Holy Name Society.

A most edifying sight was witnessed yesterday morning when the Holy Name Society, numbering 800, marched in procession from the Aula Maxima (kindly lent by the Christian Brothers) to the Cathedral to attend eight o'clock Mass, which was celebrated by His Grace the Archbishop.

At the appointed time His Grace preached a very instructive sermon on the Gospel of the day, and at the conclusion said he was very pleased to see before him such a large number of members of the Holy Name Society, their great object being the prevention of cursing, swearing and blasphemy and encouraged the members to keep their good example and Almighty God would shower his blessings on them in this life, and when the moment of death would approach they would share in the joys and happiness of heaven forever.

The members then received Holy Communion which was administered by Rev. D. O'Callaghan, Spiritual Director, and Rev. Dr. Green. After Mass the members again marched back in procession to the Aula Maxima. On the way along crowds stood and watched. Why because it made an impression on them to see such a beautiful and edifying sight at seeing so many of all classes banded together to try in a quiet yet effective manner to assist in stamping out cursing, swearing and blasphemy and asking the assistance of Him who is all powerful in Holy Communion. Such an inspiring sight must certainly produce good results for the future of the Holy Name. Arriving at the Aula Maxima they were addressed by the Director.

At 2.30 p.m. the members again met in the Cathedral in very large numbers. The Director occupied the pulpit and delivered a very instructive discourse, after which 41 new members were enrolled. Benediction was imparted by the Director and during which all the members joined in the singing of the Benediction hymns also the hymn of the Holy Name. After Benediction the members assembled in the Aula Maxima and here under the directorship of Mr. C. Hutton who so kindly devoted a half an hour of his valuable time teaching the members to sing in harmony the beautiful hymns of the Benediction. The Society therefore is very grateful to Mr. Hutton for his very great interest in them.

Dues were then collected and the usual business gone through after which the closing prayers adjourned one of the most successful meetings of the Holy Name Society.

S. A. Revival Services.

Under the leadership of Adj. Hargrove, the special services in the S. A. Citadel continue to be very successful. During yesterday's service crowds for some time attended the different services and, at night ten souls sought salvation, making a total of sixty since the 1st of June. The Junior Corps is adding no small amount of success to the Senior Corps. Their march and open-air service yesterday were much appreciated by the people and many favorable comments were passed upon them. On Thursday night, Mr. Jones, Supt. of the King George Institute will address the meeting and his daughter will sing. This meeting is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest by many and it is believed that the Citadel will be packed. It is thought by many that the No. 1 Corps is in a better condition than it has been for years, which reflects great credit upon the officers, Adj. and Mrs. Hargrove.—Com.

Concealment of Birth.

There arrived by the S. S. Prospero last night, from Old Perican, Const. March in charge of a prisoner named Delilah Rowe, who was brought to H. M. Penitentiary to serve six months imprisonment for concealment of birth. The facts of the case are: The accused who is twenty-eight years of age was engaged as a domestic with a family at Grate's Cove. A few weeks ago the servant was very ill in bed and the woman who attended her learned a story from the unfortunate woman and reported her condition to the Relieving Officer. The latter communicated with Constable March who accompanied by Dr. Pickard went to the house. A child had been born and the patient hid it underneath the sheet of the bed. The babe was found dead by the physician. After recovering the misguided female was taken into police custody. The prisoner was tried before Magistrate Vatcher, convicted and sentenced to six months imprisonment.

Heat.

By H. L. RANN.

Heat is a commodity which is served free of charge in the summer and bought by the short ton in the winter. Its principal ingredients are perspiration and sunstroke, both of which are caused by coming in contact with large quantities of unrefined heat and allowing it to settle in one spot.

Summer heat is produced by the earth edging in so close to the sun that there is nothing to interfere with telephone communication except 295,000,000,000 miles of unused atmosphere. In the winter the sun is several miles farther away, so that we do not feel it unless seated over a hot-air register. Some parts of the country have more heat than others, and are able to produce a very satisfactory imitation of a crematory without any effort on the part of the citizens. This tendency is easily overcome by liberal use of the shower bath, the ice pack and the porous union suit.

