

and recreate a sense of urgency. Environment ministers also called for international institutional reorganization, in particular the clarification of roles between the UN development and environment institutions. Ministers also noted that the World Trade Organization should give practical expression to the objectives of sustainable development. The WTO ministerial conference to be held in Singapore in December 1996 will provide an important opportunity to do so.