

with the British and Indian army, on the 18th and 22^d of January last, at the river Raisin, and after the surrender of our army as prisoners of war, on the 22^d, upon the assurances of the British officers promising protection to my wounded fellow soldiers, and that they would send carriages for them the next day, although I had received no injury in either of the actions fought on the 18th and 22^d, I voluntarily staid to assist and comfort my messmates, John Dawson and Albert Ammerman and Jesse Green, all of whom had received wounds by balls.

I have first examined the statement made and sworn to, by John Dawson, hereto annexed, and witnessed every circumstance therein stated to be truly stated within my own knowledge. The Indian who bargained with capt. Hart, to take him to fort Malden for one hundred dollars, and took charge of him—put him on a horse and started on his way; spoke good enough the English tongue for us to understand the contract.

THOMAS POLLARD.

PENDLETON COUNTY SS.

I, William Mountjoy, one of the commonwealth's justices of the peace for the state of Kentucky, in and for said county, do certify that the foregoing certificate of Thomas Pollard, was subscribed and sworn to before me.

Given under my hand this 21st April, 1813.

WM. MOUNTJOY.

State of Kentucky, Pendleton County, in the town of Falmouth.

On the 21st day of April, 1813, I, Albert Ammerman, a private of captain Glave's company of the first regiment of Kentucky volunteer militia, being wounded in the battle of the 18th January last, at the river Raisin, by a ball in the flesh of the thigh; and from the window of the house which was appropriated for an hospital, was a witness to the battle of the 22^d of the same month; and after the surrender, I, being but slightly wounded, proposed marching with the rest of the prisoners, and was prevented by the order of a British officer, who said that a guard would be left to take care of the wounded, and
