In consequence of representations made to the Provost of Glasgow that holding the foundation-stone procession on Friday week involves the loss of two days' pay, a meeting of committee was held, when it was decided to fix August 13, for the ceremonial. At the banquet which is to be given in the evening arrangements have been made to have the Town Hall lit with electric light.

The remains of two of the unfortunate persons who lost their lives in the Garloch were interred on July 25, those of Mr. David Croll being buried in the Southern Necropolis and those of Mr. William Croll in Craigton Cemetery. A large company of mourners assembled at the Bath Hotel at one o'clock and took part in the funeral procession, which went first to the one burying place and then to the other.

A boy about 11 years of age, son of William Kilpatrick, miner, Boglemart street, Stevenson, was accidentally killed on the 23rd July. Near to Stevenson Station there is a branch line across the moor to Ardeer Iron Works, and along this line a mineral train was proceeding to the furnaces, when, close to Ardeer Academy, the boy Kilpatrick was running across the line, but being caught by the advancing train, he was so much injured that he died on the spot.

On July 26 the steamer "Transit," which has been chartered from the owner, a South Shields gentleman, was employed conveying excursionists from Alloa to Leith to witness the ceremony of opening the new dock, when, on the ground that there had been some infringement of the charter party, the owner and one or two men stepped on board at Leith with the intention of forcibly taking possession of the vessel, and thus preventing its return to Alloa. The charterers, however, immediately made application to the Lord Ordinary on the Bills (Lee), who granted interim interdict against the owner interfering, and the "Transit" was able to complete its voyage this evening.

On 26th July Peter Hannah, a servant on the farm of Clendry, near Stranraer, aged 19 years, and who belonged to near Newton Stewart, went missing. Thinking he had deserted his service, there was no search made for him. On Monday night, however, some boys passing Kinkie Tollwood, on the Clendry farm, observed the body of Hannah hanging from the branch of a tree, with a rope round his neck. They immediately ran to the farm and gave information, and the policeman of Newluc was also communicated with, when the body was cut down. The branch on which he had hanged himself was 17 feet from the ground. From the appearance of the body he appears to have committed suicide on the day he went missing.

For some days past the farmers in the Lothians have been thriving for rain, but on Wednesday all seemed very contented, the rain of Monday and Tuesday having fully supplied their immediate wants, and the bright sunshine following being very favourable for the ripening of the grain and the growth of the root crops. In the southern counties of England we hear the harvest is very general, but in the Lothians there is no very immediate prospect of cutting being begun till about the middle of August. By that time, however, the reaper should be heard in the earlier districts, if the weather continue favorable. The general opinion is that the cereal and root crops will be, if not a large, at least a good average, with the exception of turnips, which will be lighter than usual. Hay in many parts has turned out a better crop than was anticipated; but on the whole it will be light. Horses are keeping at good prices, though a dull sale. Fat stock is selling at remunerative rates.

A meeting of the Law Committee of Dundee Town Council was held on 27th July, when Mr. Buchan brought up the question of the Council making an endeavor to secure the lowering of the Tay Bridge to a height below that lately sanctioned by Parliament. He thought that in the interests of the traveling public the bridge should be built according to the later plans prepared by Mr. Barlow, but which could not be discussed in Parliament this session, in consequence of the standing orders not having been complied with. Mr. Buchan considered it was due to the community that the Town Council should open up negotiations with the North British Railway Company and the people of Perth and Newburgh, to see if some agreement could be come to whereby the height of the bridge could be still further reduced. The committee, after consideration, agreed to recommend the Council to open such negotiation, the convener (Mr. Menzies) reserving himself, on the ground that he thought it was now rather late to take such action.

On Monday morning, July 25, about seven o'clock, a party of seven went to bathe on the foreshore at Montrose, a little to the north of the stake nets opposite the Battery. Shortly after entering the water, one of the party, a lad of about 16 years of age named Alex. Pettis, son of Mr. Pettis, painter, and apprentice draper, was observed to have cramped, when Mr. J. W. Campbell, manager to J. P. Smith & Co., swam to his assistance, and reached the struggling lad and got hold of him. Unfortunately Pettis caught Campbell round the neck. On observing this, Mr. Lamb, agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Company, swam out to them and got a slight hold of them, when a huge wave struck them, when the three would have been drowned had not Lamb let go his hold. The tide at the time was ebbing at about five miles an hour, and Campbell and Pettis were carried out to sea and drowned. Lamb, himself, who was completely exhausted, was rescued by a salmon fisher who was at the stake nets at the time of the accident. Mr. Campbell, who belonged to Dundee, was cousin to the Rev. Alex. Campbell, Montrose, and was greatly respected. The lad Pettis was a fine, promising young man.

On the afternoon of the 26th July a lad, named James Cusack, residing at 30 Victoria street, Govan, was drowned in the harbor near Finnieston street. He was stepping from the steamer "St. George" to the quay, when he missed his footing and fell into the water. Some men who were at hand endeavored to rescue the lad, but he sank before assistance reached him. The body was recovered in about a quarter of an hour, but the lad was quite dead. The body was taken to the Receiving House at Marvbank. About four o'clock in the afternoon Daniel Mullan, laborer, 31 Albert street, Govan, was drowned in the harbor, opposite the mouth of the Kelvin. He was leaping from a small boat to a punt which was in tow of a tug steamer, when he fell into the water, having miscalculated the distance. Efforts were made to save him, but they were unsuccessful. His body was not got till four hours after.

ter. It was taken to Marvbank Quay. Deceased was about 27 years of age.

At Linlithgow Sheriff Summary Criminal Court, on 23rd July, Daniel Garberry, a miner, was charged—before Sheriff Home, with being implicated in the recent riot at Broxburn in which a mob numbering over 300 attacked a police constable when apprehending a prisoner, maltreated that officer very badly and released the prisoner. Garberry pleaded not guilty. From the evidence it appeared that Constable Thom was alone in the town at the time of the riot, his colleague Constable, Hodge, being absent on duty. The row occurred not far from the police station, and Constable Hodge's wife, seeing the difficulties in which Thom was placed, issued from the station, gallantly fought her way through the crowd, knocking her antagonists aside and left with both skill and vigor. She made her way to her husband's colleague, and stood side by side with him, helping him greatly and showing as much courage and determination as the constable himself. It was proved also that the accused was one of the worst offenders, that he struck and otherwise abused the policeman, and that he absconded from Broxburn immediately after—being only recently apprehended. He was sent to prison for 60 days, half of that period to be with hard labor.

RICHMOND ITEMS.
[From our own Correspondent.]
Several of our citizens who had been spending a few days at the seaside returned on Saturday. All seemed to have enjoyed their trip.

Mr. A. Brown, of this place, has commenced shipping lambs to Boston. He intends during the season to ship about three cars per week.

Mr. John Ryan, of Quebec, has been in Compton for some time past, where he purchased 400 head of beef cattle, which were shipped to England at prices from 5s. to 5s. 3c. per pound on foot. He also intends to ship a large number of fat sheep.

Freight and passenger traffic has largely increased on the G. T. R. within the last few months.

The Roman Catholics of this village are about to erect a new school house, the one now in use being found too small to meet the wants of the increasing population.

Richmond is going to have water-works, a new bridge over the St. Francis river, and a dog trot; then the Municipal Council will have vacations.

WICKED FOR CLERGYMEN.
Rev.—Washington, D.C., writes: I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuff called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."—New York Baptist Weekly.
