They Used To Strap On Spectacles!

Old pictures and collections show grotesque shapes in early spectacles.

In the earliest styles the lenses were round, very large and fastened in a rind of black horn half an inch wide. They were strapped on with a leather thong over the nose and another about the head. Small wonder wearers of spectacles were ridiculed in those days. Obviously, the adjustment could not have been very good. Such crudeness makes those shudder who appreciate the scientific necessity of delicate, accurate adjustment, as practiced

Don't load your stomach with cough syrups. Send healing medication through the nostrils—send it into the passages that are subject to colds and catarrh. Easy to do this with Catarrhozone, which cures a cold in ten minutes. Even to the lungs goes the healing vapor of Catarrhozone—all through the bronchial tubes, nostrils and air passages—everywhere a trace of disease remains will Catarrhozone follow. You'll not have colds, nor will you suffer from sniffles, bronchitis, or throat trouble if Catarrhozone is used. day no one seemed to know. He was called as the first witness, and testified that he last saw his father on New Year's Day, 1920. He informed the crown attorney that the dead man was 67 years of age, and when seen by him prior to his death was in good physical condition, although he showed his years.

A murmur of expectation passed through the hall when Charles Helmer, 15-year-old brother of the accused youth, was called to the stand. He stated that he was engaged as a farm laborer for his mother rear Sparta, and that Learn had come to live at the Helmer farm in North Walsingham on August 4, 1919. The witness came to the latter place on Saturday, July 10, where Lorne Helmer and wife and Learn resided. He saw the victim on Saturday and had a talk with him in the house on Monday. Played Prank on Learn.

Returning the two brothers met Learn riding on a milk truck with William Roney, and the aged victim returned to his room that night, where witness saw him reading a letter. Charles then stated that he plugged the old man's chimney that night for a prank, and that on the morning of July 13 Learn blamed Lorne Helmer for the trick. Accused made Learn take it back, according to a later statement made by him to Charles, who stated that the manner of accomplishment was unknown to him, owing to the fact that he was up on the roof "unplugging the chimney at the time."

In a short time Learn and the two Helmer lads went down a back lane to the woods together, about 8:30 a.m. Coolly giving evidence the boy described the tragedy as follows: "Learn took down the bars at the gap from the lane to the woods, and Lorne said he did not want the horses to get in on the crops. Learn said he was going to let the horses out, as he thought he was running the place.

Long before 10 o'clock, the hour specified for the inquest, a crowd gathered in front of the little hall, while scores of motor cars from the adjoining countryside were parked along the road nearby. The jury and all connected with the case occupied seats on a small platform, and Helmer arrived under escort from the county jail at Simcoe shortly prior to the opening hour.

Cross-examined by Heimer's cuthers' Alexander admitted that he knew there was a dispute over the damage done to the farm and fences to be kept up, and he was personally aware that "the old man did not do what was right in the upkeep of the farm." The witness produced Learn's diary, found about July 15, but this was not read, the crown attorney, however, deciding to retain it for future use.

Thomas Murphy, the last witness called, stated that there was no doubt of identification of the body. The prisoner, through his counsel, declined the invitation of the crown attorney to give evidence, and the latter then asked for a commitment. W. E. Kelly, K.C., pleaded for a reduction of the charge to one of manslaughter, citing other cases as precedents, to which the crown attorney successfully objected.

LEAMINGTON FRIDAY

Was Spending Holidays At His Grandparents' Summer Home.

LEAMINGTON. Aug. 6.—Nine-year- old Gerald Deming was drowned this afternoon while swimming in the river just east of the boathouse with two companions. Aid was promptly given and three doctors worked hard to save the boy's life, but without success. The little fellow was spending his holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Deming of Windsor, at their summer home here. He is the only child of the late Gerald Deming, formerly of Leamington, and Mrs. Deming of Detroit.
