The Wolves had gathered four runs in the first four frames, three of them off Doogins, but the Tecs came through with a wailop in the sixth and counted tut six tailies. Bill Whaley took up the sitching duties in this frame, after latuzak had given away to Morton, and he latter only faced two men before he dipped back to the dugout gloom.

Get Two More.

Two more runs were made in Khaley's time, a walk forcing in one that an error accounting for the other, but that was about all that marred the Wolf outfielder's pitching performance, de held the Londoners to four hits from hen onwards, and in the 11th, with a riple on which he scored under a sacrifice fly, made a bid at winning his own tame. The Londoners spoiled that mort, however, by coming back in their alf, Mackey's double scoring Schaefer. It was a bang-up affray, but it should ever have come to the 12th. Having

One of the stipulations or claims of the new purchaser was that the Ottawa Hockey Association claimed soleright to the name "Ottawa" in all hockey matters, and, further, to the exclusive right to operate a professional hockey team in the capital.

In connection with the transfer of the stock of the Ottawa Hockey Association, it still remains to be seen whether or not a general hockey war is to result. It will certainly mean the going ahead with the new $200,000 artificial ice palace, which is included in the plans of the Ottawa Stadium Company, Limited. It was also conceded last night that a second professional hockey team for Ottawa Is now assured.

Eddie Plank Is Danforth's Model

THEY say Eddie Plank is Dave Danforth's model of all a baseball pitcher ought to be.

This isn't strange. About five years ago, after Dave had been tried out with the Chicago White Sox and found wanting, Eddie took him in hand. He gave much good advice to the youngster, and a great deal of it will stick with him. He nitches with Eddie's old form and the pitcher has something that's a fooler he's worried and makes an easy mark. Eddie also emphasized cutting the recovery and keeping the hall away. the corner and keeping the from the batter's waist."

Pring and Moylan Duel For Seven Frames To Scoreless Finish kept the hits down.

Moylan and Frankie Pring engaged in a scoreless duel in the Manufacturers' League last night for seven innings, the game being called as an 0-0 tie. Moylan, pitching for Scott-McHale, allowed the Trunks but three hits, while Pring only allowed the Shoemen six, and struck out a string of ten. Pring walked three batters, Moylan only issued one pass.

It was chilly to watch, but much the best game staged in the Manufacturers this year.

The Aces always looked easier than the Wolves anyway. In between the times Whaley spent fussing and doing everything but digging away the mound and putting himself in the hole, he pitched a game that would do credit to most hurlers let alone a converted outfielder.

TO MEET GREB. PHILADELPHIA, June 13. - Harry

Matuzak, who broke into the circuit last year with speed as his chief asset, has lost a lot of speed and also a lot of games this season. Knoll has been hoping that things would break better for the big boy, but the season's getting well on and he didn't show much sign of a return to form yesterday.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—Harry Greb, light heavyweight champion, on the sacks cost them the second game of the series, which went to the Aces by a 3 to 0 count. Behan also turned in a good game, allowing but six hits, but Saginaw managed to bunch for their three counters. Gray and Elliott proved the best stickers, with three hits in four times to bat,

Buck Boyle must have struck the lowest peak of his batting slump by this time. Nobody's picking on the London first-sacker either in the way of grabbing the labels off hits. Malmquest showed signs on Monday of better optics.

With these two hitting, the team right now couldn't be jockeyed out of many games.

If Whaley had much stuff, he had it concentrated for Watson. The London third-sacker whifted three times against Whaley's offerings, but fortunately it didn't mean anything.
