

out the remotest view to publication. and the style is remarkably easy and familiar, with a Scotch expression here and there intermixed. But all this gives it a charm, especially to the natives of "Caledonia, stern and wild."

---

THE LIFE OF ARTHUR VANDELEUR, Major, Royal Artillery By the author of "Memorials of Captain Hedley Vicars," "English Hearts and English Hands." New York: R. Carter & Brothers. Sold by D. McLellan, Hamilton.

The excellent writer of this memoir is already well known to the christian community not merely as a writer, but as a worker, one who has done much to exert a beneficial and christian influence on large classes otherwise too much neglected. This new work from her pen will still farther extend her influence. The memoir itself is full of interest, showing, as it does, how a gallant soldier may be a most devoted christian—may lead a holy life and die full of faith, and joy and peace. Major Vandeleur was one of the heroes of Sebastopol, although, owing to ill health, he had to leave before the fall of that stronghold. He afterwards held several appointments, but suffered from delicate health which ultimately brought him to the grave. But both during his life and in the prospect of death he left many satisfactory evidences that all was well.

---

BROAD SHADOWS ON LIFE'S PATHWAY—By the author of "Doing and Suffering," &c. New York: R. Carter & Brothers. Sold by D. McLellan, Hamilton.

The object of this book is to exhibit and illustrate the real nature of true religion, and the motive power which is supplied by its existence in the heart. The scenes chosen to illustrate the subjects discussed lie partly in India, and partly in London, the great metropolis of wealth and trade. There are many very graphic descriptions of scenes in India during the period of the great rebellion. The object aimed at is most praiseworthy, and the manner in which it is sought to be carried out is interesting and attractive. It is altogether a work that will be read with interest, and that cannot fail to exert an influence for good.

---

LOUISE JULIANNE, ELECTRESS PALATINE, AND HER TRIALS—New York: R. Carter & Bros. Sold by D. McLellan, Hamilton.

In this volume we have, pleasantly told, the life of an excellent woman, who, in addition to high birth and rank, had many estimable qualities adorning her character. She filled a prominent place in society in her day, and passed through many and severe trials, endured with great patience and meekness. The book is one which will be read with interest and profit, and we have pleasure in bearing testimony to its excellence.

---

BOOKS RECEIVED FOR NOTICE.

TONY STARR'S LEGACY; DAY BREAK; THE LITTLE BROWN BIBLE; BERTHIE LEE.