REASON No 9 WHY YOU SHOULD USE Red Rose Tea

Because it is accepted as a standard of quality.

Red Rose Tea can be found in the sample room of nearly every tea firm in Canada. It is used as a standard of quality by which they judge their own teas.
A large London, Eng. Tea firm recently asked their correspondents in Montreal to send them samples of the best brand of tea sold in this country—they sent Red Rose.

This is a very high tribute to Red Rose Tea. If you will try the tea you will feel endorsing this tribute.

All The Time.

Tell the world you're feelin' prime;
Even if sorrow takes his seat,
Tell it, "I'm a singer's sweet!"
Only way to get along—
Down your sighs an' sing your song!

All the time—
Bells are just about to chime,
Winter peeps you with his snow,
But somewhere the daisies grow,
Brave old heart, an' faith that's strong—
Down the sorrow with the song!

All the time—
Face the sunnits you must climb;
Watch the eagles in their flight—
Up an' up, is cloudless light!
Though the winds are howling,
Darkness drifts to light and song!

Selected Story.

THE REBELLION OF MOLLY.

Molly was thirty now. She had spent her life thus far in starting other people off, and staying, herself, behind. She was the youngest in a family of seven children, and the only one to remain unmarried. This letter had never been a time for Molly to marry. First, there was Mabel's wedding, then Tom's, then the double wedding of the twins. Then Jennie called—had left a dainty peck at her in lieu of a kiss and had departed on a wedding trip.

Molly had been a wonderful convenience these last ten years since mother died. Of course when Mabel's baby came, dear Molly must needs go here at once; and by and by, when the croup and the measles and the whooping cough followed, dear Molly was the advent of Tom's eldest boy—dear Molly was so good a nurse, and wouldn't she please come? And dear sister Marion went. The better part of a year had been spent by this same Molly at the bedside of one of the twins; and daily pilgrimages were now being made to the little cottage down the lane where poor Jennie was resting—in anything but leisure—her baby marriage to young Hankins.

Molly looked thoughtfully around her tiny sitting-room and frowned a little at the various signs of disorder which seem to necessarily attend the departure of a member of my family, Mabel, Tom, the twins, Jennie and Marion—they were all gone now, and unconsciously Molly sighed—a deep, contented sigh, which spoke volumes. The lane, straightened a tidy on the back of a chair, and smoothed the rug in front of the ball door.

"No, Molly! I'm so glad you've come to—
I hoped you would! You are so lovely and so happy!" exclaimed the woman, with a pitiful wistfulness in her voice.

Molly's cheeks were pink and that strange gleam had not left her eyes, as she answered shortly:

"Yes, of course she looked pretty, and of course she's happy," then, with unwonted abruptness—"Why didn't you come?"

Fred Heakin's wife flushed painfully. "Why, Molly, I told you yesterday I should not go. You know—I can't bear to meet folks now; besides, baby was sick, and—ah—I've no finer for weddings!" bitterly.

"No, I suppose not," replied her sister.

"You don't know how I miss your dear visits and your cheery ways. The children cried for you every time they saw your picture, so I have had to put it out of sight. Someway, every thing has gone wrong since you went, and you're not to run to with all my perplexities. But, don't mind if you are enjoying yourself—and of course you are."

ter, still with unkindly shortness; then she added quickly—"I came down to see if you didn't want me to come and live with you. You do, don't you?" Jennie looked frightened.

"Why, yes, of course—yes—I'm sure."

"O, you needn't hesitate," interrupted Molly, sourly. "I won't be a burden to you. I can nurse the children, and give them music lessons, and look after the house, and keep the books, and amuse the baby, and you can go off!"

"Why, Molly Adams! Are you crazy? What do you mean?" demanded Jennie, now thoroughly alarmed.

"I don't mean anything, dear. I fancy I am a little crazy. Perhaps the wedding has upset me. Never mind, I'll feel better tomorrow, and she began to stammer and stammer about the wedding, which eventually prevented any further questioning from Jennie; but she left a puzzled sister behind her who started for home ten minutes later.

Molly did not sleep much that night. To be sure, she prepared herself for her first night, and composed herself to rest by all the long hours spent by most people in slumber, she was staring into the dark, thinking and she was thinking of something—that delightful something—with a reckless born of desperation.

