COMMERCIAL LECTURING IN HIGH SCHOOL

From a contemporary we learn of an enterprise which is being put over by one town in Canada, that might with profit be imitated by Wolfville. This is no more nor less than the arrangement of a program of addresses by local citizens to be given at intervals to the pupils of the high school. In the town which we have in mind the subjects include salesmanship, banking, law, dentistry, nursing, agriculture, but these might very readily be changed or added to as existing conditions made appropriate. We would suggest that emphasis be placed upon the question of citizenship so that the rising generation might be duly impressed with their responsibility for conditions which obtain in the community in which they make their home. In Wolfville we have many citizens well qualified to give these talks, whose services could be readily secured. Such a course would be of inestimable value to the young life of the place. While the initiation and carrying out of such a program as we suggest would primarily come under the direction of the members of the School Board the matter is one that deserves the interest of citizens generally, and we believe if properly presented would receive plenty of support. It certainly would provide much practical instruction and that is greatly needed at the present time.

BETTER RELATIONS RETWEEN WOLFVILLE AND COMMERCIAL LECTURING IN HIGH SCHOOL

BETTER RELATIONS BETWEEN WOLFVILLE AND KENTVILLE

The section lying between Wolfville and Kentville is one of the most desirable residential districts in this province. On the main trunk road between Halifax and Yarmouth these two towns are trunk road between Halifax and Yarmouth these two towns are only seven miles apart, and are year by year gradually approaching each other. That the time may come when the two places become one is not at all unlikely. Their interests are similar and anything that will tend to the most cordial relations is bound to be mutually advantageous. The organization of the "Ken-Wo Country Club" a few years ago, with its grounds and Club House located midway between these two centres did very much in this direction, and the improved highway recently constructed has also been an effective means of bringing the towns nearer each other. This road, however, is not as good as it should be and is already showing wear. Such a roadway as was advocated by residents of the whole section would have been good economy. Persons seeking a location for country homes could not do better than to inspect this region where every prospect pleases indeed. We would suggest to the inhabitants of both Wolfville and Kentville the desirability of using every effort to promote the progress already being made in bringing about such a condition as is here advocated.

THE OLD HOME SUMMER

THE OLD HOME SUMMER

In view of the proposed Old Home Summer next year it is none too early for the citizens of Wolfville to duly consider how it will be possible to make their town more attractive to the host of visitors who will be coming then to our province. Most of all if the home coming of Nova Scotians is to be made the successful undertaking anticipated by the promoters we need more and better hotel accmodation and improved travelling facilities. Many of these repatriated sons and daughters of our province have seen much of the world and we want them on their return home to be favorably impressed. In any event if the undertaking its to assume anything approaching the proportions which its advocates anticipate the accommodations which now exist will be altogether inadequate for those who will come. Wolfville, as the most attractive point in this most attractive section, will naturally draw within is borders on that occasion many besides those who instinctively return to the place of their own or their parents' birth. We must get ready for them. It will be good policy even if the preparation does involve a considerable expenditure. Viewed from the standpoint of a community interest the "Old Home Summer" is the most important number on next year's program. Every pupossible agency that can be devised should be implemented for its efficient carrying out. THE ACADIAN would suggest a thorough organization at once. Here's a splendid opportunity for public-spirited effort. Go to it.

"What is your idea of happiness?"
A newspaper man once asked that question of Sarah Bernhardt.
"The love of a good man and the feel of a baby's arms about one's neck."
"What then, is your idea of misery?"
the interviewer asked.

Her answers were sound. The basis of happiness, the basis of civilization is family life.

Advertising to sell goods should not be merely letting people know that they exist; it should be telling them all about the goods.

SARAH BERNHARDT'S IDEA OF Realization that this happiness would never be mine," said the divine Sarah

NEIGHBORHOOD CORRESPOND-DENCE

I have before me as I write a letter written to the editor of this paper from a far town in Saskatchewan. The writer is speaking not only for herself but on behalf of that great number who once made this county their home. They are scattered to the four corners of this continent but they still think of us as the home folk, and the part of the paper which possesses the greatest interest for them is the local news, sent in week by week by our staff of faithful correspondents from the different parts of the country. These patient, untiring, often much abused news gatherers are building better than they know. They are like the ancient prophets "not without honour save in their own neighbourhood." It seems so trifling to say that Mrs. A. called on Mrs. B., or Mr. W. is killing hogs or threshing his clover, or that Mr. and Mrs. N. have gone to town.

Mrs. B., or Mr. W. is killing hogs or threshing his clover, or that Mr. and Mrs. N have gone to town.

But now look at it from the viewpoint of the readers of this paper living in different parts of the country. They have gone away for various reasons but they are building for themselves homes as their lathers did, faced with the same conditions, perplexed by the same problems and they are anxious to keep the old-time traditions and transplant the old time ideals in the new places to which they have gone. The hope of our great new land which is opening up is in many thing—the church, the schools, the class of settlers which they are getting. But not the least among the influences which will make this land an ideal place to live in its the preservation and transplanting of the home ideals which the boys and girls who have left the older portions have had instilled into them in their you Anything then which keeps the spirit the memory of the old home from going out, anything which binds them to the things of the past, is playing a big part in keeping Canada a land of the best ideals.

Now for some years after these people ideals.

Now for some years after these peop went away the weekly or monthly lett followed them. No one can estimate the properties of the properties of the control of the letters, but one by one writers laid aside the pen or their eyes became dim and their fingers cramped with vage, and the letters grew less frequent and finally ceased altogether. Hosts of the boys and girls who have been absent from this country for twenty, thirty or forty years have not their birth for years. Is the inspiration of this sacred memory to be allowed to die out?

Here is where the home paper comes in. It comes as a weekly letter freighted with the fragrance of the memories of bygone days. The first bit of news they look for is the news of their old neighborhood. There they see that Mrs. A. is visiting Mrs. B. and they smile and say, "Well. well, she is still on her rounds, is she?" Mr. D. has just cut his clover,—and they see again the field where as boys they picked berries from the fence corners, and the hollow rails where they had many a losing fight trying to rob the bumble-bee. They read that Mr. W. is dead. "Well., well, he seemed an old man when they were still young." They remembered his rugged, honest and the homely advice which from his deak as superintendent of the Sunday School he gave them. And so he is dead, but his words and influence which can never die come back to them and they live over again their Sunday School days, but now realizing what they did not as boys and girls, how necessary, how important, the need of a character built upon the ideal of the Holy Word. So we could go on. The weekly paper with its neighborhood news has brought before the people the doings of the home folks, their work, their play, their social joys, their sorrows,— little unimportant happenings to those who live in the neighborhood, but to those absent a link that binds them to the best in the past. A drink of cold water to a thirsty heart, like a drink from the old spring at the foot of the hill at home where as boys we were wont to refresh ourselves, And in the strength of that refreshment they can go on to do continually better work—and so they are thankful for the home paper and the neighborhood co
