QUESTIONS FOR THE KAISER

Every British subject must have been delighted with the published endorsements during the last few weeks by prominent individuals and periodicals of the United States, of the determination of Britain to prosecute the war until a peace is secured which will give promise of continuance, by the destruction of military despotism and the adoption of strong international guarantees.

One of those endorsements was made by Dr. Hugh Cabot, one of America's most skilful surgeons, who gave up his lucrative practice to become Chief Surgeon of the Harvard Surgical Unit with the British Expeditionary Force in France. His speech in Halifax, reported by the morning papers, was a brilliant and enthusiastic advocacy of the cause of the Entente Allies.

Another welcome pronouncement comes from the Boston News Bureau which remarks that all the seven wonders of the world fade on history's page, in comparison with the spectacle Great Britain presents today. Still another is the "Warning Against False Peace," signed by sixty-nine of the best known representative leaders of religious thought and effort. The original intention of the framers of the document was to ask...

known, long lists of signatures from Christian leaders whose convictions the document expresses were volunteered. In appealing to their fellow citizens against the cry for "peace, peace," when there is no peace they ask the following questions, based upon issues which are yet unsettled, and are making their mute appeal for final decision.

The ravage of Belgium and the enslavement of her people; was it right or wrong?

The massacre of a million Armenians; was it a permissible precaution or an unpardonable crime?

The desolation of Serbia and Poland; was this a regrettable necessity or a frightful injustice?

The destruction of life through the sinking of the Lusitania and of other merchant ships; was this an ordinary incident of warfare or was it deliberate and premeditated murder?

The starvation of Jews and Syrians in the Holy Land; is this an accident of economics or a violation of the laws of God and man?

The attempt to array Moslems against Christians in a "holy war"; was it a laudable act of imperial statesmanship or was it the treachery of a Christian monarch?

The intimidation of small nations and the violation of international agreements; are these things excusable under provocation, or damnable under all circumstances?

Surely, even the Kaiser, unless his conscience has been completely seared with "a branding iron," must answer these questions with an emphatic "No."

SCHOOL FAIRS

The Canadian Agricultural Gazette for January contains a long and interesting account of the School Fairs held in Canada during the last Autumn months. These institutions have now extended to every Province and are proving of great value in instructing and stimulating the young people of the public schools along various lines of useful and profitable endeavor.

The methods vary in different communities to meet local conditions, and are promoted and aided by Rural Science and Agricultural authorities. In this Province, thirty seven schools and fourteen counties out of the eighteen, were represented in a rural science section at the last provincial exhibition in Halifax. Similar sections were organized in some of the County Exhibitions, Lawrencetown, Annapolis Co., has had a school fair for six years. The last developed into a district fair, including six schools, and games of ball and other athletics were introduced. Bridgetown held its first school fair in the autumn, and is given the palm for the best record financially for the year in this Province. The money was raised by private subscriptions, door receipts, a flower guessing contest and the sale of ice cream etc. Most of it was expended in prizes, and the balance is held over with the expectation of another and better fair next autumn.

In the Province of Quebec, the Macdonald Agricultural College contributes largely to the success of the school gardens and fairs, under the direction of the Department of Agriculture for the Province.

In Ontario 275 rural school fairs were held. They included 2620 schools, and 69,282 youths took part in them. There were 113,263 entries and, 55,947 garden plots contributed of their contents. A new element introduced in some places was a contest in a Boys' Harseback Riding Class.

In Manitoba, two Ruthenian boys tackled an ox in a wagon, and brought to the Sifton Boys and Girls Club Fair chickens, potatoes and other farm products from a considerable distance. Boys and girls also brought Dairy Calves to some of the fairs. One of the most populous Ruthenian districts is located in the Province and the Department of Agriculture distributed more than nine thousand dollars worth of free supplies, eggs, grain and vegetables, with a view to increase the interest of these new citizens in their farm work.

In Chilliwack, Alberta, the District

Supervisor of Agricultural Instruction offered a Shield to be competed for by the schools having school gardens in the municipality, the shield to become the property of the first school which would win in the competition three times in succession.

The Director of School Agriculture in Southern Saskatchewan interjects in his report a note of warning to persons interested in these school fairs.

He says it is important that their educational value be kept prominent before the pupils and their parents. The prizes given for successful work should not be regarded as the end to be attained. This is a danger which should be guarded against by all who take part in the work. If the prizes are too keen, the moral and educational values which constitute the proper aim are likely to be neglected.

Now, let the young people of Annapolis County make up their minds to do their best. In Truro last season the vacant lots about the town were gay and beautiful with flowers. Every town has lots, unoccupied except by burdock, which might be similarly beautified. And every school in the County can have its own exhibits, if it cannot conveniently unite with others.

And let the teachers take notice of the statement by Mr. L. A. Dewolf, Director of the Rural Schools of Nova Scotia, that some local exhibitions dropped out last season because the previous teacher was followed by one who was not interested in the work.

THRIFT

One of the most important lessons to be taught to the children and young men and women of the present day is the duty of thrift. The dictionaries define this word as including economy, good husbandry, frugality, careful management and right use of property.

