POVERTY BECOMES DISTINCTION MARK

Sign of Honesty and Patriotism in the Budapest Upper Classes.

Budapest, Dec. 15.—Poverty has become a mark of distinction among some of the upper classes and even among some of the Hungarian nobility in Budapest. It is a sign of honesty and patriotism.

FLAVOUR —the charm of "SALADA" TEA

is in its unique flavour of rich delicacy. And it never varies. All grocers sell "Salada" in sealed metal packets only.

that prosper on misfortune in the defeated Central countries.
Many noted members of the Budapest aristocracy have joined the working ranks, not a few have gone into the formerly so detested "business"—yes, even into small shop-keeping.
General von Kovess, Hungary's most famous general, is running a little store in Andrássy Street. General von Tassay, the heroic defender of the fortress of Przemyśl, has been granted a municipal permit to open a small cabinet workshop. A number of high officers, from generals to lieutenant-colonels, have stalls in the Central Market, where they sell game, poultry, fruit, etc.
Countess Clara Andrássy, who through marriage is Edina Odescovich, has opened a ladies' hair and beauty parlor. Baroness Maria Fabry-Ghillanyi sells pianos and needles, threads and buttons and other little things in a small store, while Madame Theodor Bonyhaid-Perczel, once repleat in the high social set, is now designing and selling hats in her millinery shop.
Baroness Helene Barkoczy has made the greatest success of all. She opened a dancing school. Then she had a happy idea. It occurred to her that many of her former social set can no longer entertain either because they cannot afford it in their homes or because these homes have been sequestered or have been given up on account of slack finances.

She enlarged her dancing school by locating it in a large building with which she connected a number of parlors very big size. In these parlors, with a central orchestra furnishing music for all, any one may entertain their friends at tea or give private parties. Baroness Barkoczy's idea was a success from the very start.
Those of the nobility and aristocracy who still have the good fortune to possess fine homes and the necessary money to maintain them, smile encouragingly upon less fortunate members who have been forced into work or business or shop-keeping.
Slowly, but steadily, the poverty and misfortune that war brought to tens of thousands of families in Germany, Austria and Hungary is working a social transition.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED.

Springhill, N. S., Dec. 14.—A considerable improvement in the employment situation has taken place here, and the coal company has found work for the last of its married miners, thrown out of employment by the depression. The coal output for November was over 40,000 tons, the second largest month's hoist of the year.

BRANTFORD MAN SHOT BY BANDIT

Receives Bullets in Shoulder and Groin—Had $2,000 Worth of Diamonds in His Pocket, But Robber Got No Loot.

Brantford, Ont., Dec. 15.—George L. Cartwright, jeweler, was held up by a lone bandit near his home in Echo Place, on Saturday night and received two shots, one in the shoulder and one in the left groin. The bandit, a youth about twenty-five years of age, attempted to fire seven shots in all, but the cartridges missed fire in five attempts. Mr. Cartwright called for help, and his wife came to the scene with a light, which frightened the bandit away without his getting any loot. Mr. Cartwright was carrying less than two dollars in change, but he had in his pocket five thousand dollars' worth of ancient diamonds.
The police were at once notified and made an arrest on Saturday night and another on Sunday morning, but the two suspects are held on a vagrancy charge, pending further investigation, and nothing as to their identity was available today. Mr. Cartwright is doing fairly well.

FOCH KISSES A BOY NAMED AFTER HIM

Foch Blouin Was Born at Ottawa on Armistice Night.

(Ottawa Journal.)
As Marshal Foch turned from the altar at the conclusion of mass in the Basilica yesterday, a little lad was brought to him in the stalwart arms of a soldier to present him with a bunch of beautiful roses. The great soldier kindly took the boy in his arms and, after kissing him, learned that the lad was a namesake of his, born on that memorable night—November 11, 1918—within sound of the Basilica bells as they pealed forth the glad news that an Allied victory was the result of the efforts of Marshal Foch and the great army he commanded. The boy is Foch Blouin, named after the famous general by his proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ovide Blouin, 166 Gilmour avenue.

HOLMES & EDWARDS

A Charming Gift

Symbolic of True and Lasting Friendship

Not alone for its gleaming lustre and peerless grace, but too, for the lasting beauty and everyday usefulness for which it is so highly prized, is Holmes & Edwards silverware a gift so acceptable, so expressive and enduring.

In fascinating flatware, whether it be the refreshingly new Hostess pattern or the quietly dignified Jamestown; in handsome table appointments—a plain cake dish or the more sumptuous casserole or flower basket—the mark of Holmes & Edwards proves that it is sterling silver's only competitor. It is protected against wear. In Silver Inlaid, blocks of solid silver are fused into the back of the pieces most often used—just where friction causes wear.

In Super Plate these points are protected by an extra deposit of sterling silver.

Your jeweller will show you a charming array of suitable gifts in either of the handsome designs above. Berry Spoon, $3.50; Cold Meat Fork, $2.25; Gravy Ladle, $2.75; Sugar Tongs, $2.40.
