ARRIVAL OF THE BRITISH MAIL.

The Steamer Americus arrived at Halifax at 1 o'clock on Wednesday, bringing the following highly important intelligence:

The report of the success of the Allies is confirmed. The Allies made an unsuccessful attempt to storm Sebastopol, and were repulsed with terrible slaughter. The English loss is estimated at 4000 men and 70 officers. The Allies suffered terribly from the springing of mines by the Russians.

During the confusion, the Mamelon tower, which had been stormed by the French was recaptured. Full particulars not known. An Expedition has been undertaken against Perekop.

The Russian forces advanced and encamped near redoubt Kali.

It is reported that the Russians have retaken Anapa, and make an unsuccessful attempt on Kara.

The Austria Commander-in-Chief proclaimed martial law in Moldavia.

The authorities refused to promulgate it unless authorized by the Sultan.

The Austrian army was being disbanded—the reduction great and rapid.

Gortschakoff was appointed Russian resident minister at Vienna. Russian influence very active in the smaller German states.

Admiral Bain had left Kiel for the Baltic with 17 steamer.

Russian infernal machines exploded under the English steamers Merlin and Firefly off Cronstadt. They were not seriously damaged.

Admiral Boxer died of cholera.

Napoleon had been ill but recovered.

The French funds fell two per cent. when his illness was announced.

Flour unchanged—dull.

Corn meal declined 1s 6d. Money abundant, Consols 91½.

Latest News!

Fearful Slaughter of the British Troops!

LATEST DETAILS OF OUR LOSSES.

WAR DEPARTMENT, June 22.

Lord Panmure regrets to have to inform the Editor of The News of the World that he has received information, that the English troops attacked the Redan, and the French the Malakoff Tower, at daylight, on the morning of the 18th instant, but without the success which has heretofore attended our efforts.

Both the French and ourselves have suffered considerably.

The names of the officers who have fallen will be forwarded immediately, but it will be impossible to receive complete returns of all the casualties before the 30th instant, at soonest.

The Daily News, says:—Although it is well understood that the Government is in possession of fuller intelligence than that communicated in Lord Panmure's despatch published yesterday morning, no further official statements have been given to the public.

We believe that, when the details are published, it will be found that the check experienced by the allies commenced with the springing of a mine by the Russians, at a moment when the assaulting columns were on the point of establishing themselves within the Russian line A.

A considerable number of Russian troops lost their lives with the French and English by this explosion.

In the recoil which followed, our allies, pressed by force of numbers, receded to the Mamelon and beyond it, and the Mamelon batteries were for a time in the power of the enemy.

It was at this period that the English suffered, most being exposed in the position taken on the 7th to the flank fire and the guns on the Mamelon. The enemy was not suffered to remain in this regained work, but was driven back by the French to the enceinte, our gallant allies remaining masters of the Mamelon.

The English loss in killed and wounded is stated to be about 4000, including 60 officers. The spirit of the troops was admirable, and a renewal of the attack was expected.

Various names of officers who have fallen have reached us, but we are reluctant to publish them without official authority. It is necessary to receive the statements in the morning papers with great reserve. It is not easy to see from what possible source they have obtained the details they contain. With this caution, the following statement may be given from the Morning Herald:—

The British troops carried the outworks of the Redan, but found that the enemy had prepared a deep trench, which it was impossible to pass without either scaling ladders or planks. The gallant band were here exposed to a most murderous fire, after sustaining, it is said, a loss of from 4000 to 5000 men, and having 40 officers killed. Our casualties were much augmented by the guns on the Malakoff enfilading the outworks of the Redan, added to which, the men-of-war in the harbour were laid broadside on, and by their fire on the retiring troops, caused fearful havoc, there being no cover or shelter whatever from the storm of projectiles.

The Times does not profess to give a particular account of the recent affair before Sebastopol. It says, however, in a leading article, that "The losses of the allied troops are believed to be greater than in any former action of the war. Sir John Campbell, Colonel Yea of the 7th, Colonel Shadforth of the 57th, and many other officers of distinguished gallantry, fell in our ranks, while the French have lost two general officers and a vast number of men in all branches of the service.

Although admitting that this is the most painful occurrence which has happened in the course of the war, the allies have fortunately other means besides an assault for retrieving this check."

THE BALTIC FLEET.

DANZIC, Thursday, June 21.—The Lightning has arrived with the Mails.

The fleet was lying off Sesskar Island.

Diarrhoea is prevalent in the fleet.

BREMAN, June 21.—The detachment of the fleet under Rear-Admiral Baynes, consisting of five liners, two frigates and ten gunboats, left Kiel harbour early on Wednesday, the 20th instant, for Cronstadt.

COPENHAGEN, June 21.—The Geyser has passed, towing the Blazer and Hurley. The Tartar has arrived at Nyborg, towing the mortar boats Manly, Sinbad and Mastiff, the Tempête and Pigeon have arrived at Cuxhaven, and are coaling.

Letters had been received in London, by way of Sydney, from Washington, in New Zealand to Feb. 22, which give full particulars of a violent earthquake at that place on the 23d January. The first shock occurred at 9 o'clock in the evening, of such violence as to leave hardly a chimney standing in the whole place, and injuring more or less every stone or brick building in the town. The most substantial buildings, such as the Union Bank of Australia, the gaol, and the Government house suffered most, while the buildings of wood were generally uninjured. There was a great destruction of property, but one life only was lost. There were repeated shocks of less severity, at intervals, for several days. There was much injury in the valley of Hutt, near Wellington, the bridge-way destroyed, and the road rendered impassable. The inhabitants of Wellington were already taking measures to repair the damage, and the military were active in clearing away the rubbish. It was thought that no buildings would be erected, except of wood and of one story. The earthquake is thought to have been as violent as that of 1848, but it excited less alarm.