Yes, there were drawbacks—clothes, for her father, who, it is understood, is a widower and unable to take care of the child. Officers of the steamship Lake Champlain, on which she sailed to Canada, she is in charge when leaving port, and looked after her carefully until the vessel docked at St. John. There they handed her over to an interpreter who travels on immigrant trains of the company, and he brought her safely to Montreal. Yesterday she went with him into the passenger department of the company, where arrangements were made for her trip to Mayie, R. C., where she is going to live with an aunt and uncle. When everything was satisfactory, she rode down to the station and took a train for Quebec. The company will send special care of her until she reaches her destination. She will then have travelled over 6,000 miles with the C. P. R. as guardian.

Our Share of the Imperial Burden.
An Ottawa despatch says:—The present government has frequently expressed its conviction that the best contribution Canada can make to imperial defence is to maintain the defence of her own borders, and it is along these lines that all our military expenditures have been planned. Four years ago Sir Frederick Borden agreed to bear one-half the expense of maintaining the British garrison at Esquimaux, for which parliament has been voting about $100,000 per annum.

The military expenditure of Canada next year, when provision is made for the maintenance of the forts at Halifax, Montreal and Quebec, will be less than 10 million dollars. This is something over five and a half million dollars, which represents almost one dollar per head of our population. In 1898, when the present government assumed office, the military expenditure represented $2,173,516, or 43 cents per head on our population at that time. The present government has increased the military expenditure to $10,000,000, or one dollar per head on our population at that time. The present government has increased the military expenditure to $10,000,000, or one dollar per head on our population at that time.

PROTECTION FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS.
Threats of Abuse by Any Person in the Presence of Pupils is Prohibited.

An important Bill, designed to protect teachers in the public schools from threats and abuse from parents or others during school hours, was introduced by Attorney-General Langley in the House of Assembly yesterday. Mr. Langley said that if parents were permitted to burst into a school room and threaten and abuse teachers in the presence of pupils it would be destructive of discipline.

The Bill confers upon teachers during school hours the same control over the school room as the ordinary individual, and it provides that any person who, in the presence of pupils, uses profane, threatening, abusive or improper language toward the teacher, or who spoke or acted in such a way as to impair the discipline of the school, shall be liable to a penalty of not less than five nor more than twenty dollars, or in the alternative imprisonment.

A Chicago Alderman Oves His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
"I can hardly and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for ailments of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John S. Hines, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago, during the political campaign, I caught cold after being overworked, which irritated my throat, and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity, a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I think this medicine that I won my seat in the County. This remedy is for sale by S. N. Ware."

The Oldest Parliamentarian.
Senator Wark, the oldest Parliamentarian in the world, spent his 101st birthday quietly at his home in Fredericton, N. B. He received many callers who came to congratulate him, and there were also a number of messages from friends in public life in Ottawa and elsewhere. Senator Wark is enjoying good health. He rises at eight o'clock every morning, goes to bed at nine p.m., and eats three meals, shaves himself and personally attends to a good deal of his correspondence.

Extent of Blockade.
EAST AND WEST OF CHICAGO 125,000 CARS OF FREIGHT WERE STALLED.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Railway officials estimate that 125,000 cars of freight are stalled on railways east and west of here, owing to the recent heavy snow-storm. Of this number seventy-five thousand cars are said to be sidetracked on eastern roads, and 50,000 cars on roads west of Chicago.

It will require ten days or more to move this accumulation of freight to its destination, and it is probable that the loss in perishable stuff will be very heavy.

SHORT OF COAL.
The Sussex Manufacturing Company has closed down owing to the scarcity of coal, and the electric light plant is in connection with the manufacturing company, they want to reserve a little coal there is on hand for lighting purposes. If the storm continues, it is hard to say when they will get any coal over the railway.

Journey of 6,000 Miles.
From England via St. John to British Columbia.

(Montreal Gazette.)
An evidence of the care a railway company or steamship line is required to exercise occasionally with its passengers is shown by an experience which occurred recently on the C. P. R. A 7-year-old traveler, named Elizabeth Shaw. The little girl was entrusted to the company's care at Liverpool, by her father, who, it is understood, is a widower and unable to take care of the child. Officers of the steamship Lake Champlain, on which she sailed to Canada, she is in charge when leaving port, and looked after her carefully until the vessel docked at St. John. There they handed her over to an interpreter who travels on immigrant trains of the company, and he brought her safely to Montreal. SIX PACKED CARS STALLED.
Truro, N. S., Feb. 21.—The blockade was raised this afternoon by the clearing of the Oxford and Pictou branch. Immediately the plows got through, a train with six packed cars for the east left Truro, going via Oxford Junction and the Oxford and Pictou branch to Pictou and New Glasgow. The train carried the large number of passengers who have been stilled here for some time.

