Better Transportation, Building Will Become Very Active - Annexation is a Step Toward Greater Toronto

will soon be part of Toronto, and will enjoy all the benefits citizens now have, and will have a large share in the general prosperity of the city.

Already prices have stiffened. There will be no great increase until the demand for property becomes widespread, but that will not be very long coming. A month, and buyers will have to pay considerably more than they would this ting a line on the best investments, that the town will get a large share of the city's great building activity is certain. The carrying of the annexation ite means that extensive buildproperty will be available to the builder. The greater part of the ng of the pear future will be on of builders. town's building restrictions will e good for some months yet. There is fire limit that roughly extends 600 est each side of Yonge st., and inside which brick structures are called for, ut beyond this the relaxation of buildrestrictions has built up several ty bungalow colonies. The prices of the land have in most quarters kept out the shack, and people who wish to-erect the neat and cosy frame bunga-lew, will find North Toronto an ideal spot and one where the beauty of a well built cottage or bungalow will be mhanced by the surroundings.

Some of the subdivision developers have brick building restrictions cover-

The Mackenzie-Mann railway interests will be divided in their grief over the lost chance to tie up Yonge-st., for annexation will place the big Leaside subdivision alongside the city limits.

The annexation of North Toronto makes the way for the broadening out of the city. It gives Toronto a chance to square off the north and northeast ends of the city by taking in of territory already partly improved. Toronto has now a chance to plan on wide civic lines and no time should be lost in getting enough good building land under city jurisdiction to relieve the tension of the local housing situation.

Drayton's Resignation to Be Discussed, as Well as Humber Valley Scheme and Civic Abattoir.

Nothing now stands in the way of the long protracted real estate movement in North Toronto. The city will now be able to go ahead and give the town far better service than the Metropolitan was willing to give. The freight cars will be moved from Yonge-st. A beginning will soon be made on the parallel road car line east of Yongest. The Grand Trunk will give a passenger service over the old belt line in the very near future. And the town will soon be part of Toronto, and will enloy all the benefits citizens now again sent on the name of William Fitzgerald for the vacant position of property commissioner in spite of the fact that the council declined to enappropriations for the parks department, tho these were passed by the committee. The Humber Valley park scheme, the new municipal abbatoir, Corporation Counsel Drayton's resignation, the peddler bylaw, and the proposed building to accommodate the feeble-minded are other questions up for discussion to-day.

Property Commissioner.

When the vacancy of property commissioner was last dealt with, only one vote stood between William Fitzgerald and the position. The division gerald and the position. The division was 11 to 9, and hence if one opponent has turned the resulting tie would have appointed the board of control's candidate. To-day two of Mr. Fitzger-ald's opponents and one of his supporters will be absent. This, however, does not indicate much, for it may be determined attitude and substitute the to have the support of the majority
