Mrs. Nixon, whose daughter, Mrs. Ullman, lies at her door and thinking it a call for her to attend she was seized by the throat and thrown upon the floor. Her cries aroused Rev. Mr. Anderson of St. James' Church, and his father, the elder Mr. Anderson reached Mrs. McDonald first and was met by a young man, who said: "Go in quick; my wife is there." Rev. Mr. Anderson, who was close at hand, sized up the situation and said to his father, "This is the man," and struck the fellow with a light stick, which was not heavy enough to fell him, and he succeeded in getting away, leaving his hat behind him, which may lead to his arrest.