VINEYARD HAVEN PACKED WITH ICE.
Vineyard Haven, Mass., Feb. 23.—The fresh northerly wind today kept the harbor packed with heavy ice, and every vessel reported in port in the night is now frozen fast in the ice with no prospect of a change until another shift of wind and warmer weather. Some of the imprisoned vessels have been here nearly two months awaiting an opportunity to get around Cape Cod.

PENNSYLVANIA TOWNS ISOLATED.
Charion, Pa., Feb. 21.—Charion, Kane, Tioga, Marcellus and other towns in this vicinity are practically isolated on account of the deep snow which has drifted badly. It is impossible to get to these towns by the B. & O. Railroad has operated any trains north of this place. The towns here and Kane received no mails in several days since the B. & O. Railroad has operated any trains north of this place. The towns here and Kane received no mails in several days since the B. & O. Railroad has operated any trains north of this place.

MONTREAL'S SNOWFALL.
The records kept at McGill University show that the downfall of snow in Montreal this winter has been no less than 10 feet 4 inches. This is all ready four inches above the average of the total downfall in the past thirty years. March is the month in which the greatest snowstorms often take place, and only a few years ago 45 inches fell in that month. It is, therefore, the present winter may establish a record in snowfalls in that city. Last winter the total downfall was 8 feet 2 inches.

TERRIFIC STORM ON COAST.
Boston, Feb. 26.—The second great storm within a week skirted the southeastern New England coast today, giving exposed stations like Block Island, Nantucket and Highland Light a stiff north-easterly with some snow. Farther off the storm was more severe and at noon today the Nantucket light-house was plunged about a terrific sea, which subsided at dark, although the wind had backed from the northeast to the north northwest, and the storm was hurrying along in the path of the Gulf Stream. It is expected that incoming steamers will bring reports of tempestuous weather off the coast. The heaviest snow in years has been thundering on the New England coast for the past four days and today's storm will probably serve to continue it.

SCOTT'S EMULSION
is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

The Bank of Yarmouth May Disappear
Removal Amalgamation of Last Independent Local Provincial Bank—
With Union.

(Halifax Herald.)
There is now but one local independent bank in Nova Scotia outside of the capital, and that is the Bank of Yarmouth. Rumor, apparently well founded, has it that this bank also is soon to disappear—to be merged in the Union Bank of Halifax, the progressive Nova Scotia monetary institution with its 31 branches in this province, one in St. John and one in Trinidad. The likelihood of an amalgamation of the Bank of Yarmouth with one of the more powerful banks than for some time been discussed and has been seen to be inevitable. The terms of Yarmouth at present has four banks—the Bank of Yarmouth, and branches of the banks of Montreal, Nova Scotia and the Union Bank. Should this amalgamation take place, it would mean the lessening of the number to three.

T. W. Johns, cashier of the Bank of Yarmouth, arrived in the city on Sunday. Last evening he returned by the steamer Smail, accompanied by E. L. Thorne, general manager of the Union Bank of Halifax, and Mr. McEas, of the same institution.

The Bank of Yarmouth, of which Captain Lovitt is president, has a capital stock of $300,000, the par value of the shares being $75.

Interviewed by a Boston reporter previous to his recent departure for Europe, Sir Charles Tupper, quoted as saying, when speaking of the Americans who had removed to Canada:—

"We shall soon have 100,000 American farmers raising broad north of the boundary line," said he, "and when Mr. Chamberlain's policy goes into effect, of course the attraction will be all the greater."

"I have had large experience with Americans coming into Canada," he continued. "They are the most intelligent and best class of people; they are acquainted with the prairie States, and they have the information and the experience calculated to make them very good Canadians."

"I have at the side of American capitalists who have come into Canada, and gone into the House of Commons, and there were never more energetic than these men. Our system of government they consider as able to stand comparison with that of any in the world."
