CARPENTIER AN UNUSUAL BOXER

In Temperament and Intelligence He Outclasses Other Heavyweight Aspirants—Has Lots of Ring Courage.

New York, June 17.—Georges Carpentier, challenger of Jack Dempsey, is one of the most unusual boxers who ever competed for the heavyweight championship. In temperament and intelligence, there has been none like him among aspirants for heavyweight honors.

He will be outwitted by Dempsey when they clash. Other physical measurements may also appear to be to the disadvantage of the Frenchman but the essential item of courage will not be included in these calculations.

Carpentier, born in the coal mining district of Lens, France, fought as a youngster of 12 years and progressed steadily through the various weight classes, meeting the best boxers of France, England and America until he now stands near the pinnacle in pugilistic sport.

A survey of the opponents Carpentier has met in the ring and sketches of several battles in which he revived from a count of nine to out-point or knock out his rivals in subsequent rounds convinced one of his ring courage. He has fought among others Joe Jeannette, Frank Klaus, Billy Papke, Jeff Smith, Harry Lewis, Bombardier Wells, Joe Beckett and Gunboat Smith.

He met when a youth in his late teens. His fights with Frank Klaus and Billy Papke when he was only 18 are declared to have been the most gripping in his career. In victory, or defeat throughout his ring campaign, Carpentier has been guided by Francois Deschamps toward the heavyweight championship which he will endeavor to reach at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City on July 2.

The list of opponents Carpentier has met is more impressive than that of Jack Dempsey's rivals. In ring experience, Carpentier is by far the older.

The first battle with Bombardier Wells at Ghent is declared to have been one of the most impressive exhibitions of courage by the young Frenchman, who outweighed many of his opponents. He took the count of nine in the first round, to come back and knock out his opponent in the fourth. Before they met the second time, he predicted Wells might last one round but the Englishman was knocked out in less than one minute.

Harry Lewis, in the fourth round of a bout, broke two bones in his right hand, hitting Carpentier on the cheek bone with a smash that cut a deep gash under the eye. Carpentier came back to outpoint Lewis in 10 rounds. When he lost a 15-round decision to Joe Jeannette, Carpentier was sent to the mat two or three times, but during the fight and dropped the negro twice for a count of nine.

But this anomaly of the boxing game has done his most important fighting outside the ropes. The cockpit of an army combat plane has seen his most thrilling engagements and greatest demonstration of courage. He took the count of nine in the world war, Carpentier wears the Croix de Guerre and Military Medal, of all decorations.

Even the germ of that disease which he watched him thousands of feet in the air attacking an enemy or swooping down over a beach camp or airfield.

He was not a man to be trifled with. He was a man to be feared. He was a man to be respected. He was a man to be loved.

He was a man to be admired. He was a man to be emulated. He was a man to be followed.

He was a man to be remembered. He was a man to be honored. He was a man to be glorified.

He was a man to be worshipped. He was a man to be revered. He was a man to be adored.

He was a man to be loved. He was a man to be respected. He was a man to be admired.

He was a man to be followed. He was a man to be emulated. He was a man to be remembered.
