

COLLEGE EDUCATION.

Our great non-Catholic colleges produce some wonderful men, indeed. Just now the faculty of Cornell University is in a furor over the serious outcome of the annual underclass fight held upon the occasion of the freshmen's banquet. It seems 150 freshmen were taken by the sophomores and paraded about the streets of the town dressed in fantastic costumes, with their class numerals "07" painted on their faces with nitrate of silver and cupidors tied upon their heads. The offenders were surprised to hear that nitrate of silver leaves the victims with scars for the remainder of their lives, and they are now "sorry" for their criminal acts. The faculty of the university will, no doubt, do all they can to punish the guilty ones, but there will never be an end to such business until the gentlemen ruffians are given to understand that the law of the state will take a hand in the "fun" and put the culprits where they justly belong—in prison.

Do we ever read of this sort of thing occurring in a Catholic college? Never! Why is it thus? Simply because the faculty of our Catholic universities are men and women drilled to perfection in the code of morality; instructors who inculcate the highest ideals of life and ultimate end for which man is destined. What do the graduates of Protestant universities of our day attain to? In the majority of cases to professional athletes and "men about town." There are exceptions only go to prove the general rule. What of the graduates of Catholic colleges? (we are speaking here of the laity only). The graduates of these institutions are forging to the fore throughout the country. The finger of suspicion is never pointed to them; they hold the responsible positions in many of our great financial institutions, and their mode of living is the fruit by which they are known. There would be no government scandals—post-office frauds, crooked contracts, etc.—if the incumbents of our public offices were graduates from Catholic schools and colleges. Nor is this all. They are blessed by God with the greatest minds, responsive to the touch of intellectual influences, grasping and retaining them to overcome the great difficulties encountered in every day life.

If these outrageous conditions exist in non-Catholic universities—such being conceded by all to be the case—are they the proper place for our Catholic youth? Any fair, practicable man will admit that these institutions are a menace to future society. Does this not justify the position assumed by Right Reverend Bernard J. McQuaid, D. D., Bishop of Rochester, and a noted champion of the cause of true education, that no Catholic young man or woman can conscientiously present themselves at these institutions for continuing their education in the higher branches of study? Is it not a fact that the divorce courts of the country are supported by graduates of these universities? Close proximity to disease breeds contamination.—Catholic Citizen.

IGNOBLE MEANS.

"To understand the methods of the anti-clerical party in France, one should read their newspapers. The 'Aurore,' edited by Mr. Georges Clemenceau, one of the leading radical deputies, has in a recent issue a news paragraph headed 'Congregationist Assassins.' The murderer turns out to be a man who had been expelled from a religious order, and whose mistress was also expelled from the convent in, which she was educated. In the same issue is a leading article condemning clerical education for the rearing of a criminal named Bacot. The facts are that Bacot had been received into a Catholic school, out of regard for his father, when he was thirteen years old, and sent away for misconduct the same year. Even the most anti-Catholic Englishman or American ought to draw the conclusion that the cause which needs the services of slander must be a bad one."—The Casket.

We Shall Spend $500,000 To Give Liquozone Away.

This Company, after testing Liquozone for two years in the most difficult germ diseases, paid $100,000 for the American rights. That is the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery.

We are now spending $500,000 to give the product away—one bottle to each of a million sick ones. We are doing this so that every sick one may let Liquozone itself prove what it can do.

Kills Inside Germs

The greatest value of Liquozone lies in the fact that it kills germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. And no man knows another way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease, as every physician knows.

Liquozone will do for sick humanity more than all the drugs in the world combined. It does what no skill can accomplish without it. It cures diseases which medicine never cured.

Acts Like Oxygen

Liquozone is the result of a process which, for more than 20 years, has been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, these gases are made part of the liquid product.

The result is a product that does what oxygen does. Oxygen gas, as you know, is the very source of vitality, the most essential element of life. Liquozone is a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill.

The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone, which—like oxygen—is life to an animal, is deadly to vegetal matter. It is carried by the blood to every cell of every tissue, and no touch of impurity, no germ of disease, can exist where Liquozone goes.

Germ Diseases

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

SECRET SORROWS.

Let sorrow make us kind, for all
 As we, have grief and care,
 And they are not the happiest
 Who smiling faces wear;
 We often hurt a breaking heart
 It should be ours to bind—
 And thoughtless pass upon our way—
 Let sorrow make us kind.

We know our own deep sorrow
 All too sacred to reveal,
 Our tortured spirit's anguish
 That we would with smiles conceal
 In secret others shed their tears,
 The one relief they find,
 Ah, could we but remember this
 And sorrow make us kind.

For there is pain and grief enough
 In this hard world of ours—
 A path with roses may be strewn,
 But thorns are with the flowers;
 With one and all it is the same,
 From king to lowly hind,
 Then, though from all we hide it,
 let

Our sorrow make us kind.
 —Richard W. Mould.

REST FOREVER.

When hues of sunset gently stream
 Over life's receding river,
 Then weary spirit in that beam
 Fly home to rest forever.

