

USE CAPT. BAILEY SAME AS TRAITOR

Major Hartt Attacks Statement About Soldiers in the Legislature.

LEADERS RESENT SPEECH

Sir William Hearst and William Proudfoot Say Remark is Slander.

A scathing denunciation of the statement made by Capt. George T. Bailey in the House of Commons, that 30 per cent. of our soldiers in the trenches on Christmas were drunk, was made yesterday by Sir William Hearst and William Proudfoot in the Ontario Legislature.

Major Hartt, who was present, said that the statement was a slander on the troops, and that the person who made it should be dealt with in the same way a deserter is punished.

Major Hartt gave the information that a soldier found drunk on duty was shot, and therefore the condition could not have prevailed, and that if Capt. Bailey had known anything about the militia he would have known immediately that the statement was false.

Sir William Hearst spoke very strongly and said there was enough truth in the statement to make it a slur on the troops, and that if it was not true, it was a deliberate lie.

William Proudfoot, leader of the opposition, said the statement would not be believed by the thinking people of the province, and he stoutly condemned the one who would make such an accusation.

Same as Deserter.

It was before the orders of the day were called that Major Hartt called attention of the house to a report in the papers that Capt. Bailey had said 30 per cent. of the Canadians were drunk on Christmas.

Major Hartt said a man who made such statements should be dealt with as a traitor, and he had no doubt the matter would be thoroughly investigated.

REFUSE TO HEAR SPEECH BY BRYAN

A soldier in civies stood up in the gallery wearing a gas mask and led his comrades, "That's what we've been fighting for," they called. Perhaps the wildest thing of all was the remark of a soldier following the speaker, "I'm not going to hear that."

Mr. Bryan's speech was met with a cold reception. "The Little Brown Church," which title was changed by Bryan, but this went off very nicely.

A woman's faint soprano voice shrieked: "Put them out." Strong men rushed up the aisle—remains in their hands. "We'll have to do it," said Mr. Fleming, and at 8:45 they were people started to move out.

'SHANNON' When You Need a Good Plumber

Remember, when anything goes wrong with your plumbing, your heating system, or where a good plumber is needed—remember that Shannon has his cars covering the entire city and you are not obliged to wait for hours at a time for a plumber.

DRASTIC PUNISHMENT FOR LIEUTENANT BAILEY

Officer Who Made Statement at Prohibition Convention Will Be Severely Dealt With.

Indications are that Lieut. G. T. Bailey, the Army Medical Corps officer who made the sensational statement charging drunkenness among Canadian soldiers and was arrested yesterday by the civil police, will receive drastic punishment, not only from the court authorities, but also from the military.

Col. H. C. Bickford, who during the absence of General Legge is acting commander of Toronto district, stated that the military "strongly disapproved" of Lieut. Bailey making statements of the kind and mean to the public.

RAILWAYS MAINTAIN SERVICE THRU STORM

Yesterday's Snowstorms Did Not Interfere Greatly With Steam Road Schedules.

The train services yesterday were fairly maintained and so far as was found out the snowstorms did not interfere with the traffic on either of the great rail highways. The schedule for the afternoon and evening trains was as follows:

LAST SATURDAY MORNING A STEAM SHOVEL ABOUT THE SIZE OF A BRITISH TANK AMBLED ALONG FROM THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF CAT FISH POND AND STALLED ON THE STREET CAR TRACKS AT THE CORNER OF QUEEN STREET AND RONCESVALLES AVENUE. IT BLOCKED THE CARS FOR TEN MINUTES.

By 10.30 that night it had got as far as Queen and Callendar Streets, where it halted on the car tracks again, blocking cars going both ways for twenty minutes.

On Sunday it did not block any cars until 1.20 a.m., when it again held up the westbound Queen cars for twenty minutes. It arrived at the corner of Fuller Street at 2.20 a.m., and again blocked the westbound cars for fifteen minutes.

After this adventure it refrained from blocking any more cars until it arrived at the Queen Street subway at 2 a.m. Monday morning. It then held up street car traffic both ways for 35 minutes. Continuing its headlong flight down the street, it gained the corner of Bathurst Street shortly before 6 o'clock, and, exhausted with its efforts, again collapsed on the tracks. It blocked both tracks between Bathurst and Spadina for one hour and 35 minutes, and finally had to be hauled to Spadina Avenue by a street car.

In other words, the good steam shovel Marion held up street car traffic for just three hours and a quarter from Saturday morning until Monday morning, and what new records of obstruction it may achieve before it finishes its pilgrimage nobody knows.

WAR SUMMARY THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

The German invasion of northern Russia has made no further progress, but has actually receded, and instead of having a mere procession to Petrograd, the enemy may have to fight his way forward. The menace presented by the arrogant conqueror has been removed by the fighting spirit of the Russians, especially since the refusal of the armistice, and the hands of volunteers improvised at Petrograd, apparently under Cossack leadership, have already encountered the enemy and won some minor successes. The Russians, in sanguinary combat, have definitely driven the enemy out of Pskov, and having, so far, prevented the crossing of the Beresina, Napoleon's Rubicon, are massing large forces for the attack. They have begun the bombardment of Revel from an island in the harbor and are apparently going to attempt its capture.

The danger to the one-time capital of Russia has apparently taken the form of virtual control of affairs out of the hands of the Bolsheviks and has caused a revival of patriotism. The enemy has mistaken the Russian situation, and had banked on the plucking of not the old-time Russian bear but the latter-day Russian goose. The transformation, however, appears not quite complete. Whether the beginning of the Russian successes will induce them to refuse the German peace terms after all and defy the invader, or whether they will again trust in German promises depends a good deal on the events of the next few hours. The enemy also seems to have received a check in the invasion of the Ukraine. Whenever events go against the German army the German official communication reports operations as taking their normal course. This expression appeared in the German official communication of yesterday.

There is also danger that large bodies of Russian troops, rather than go home to their farms, may cast in their lot with the enemy. On the other hand, allied intervention may lead the Bolshevik government to declare war upon the allies and to side with Germany, but prompt Japanese intervention would descend upon the Russians while disorganized and make it quite possible for the Japanese to obtain control of the whole country before the Germans could do anything. The enemy has transferred all, except a few divisions, of his good soldiers to the west for the coming campaign. The arrival of the Japanese would tend, if the Japanese progress was rapid, to upset the present military arrangements and to compel him to remove large forces from the western front to the eastern front again.
