It comes to stand for you and your methods and of necessity is remembered when goods in your line are wanted.

As ordinarily used such a phrase is of little value, because it is not properly hammered into people. Such a line should go on letter heads, billheads, stationery, envelopes, should go into every ad or circular, should be seen about the store and should appear on labels. Put it on a sticker to attach to goods and packages. Let people see it everywhere. If it means what it says, people are going to respond to it.

An Optimistic Cripple.

A one legged newsboy had been hopped about on his crutch selling afternoon "extras," and when there was a lull in the business, owing to a falling off in the crowds, he sat down for a brief rest.

"How did you lose your leg?" I asked.

"Cable car," he said, with the street urchin's characteristic economy of words.

"Too bad!" I remarked.

"Oh, but it might 'a' been worse, sir," the boy replied. "The company paid the doctor and gave me $300. That paid all our debts and left us $500 in bank, and it's all there 'cept $40 we had to take out when mother was sick, and I sell more papers than most of the boys, just 'cause I've a crutch. There's one of my customers now."

The Cause of Nervous Headache.

This most distressing and common malady doubtless has its origin in some unbalanced condition of the nervous system. Probably the simplest, safest, and most efficient remedy is Polson's Nervine. Twenty drops in sweetened water gives immediate relief, and this treatment should be supplemented by bathing the region of pain with Nervine. To say it acts quickly fails to express the result. Sold everywhere in large 25c. bottles.

DIMINISHED VITALITY.

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality. They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends.

Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, strength and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer.

ROYAL MUSKOKA NOW OPEN

Guests Are Arriving Daily at the New Summer Resort.

The opening of the new Royal Muskoka Hotel on Lake Rosseau, Muskoka Lakes district, for the season of 1902, has been a source of satisfaction to the proprietors, and the reservations that have been made up to the present for accommodation at this resort assure the success of the venture. Guests are arriving daily, and by next week, hundreds of people will be enjoying the beauties of Muskoka with the advantage of sojourning in one of the best summer hotels in America.

Among the guests at the hotel now are prominent people from Buffalo, Chicago, New York, and other American cities, as well as many Canadians. The Ontario Government, in conjunction with the Grand Trunk Railway system, is continuing the policy inaugurated last year of restocking the Muskoka lakes with parent bass. The first carload was deposited in lake Rosseau, June 20, and a finer lot of bass have seldom been seen. Last year 10,000 fish were transplanted into the Northern Lakes with much success. The fishing this year in the Muskoka Lakes is good, some excellent catches having been made, the bass weighing from two to four pounds, and pickerel from two to eight pounds.