In these days become misers. The tendency is in the opposite direction, toward display, the disposition to surpass one's neighbors in dress, in adornment, in the beauty of the home and in other things which minister to vanity.

Children and young people too frequently crave money for present, personal gratification and form habits which are inimical to them in mature life. Parents are wise who carefully overlook and direct their children in this matter. A good plan is to provide the young people with small amounts in the Savings Banks, and teach them the value of money by guiding them in the spending of it. There are two organizations in the United States which have taken this matter in hand. The National Educational Association, and the American Society for Thrift. Each of these societies is offering cash prizes amounting to more than a thousand dollars, for the best essays in Thrift written by school children. Special medals are also provided for the same purpose, to be distributed to the writers of the best essays in the Counties. Every child in the United States may compete for a share of the cash to be distributed. The best essay in the County wins the cash as well as the medal, and the writer of it has the honor of reading it in the County Institute.

More than twenty thousand school children participated in the Thrift essay contest last year, and eleven contestants, representing eight of the States, received prizes. One of the societies, the National Educational Association, has provided two thousand five hundred County medals, and the Secretary is of the opinion that this number will not suffice for the present year.

Our Provincial educational authorities, who are doing a great deal for the young people in other lines of their work will well add to their usefulness by providing similar competition in essays.

MEETING OF THE NOVA SCOTIA POULTRY ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the above association took place at the Agricultural College, Truro, N. S., on Thursday, January 11th at 7 p. m. The President, Mr. Frank E. Jackson, North Sydney, in the chair.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and approved. The delegates reported for the different clubs.

B. H. Dodge reported that their club held a show but were unable to bring out the balance on the right side of the account.

Mr. W. T. Mattinson reported for the Glace Bay Club and stated that their show was held and the balance was $100.00 on the profit side of their account.

Mr. Fred Bath reported for the newly formed club for Annapolis County and stated that they expected to hold the first show this winter and would use every effort to keep the balance on the proper side of the account. It was also their intention to use a hand to draw the crowd to the show. He was in favor of giving all assistance possible to the members and their clubs to carry the shows to a successful finish.

Mr. E. E. Freehill, reported for the Egerton Poultry Club of New Glasgow. They had held a show and it was their eighth annual effort. It was hard to get funds enough to run the show but the bank which enabled them to raise the money they needed.

Mr. C. F. Bowes reported for the Halifax Poultry and Pet Stock Club. He stated that it was their intention to hold a show during the coming winter and had now about seventy valuable special prizes, including several silver cups.

The secretary gave a report of the work done over the province. Ten club shows were held in as many different counties and at all intervals. The different shows were revived and some suggestions were given for the improvement of the shows. It was also pointed out that it was not likely that any more assistance would be forthcoming for show purposes for some time.

The President and Mr. Mattinson called the attention of the members to the very unsatisfactory building in which the poultry exhibitors were compelled to show their fowls at the Sydney exhibition. It was noted and carried that the secretary write the Secretary for Agriculture asking that the grants available for poultry at this exhibition be withheld until this building is put into a satisfactory condition or a new one erected for the poultry exhibitors.

Mr. Bath called attention to the resolutions passed last year re standardizing egg for export, and the secretary was instructed to find out what action was taken in this important matter. Several members called attention to the habit of retail dealers displaying eggs in store windows exposed to the sun and it was decided to have the secretary draw up a letter similar to the one used last year calling attention to this oversight and asking merchants and dealers to use display cards and to try and keep the eggs in the coolest place in the store.

After some discussion it was decided to ask the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa and the Director of the Experimental Farms, Ottawa, to put on exhibition an educational exhibit of poultry and eggs at each and every one of our provincial club shows.

The question of ways and means of carrying on the shows brought out a great deal of discussion. It was decided that the secretary try and get the consent of the new Commissioner for Agriculture to use some of the federal grant to help out the poultry show's prize list.

Mr. Bath, Mr. Bowes and others suggested that it would be a good idea to consider ways and means of providing funds to start a laying contest in the near future. It was decided that owing to war conditions, not to press a claim for this work, but to gather material re these contests for next meeting and then to give the matter more consideration.

It was moved and passed that the secretary write the clubs two months before the meeting is held in order that a discussion may be held and a delegate be elected to attend the annual meeting.

Professor M. Cumming, Secretary for Agriculture, addressed the meeting briefly and stated he was in accord with the objects of the Association. He made several inquiries re the conducting of the laying contest work and suggested that plans be submitted to the Department when completed for this work.

The election of officers resulted as follows:— President—Mr. Fred Bath, Bridgetown. Vice-President—Mr. E. E. Freehill, New Glasgow. Executive Committee—W. F. Mattinson, Glace Bay; Frank E. Jackson, North Sydney; C. F. Bowes, Halifax; W. W. Osbourne, New Glasgow; H. M. Pettit, Yarmouth; Thos. McDonald, Antigonish. Secretary—Treasurer—J. P. Landry, Truro, N. S.