In the south the heated term usually begins on January 1 and runs without successful interruption until the judgment day. People in the south never feel the heat at all when they are writing home for the newspapers, and by careful management are able to work several hours a day by keeping in the shade with a tub of iced tea at their elbow.

The most energetic brand of heat is manufactured in the north during July and August. This kind of heat will follow a man home at night and pursue him up four flights of stairs into a corner room, where it will camp by his bed until morning and cause him to pant with the untrammelled order of a Newfoundland dog. When this kind of heat is working properly it will shrivel the wings off a June bug and give a pink and white complexion a coat of sunburn over night.

The only reason heat was invented was for the purpose of maturing the corn crop. It is also used to blast Kansas wheat, and promote the sale of electric fans to people who would rather put the money into lingerie dresses.

Dancing to Destruction.

When I hear the music to the "Turkey Trot," the "Tango," the "Grizzly Bear" and the "Bunny Hug," I can see the devil fiddling in the band. A few years ago, the police interdicted state exhibitions of a less gross character. To-day, fathers, and husbands and brothers "trot" unblushingly in company with mother and daughters and sisters—the spectacle is appalling.

The minuet is stately and exquisite; the waltz is poetry in motion; there is pure rhythm in the schottische and the polka; joy of living in the mazurka and chardash, and rollicking fun in the Virginia reel. But the "trot" and "hugs" and "tangos" are heritages from the bagnio—gifts of the brothel.

A strong-willed and clean-minded woman can at least restrain the impulses that must arise when her whole body is clasped against the sensuous person of her partner, but the menace therein for the ignorant and irresolute of every age, is self-evident. New York has gone dance-mad. The Broadway restaurants are crowded nightly with "trotters" whose activities continue until the closing hour. Road-houses advertise dancing for their patrons, and halls devoted solely to "trotting" and "ragging" are being opened in all quarters.

The seriousness of the situation is intensified by the sale of drinks; and between lascivious music, lustful dancing and liquor, the toll of dishonour is bound to be heavy.

To make matters worse, many hotels announce tea-dances, affording opportunity for girls to elude the vigilance of their parents and for married women to take advantage of their confiding and unsuspecting husbands.

Meanwhile, the devil fiddles and smiles—business is picking up in Hell.—Herbert Kaufman, in the Woman's World for July.

Among the most attractive dresses are those worn with the high-neck ruffles, of pleated tulle and lace. The sleeves are trimmed with similar ruffles of tulle strapped with bracelets of ribbon.

When washing black combs, brushes and trays try rubbing a little olive oil into them after washing them. This will prevent their turning gray and streaked.

Stabbing Affray
at Inverness.Belgian Seriously Wounded a Fellow Coal Miner.

Inverness, N.S., June 9.—Yesterday about 5 p.m., a Belgian, Anselm Lonche, twenty-two years of age, met a fellow coal miner, Joseph McInnis, aged twenty-one, on Central Avenue, and invited him for a walk. The two walked up Forest Street about ten yards when without warning, the Belgian drew a knife from his pocket, and stabbed McInnis immediately above the heart. The wound is serious, but probably not fatal. The wound bled very freely for a time, indicating that an artery had been severed. Lonche made good his escape and has not yet been captured.

Lonche has a wife and two children residing here. He is a smooth faced man, standing about five feet nine inches, dark hair and deep set dark eyes, slightly stooped, good features.

It appears that McInnis and Lonche had a disagreement in the mine here a few days ago, which probably led up to the stabbing. Drs. Proudfoot and McMillan attended to the wounded man.

STORY OF THE PRINCE OF WALES

A story told about the Prince of Wales is worth repetition. Not long ago he was dining out with some friends, and on leaving the house was helped on with his overcoat by his host. "What a nice coat, sir," remarked his host. "Yes, isn't it," replied the young Prince. "It was father's."
