nent that Germany has an armada o rrible cruisers, and the next that hey are frail cockleshells incapable watch the returns of shipping losses and draw our own deductions. The strange thing in the Germans' mental attitude is that they are not deterred from the most absurd boasts by the prospect of the effect that their possible failure to be realised will have. Thus the Kreuz Zeitung is able to say in the most naive way, "God grant that we do not renew with our submarines our deceptive experiences with Zeppelins." The same paper, confessing thus its uneasy misgivings yet proclaims the dreadful things th submarines are going to do. To a nation possessed of a shred of humour this would be the surest way to prepare for failure and demoralisation But the wildest critic never yet accused Germany of a sense of humour. When the submarine crusade has been proved to the Germans themselves a fiasco, they will be genuinely puzzled f outsiders remind them that they oasted about it.

At a meeting of the Pension Board held in the Colonial Building yesterday afternoon Major Carty, Hon. M. G. Winter. Hon. P. T. McGrath and Mr. H. E. Cowan attended, together with ten returned soldiers. The object of the meeting was to discuss some plan of re-education of returned and incapacitated soldiers. The education that a soldier will receive is not necesarily the ordinary system as used in the public schools, but more on the lines of a commercial training. Hon. P. T. McGrath occupied the chair and outlined the intention of the Pension Board in callnig the meeting. The desire of the Board is to have a full record of every returned soldier who through injury or sickness caused by active service has been prevented from follow ng his former occupation. It was pointed out that soldiers formerly tradesmen, drapers, grocers, etc., who had lost the use of one hand or one leg might learn telegraphy or some other light work. Yesterday was only the beginning of a number of meetings to be held in the future, from which, there is no doubt, good results will follow. The personnel of the Board is such as will guarantee its usefulness to those whom it in
