BIJOU HALL DANCE WAS A SUCCESS

Back Shore Society Out in Force Last Night and Every One Was Happy.

The old reliable Bijou Hall on Sheffield street, which has been the scene of many festive occasions, was resplendent with decorations last night. The Royal Baseball club (colored) were holding their benefit dance, and all the boys and girls, ladies and gentlemen, were there. The guests did not arrive until nearly ten o'clock, and the reception committee, George Hope, had the dumps for a while. The orchestra, Bobby Bree, however, attended out a few of the favorites on the accordion, and the reception committee, George Hope, had the dumps for a while. The guests did not arrive until nearly ten o'clock, and the reception committee, George Hope, had the dumps for a while. The guests did not arrive until nearly ten o'clock, and the reception committee, George Hope, had the dumps for a while.

That the dance was looked upon as the event of the season in Back Bay was evident by the exquisite costumes worn. Blue and purple seemed to be the prevailing colors, relieved sometimes with a touch of orange, the whole lending a pleasing effect. As they came from near by, the white-haired boy, but he was awfully popular with the ladies, though our own Miss Minnie Burns exclaimed, as "Jackey" waltzed up to her, "Oh, take him away." Minnie preferred the local boys. Arthur Davis was just learning to dance, so it was decided to give him a workout. Floor Marshal "Billy" Dixon took him in hand, and the way he dragged Arty about was a caution. After a few more had been given preliminary training up and had gotten the new pumps smoothed up, the orchestra was signalled to pull out.

"Jackey" Ferrish was unanimously elected to lead off in a South End two-step with Miss Maggie Sands as his partner. This was a step Jackey brought down from Boston for the occasion. Miss Sands is the colored belle of Sydney and many an envious eye was cast on Jackey Billy Dixon who, though he had a reputation for being with the goods and piloted all hands like a field marshal. On the side lines Billy Burns entertained the wall flowers with a smile and wing act. Miss Minnie Burns was as graceful as ever in white silk and Miss Annie Jenkins, a tourist from the Hub looked sweet in a beautiful white and cream silk with train. Annie didn't relish the boys making a "door mat" of her dress. Miss Jenkins inaugurated the Cambridge step. Julia Hill, although she had a sprained ankle limped gracefully. Mrs. Forbes, a friend of but a few weeks arrived last night and was soon made at home being hustled at once into the fray. Jimmy Wilson, the Royal's star pitcher, jessed up by dancing everlastingly from an instep to door step. Duke Ritchie handled the liquid refreshment booth in a way that would put the Royal's wine man in the shade. "The way he juggled those glasses" was the way Harry Grey put it. The gay time kept up till the early morning hours the party dispersing with three cheers for the Royals. The ladies congratulated both reception committee and the orchestra.

SAYS CANADA SHOULD HAVE HER OWN NAVY

J. S. Ewart, President of Winnipeg Canadian Club, Advocates This Course.

A prominent western Canadian, John S. Ewart, K. C., of Winnipeg, does not believe in a contribution by Canada to the imperial government for naval defence, but advocates a Canadian navy, Mr. Ewart, who is president of the Canadian Club in his home city, is, with his wife, staying at the Royal. Mr. Ewart will be remembered as prominent as leading counsel for the Roman Catholics in the celebration of the centennial of the confederation of the British empire. Not successful in his appeal to the privy council, he continued the fight by appeal to the dominion government, developments later resulting in the defeat of the government of Sir Charles Tupper.

Mr. Ewart, in referring to Earl Grey's utterances regarding Canada's part in imperial defence, said that the sentiment in the west was decidedly against this country furnishing funds for the support of the British navy.

Speaking of separate schools, the westerner said that this question was settled in the west, where everything was satisfactory.

A resident of Winnipeg for 20 years, Mr. Ewart is enabled to speak with some authority of conditions in the west. He believes in the future predominance of the west over the east; "we are at the east end of everything," is the way he expresses it. A young man in the west has all the possibilities in the world. He says that he is unable to see the advantage of a P. E. Island tunnel when the people are depleting the island.

Of Earl Grey's speeches on imperial defence, Mr. Ewart said, "I am surprised that the government-general should advocate such a step when popular opinion is so much against it. I know that the west is decidedly against such a step, and I am trying to sound the temper of the east."

Mr. Ewart said that he would like to see a Canadian navy, and that it was the idea prevailing in the west. The general tone of the west was, he said, more independent than in the east. There the lines between Grit and Tory, Protestant and Catholic, were not so finely drawn, and a broader spirit prevailed. Mr. Ewart spoke of the great good done by Canadian Clubs, but thought care should be shown in choosing speakers who touched on Canadian subjects.

Mr. Ewart is writing a political history of Canada and is touring the maritime provinces in search of material for his book. With his wife he has spent three weeks in St. Andrews, and this morning went to Fredericton, and will later go to P. E. Island and Halifax.
