

CHAPTER VII.

National Monument hieroglyphically historical.—Traditional Deciphering of the Same, &c.	PAGE 68
--	---------

CHAPTER VIII.

The Monumental Tortoise.—Description of Fort Ancient in Warren County, Ohio.—Discovery of the Ancient Existence of a Deep Ditch within by boring.	73
--	----

CHAPTER IX.

Monuments of Wisconsin and Minnesota Triangular Cemeteries.—The Great Spider Memorialized on the Plains.	81
---	----

CHAPTER X.

Sacrificial Altars enclosed by Crescent Works, &c.—Triangles in Minnesota.—The Sacrificial Pentagon.—The Offering of Human Sacrifice, &c.	89
--	----

CHAPTER XI.

Triumphal Memorials of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa, seen in Earthen Effigies.—Memorials of Chiefdom, &c.	104
---	-----

CHAPTER XII.

Title Memorial Mounds.—Their Form and Various Relative Arrangement.—Reflections of De-coo-dah.—The Trees of War and Peace.—Their Locality and Traditional Import.	108
--	-----

CHAPTER XIII.

The Serpent in the Wilderness seen in Truncated Earth-Works of Great Dimensions in Iowa.	115
---	-----

CHAPTER XIV.

De-coo-dah's Traditional Description of the Ceremonials of Ancient Festivity when in National Union.—The Order of Celebration, &c.	126
---	-----

CHAPTER XV.

The Time of holding Union Festivals.—The Erection of Festival Habitations.—Previous Preparations.—The Mode and Manner of Forming National Circles, &c.	134
---	-----

CHAPTER XVI.

Primitive or Ancient Deposites.—How distinguished from more Recent Deposites.—The Deposite of Mica in the Tombs of the Prophets.	138
---	-----