FRENCH SENATE DEBATES

Face to Face With Necessity of Sending Large Army, Says

One Speaker.

PARIS. Feb. 20.-Reports of numerous recent severe battles in Moroc-co, which have been printed in the newspapers here, with the accompany-ing rumors that Gen. d'Amade's army is really in serious straits thru reverses at the hands of tribesmen, led to a lengthy discussion of the Moroc-can question in the senate to-day, which finally adopted a vote-of confidence in the government's course. Senator Caudin de Villaine contend ed that the recent murderous attacks

Tribute to Dick Grant.

The St. Mary's Argus, in commenting on the presentation to Dr. Dick Grant of a purse of money by the Sunday school of Knox Church, prior to his removal to Boston, pays tribute to his sterling worth in these words:

The removal of Dr. Dick Grant, that veteran long distance runner, who is so well known thruout all Canada and the United States, to Boston Tuesday, is a matter of keen regret to every clizen of St. Mary's Dr. Grant was the promoter of the St. Mary's-Stratford Marathon road race, and made it a great success. In all manly-sport he was willing to lend a helping hand, and he spent much of his time in developing many of the young nice in town in athletics. Whatever he undertook he worked hard to make it a success, and nothing was too much trouble for him if he could do anything to aid those with whom he came in contact.

Dr. Grant will be much missed in musical circles, he possessing a fine sweet tenor voice. He was in demand at all social gatherings, and for the various churches he was pleased to render service.

Editor World: In respect to the report in your paper of Feb. 19 in regard to trouble between Harris N. Pennock and Thomas Flanagan about the rental of 212 Manning-avenue, we beg to state that the circumstances as set out by Flanagan in the police court are not altogether true regard to his family being put out of the premises by the Pennocks. The facts of the case are these—that Flanagan has been in possession of the premises for upwards of a period of four months, as a matter of fact Flanagan was in arrears for rent for four months, and on being duly notified to go out set up the contention that he was a tenant from year to year. Over-holding tenancy proceedings were taken against him, and by reason of not appearing to the notice an order was made under the Over-Holding Tenancy Act to evict, which order apparently was go-ing to be executed on Saturday last by the city sheriff. The Pennocks were perfectly within their rights in dis-training for the two months rent which accrued due before the tenancy was determined, and it was for this amount that distress was made. We might add that he had promise himself personally to pay the rent in arrears two weeks ago to-day and try and vacate the premises. Apparently afterwards he changed his mind and intended to stay on. Robinette, Godfrey & Phelan. Pianos rented on very reasonable erms. Six months' rent allowed in terms. Six months' rent allowed in case of purchase. Heintzman & Co., 115-117 West King-street, Toronto.

The operations centred around the palace of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, who, it is surmised, was the immediate object of the plot. Late to-day several hundred gendarmes drew a cordon around an entire city block in the vicinity of the grand duke's palace, comprising 600 occupied apartments. Agents of the police searched these apartments from top to bottom and unearthed stores of explosives and firearms.

Claude Macdonell (Toronto) objected to the direct shipment feature, while Mr. Borden devoted his time to the claim of the ministry that a departure had been made in respect to our treaty-making powers.

FIREMEN KNOW DANGER. Do Not Regard Themselves as Heroes, Chief Croker Says.

New York Tribune: "When a man becomes a fireman his act of bravery has already been accomplished. What he does after that in the way of routine, even if he meets death, is all in the line of his work," is the way Chief Croker looks at the matter of bravery in the fire department. "Firemen." he said vesterday, "have been killed in this city before Charles Kruger and the other chaps gave up their lives, and firemen are going to be killed right along. They know it every one of them. When they join the department they know that fire fighting is dangerous and they know what they must face.

"There has been considerable talk over the fact that we have lost six battalion chiefs in the last six or seven years, and I have heard it said that New York firemen are trained that recklessness is at a men are trained that recklessness is at a premium and that unwarranted risks are taken and good men lost with nothing gained. I cannot see that. Chiefs Coleman, Bresnan and Shaw were at work fighting the fire and teking a fireman's risk when they met death.

"Don't think that I am trying to belittle am only making these bounds to show the fire fighting is regarded by men engaged in it as a business and that they do not regard themselves as heroes, because they do what their business requires.

"There was, for instance, no better or braver man in the department than Chief Kruger, nor a man whose loss would mean more from the standpoint of effi-ciency. But at the same time he did noth-ing unusual in going into that cellar ciency. But at the same time he did nothing unusual in going into that cellar where he lost his life. It was not the cellar of the building which was burning; it was the one adjoining. He had no more idea that he was so near to danger than the citizen walking along the street who suddenly falls to his death by reason of a cave-in or some hole left unguarded by workmen."

In the French chamber practically the only criticism offered was with regard to items of boots and shoes, and as the value of these of Canadian manufacture imported into France was only $441 in a year, it could not be claimed that the treaty was much to the disadvantage of French manufactures. There was a great disparity between our exports to and imports from France, figures for nine months being $6,679,349 of French goods imported and $1,409,572 of Canadian goods exported to France. Special treatment had been given to articles of exclusively French manufacture, while there was no provision for exportation to France of special

Dr. Daniel feared the reduction of the duty on light wines would have a serious effect on the Canadian grape growing industry. More than one-third of the grapes grown in Canada were converted into wine. France, he declared, had got much the better of us. She had been given real advantages of trade, while we must look to the future for any advantages that may come to us. He, however, commended the direct shipment feature of the treaty.

Lancaster (Lincoln) thought there should be some reason given why was whon parliament let the Japapese industry of this country. Fruit growers in his district had petitioned the government, declaring the industry would be admitted on a product of the farmers of this country, while the grape growing industry would be dealt a severe blow. He estimated the loss to the vineyards at $400,000 a year, which was a big price to pay for freer entry of the symptome industry.

Hance J. Logan (Nova Scotia) said the greatest need in this country was a commission to enquire into the ex-pedition with which imports can be shipped from the Maritime Provinces' ports to the west. He believed it to be a fallacy to say, that goods can be shipped from New York to Toronto in less time than by way of St. John or Halifax. This was a national question, and Mr. Logan expressed surprise that a Conservative opposed a proposal to bring traffic to Canadian R. L. Borden confined himself to a consideration of the quespowers. After asking how it happened that the principle adopted some years ago in respect to building up Canadian ports had not been put into effect. he proceeded to discuss some remarks made by the prime minister at Toronto in respect to the negotia-tion of treaties by Canadian plenipotion of treaties by Canadian plenipo-tentiaries, and the claim that a re-volution had been accomplished. What-ever territory we had lost, said Mr. Borden, since 1867, had been lost under the government of the gentlemen op-posite, while all territory added had been gained by Conservative admin-

Many extraordinary stories have been told of the prolongation of the vitality of seeds during many years, and even centurates that the principles laid down in 1865 had not been departed from and that the same procedure in the making of treaties had invariably been followed since 1879.
