Before of the channel. Official notices announcing these to be the position of the respective fleets were received at the navy department last night from the commander-in-chief of the American force operating in front of the harbor. It was these advices which enabled the authorities to deny emphatically the reports that an action had occurred in the Windward passage. A special to the Times from Washington says: Advices from Key West convey the information that about evsteam, sail or be towed, has been forced into the service early receipt of good news from Admiral Sampson One cabinet officer, who expressed the greatest eagerness to hear from Sampson and Schley, and who has no doubt that the news when it does come will be "great," admitted that the outside limit of time in which it was expected that the vessels of the United States and Spain must meet, was passed, and that information might arrive at any moment, either that Cervera was bottled up, or that his fleet was at the bottom of the ocean. "I do not look for unofficial information first, for the reason that the com-

It is calculated by naval officers that the Spanish fleet has now about exhausted its fuel, and that it cannot undertake the difficult act of retreating.

The only honorable outcome for Spain's ships is to try conclusions at once, while the coal bunkers and the food supplies are not completely exhausted. There will be no news from Sampson or Schley until one or both of them has tested the inclination or ability of Admiral Cervera to fight.