Is not this life still full of woe?
 And care forsakes us never;
 Morning and eve the tears down
 flow,
 Seeking sweet rest forever.

Ah! should a bird with tired wing
 Grieve from its toils to sever;
 Would it not then more blithely
 sing,
 Finding sweet rest forever.

A RESOURCEFUL WOMAN.

"I think it is a foolish fashion that so many women indulge, that of telling their age wrongly," said the woman with the prematurely gray hair. "I can honestly say that I never practise it myself."

"No?" said her friend, with many meanings on the monosyllable.

"Well," said the first speaker, with a smile—she was a woman with a sense of humor—"the fact is, I don't have to. I have a way of making myself out younger than I am, if I wish to, without telling a fib at all."

"Really?" inquired the other, curiously; "in what way?"

"I put the burden of the fib all upon the questioner. You see when one of my dear women friends—it is always women who are curious on this point—asks me how old I am, I say, 'Oh, I'm a year or two older than you, you know my dear—at least a year older. Let me see, now, how old are you?' And then she always knocks more off my age than I should ever have the nerve to do myself."

DANGER OF APPENDICITIS

HOBBY.

To the Editor—We notice a great deal in the papers concerning appendicitis, and know it to be a very popular disease with a certain class of physicians. This hobby has been ridden until the public, including a goodly number of wild-eyed physicians, have become all but panic stricken. Every little pain is appendicitis, or you are threatened with appendicitis, or if medical aid has not been obtained at once appendicitis would have been the result, or it is appendicitis and an immediate surgical operation is demanded in order to save life, etc.

Now, all of this moonshine lies in the imaginative and misguided eyes of the honest but careless and poorly qualified physicians, who listen to a lot of calamity howlers and would-be leaders, who see all pains about the abdomen through an appendicitic eye.

It is true we meet occasionally a condition which may rightly be diagnosed appendicitis, but even in these cases of true appendicitis there is no occasion for this great alarm and immediately rushing into a serious surgical operation, which in many instances is more dangerous to the life of the patient than appendicitis.

Young and vigorous persons will usually recover from the effects of these operations, to which the appendicitis is a side issue—since the greatest misfortune which can befall a patient is a localized abscess which may very readily and safely be opened at the proper time without endangering the life of the patient.

Then, if this be true, and time and experience have proved that it is, that the inflammatory cases of appendicitis will recover under proper medicinal and hygienic treatment, and that the worst which may happen to the traumatic cases (where foreign substances may lodge in the appendix) is a localized abscess which in itself is not immediately dangerous to life, and the simple opening and draining entails but little if any danger to life, even to the elderly and enfeebled.

This immediate surgical operation that is so popular and we hear so much of and which is always a brilliant success so far as the operation is concerned the young and vigorous will recover from, but to which the elderly and enfeebled must and do succumb; a very marked example of which we have but recently had in New York City.

This class of patients usually have the vitality to hold the fort while nature, with her great army collects and rounds up in one centre the offending substances in the form of pus and this pus will many times be thrown off through the point of least resistance which nature seems to select as the least dangerous one.

But if nature's work is interfered with in this class of patients during the rounding up period (acute inflammatory) there can be but one ending, and that the undesirable one, since the offending elements are diffused and cannot possibly be collected and removed by surgery.

Before operating ask yourself if you are not entitled to another guess, and that if nature, after all, is not pretty wise.

The Belgian government is frequently taunted with being clerical. We venture to assert that when its work is weighed, the general opinion will be that the more widely the principles by which it has been guided are adopted, the better it will be for the interests of the masses.

In twenty years without exceeding the ordinary budget of 15,000,000 francs, they achieved most notable results and kept the nation in the fore front of progress. Old age pensions have been introduced; a fund has been provided for the remuneration of men engaged in military duties; the price of sugar has been lowered by three pence in the kilogramme; the public services have been improved; there has been an increase of 1,000,000 francs annually in the sum devoted to education, and of 100,000,000 in the economic provisions for the benefit of the people.

No new taxation has been imposed other than a rise in the duty on alcohol, in the consumption of which there has, in consequence, been a diminution of a third. M. de Smet de Naeyer, president of the cabinet and minister of finance during a recent discussion on the budget, observed that the man who would have said twenty years ago that all this could be done would be looked upon as a dreamer. He is proud of the programme the government has carried out, and the pride is very justifiable.—Exchange.

Smith seeing a beggar bearing a sign reading "Deaf and Dumb":—"I'd like to help this poor fellow, but I don't know how to tell whether he is really deaf and dumb. Beggar (softly):—"Read the sign, mister; read the sign."

A Serenely Happy Man

Is Mr. Thos. McGlashan, of North Pelham, who was cured of muscular rheumatism by Nerviline, the most powerful rheumatic remedy in the world. "I suffered all manner of pain for years," he writes, "and Nerviline was the only thing that did me any good. I can heartily recommend Nerviline for all forms of it; it goes to the very core of the pain and brings lasting relief. Let every sufferer from lame back, aching joints and swelled limbs, use Nerviline. It's sure to cure and costs 25c. for a large bottle.
