He still comes to church, and is willing now to be baptized; but Mr. Wright thinks it best to test him awhile, because of former instability. Might I ask you to pray specially for this young man "Kamdayal." He is very intelligent and well educated; his conversion would do much to influence others. He is strangely under the power of a Babaji, "Dharmdas." Let us pray against this. There are others more or less under influence. At Exchange school-house we have good congregations. This should be the centre of our field; it is on the same land with the new mission house. The church will be built here also.

Before the railway was built California was naturally the centre, but now Exchange is every way best suited. It has required a great amount of labour to bring this about, but we feel that now the object is gained, and it will help future operations. The school here is the one for which we have asked the teacher, and we thank you heartily for what you have done. We will try to make our home a home for whoever may come. Reports from all the schools are very encouraging. The young Scotchmen seem more than ever interested; they attend service regularly. Beyond doubt, the result in that direction has more than warranted the labour. It would do you good to hear them singing in this strange land the songs of Zion. We feel sure that angels often stop to listen as we lift our voices together in the psalms of Judah's bard.

We are to have a concert next week in aid of the Building Fund; Sir John Gorrie, Chief Justice, is to take the chair. I will send you a paper with the report of it.

FROM MRS. JONES.

ROUND LAKE, BROADVIEW P. O.,

Sept. 23, 1886.

As Mr. Jones and myself have been appointed by our Church to assist the Rev. H. McKay in his work among the Indians of the North-West, Round Lake being chosen as our destination, we lost no time in complying with the request of the Mission Board; and here we are with Mr. McKay, our dear and much loved missionary. I presume you are aware that he has been in this mission for the last
