OWES LIFE TO FREAK HEART
Student's Organ Out of Place—Ballet Pierces Proper Location.

Charleston, W. Va., May 10.—Newman Neff, a student, owes his life to an anatomical freak. He was shot through the chest where his heart ought to be. At Kanawha Valley hospital here an X-ray photograph of his chest was made.

"The photograph revealed Neff's heart to be located vertically," said Dr. George A. McQueen, chief surgeon. "It leans slightly to the right of his breast. If his heart had been located where hearts are usually found, Neff would have died instantly."

As Neff, with Lester Molohan and two girls, was automobiling in the suburbs a volley of shots was fired at them. A glancing bullet hit one of the girls. When Neff rushed to her side another shot was fired and he fell to the ground.

Disgruntled miners or illicit distillers did the shooting, authorities think. Surgeons decided an operation now might prove fatal and that the bullet would probably not cause further trouble if left where it is.
