

Four Thousand Gather In Sussex For Observance Of Anniversary of Boyne

Sussex, N. B., July 12.—There are more than 4,000 strangers in town for the Orange celebration. It is a fine clear day and the thermometer standing at seventy-two in the shade. Sussex has been captured by the spirit of Derry and the men of orange. Since early morning people have been pouring into town to join the New Brunswick Orangemen in their annual celebration of July 12. The morning dawned dark and overcast but the earlier visitors brought with them a large enough supply of umbrellas and raincoats to insure a few weeks' drought all over the Sussex valley. The earlier trains from Moncton and St. John brought crowds of visitors. At 10:30 o'clock the first of the special trains arrived from St. John bringing more than 400 persons. They were soon joined by large train loads of Orangemen and their friends from Westmorland and York county, and with the large crowd of visitors who have driven in from near places. It is estimated that there are more than 4,000 visitors in town.

PARADE LOOKED WELL; CIRCUS SAID TO BE WELL WORTH SEEING

This was the day of joy for the small boy! The visit of the Mighty Haug Railway Show to the city was the cause of his jubilation, but did it not also recall pleasant memories and awaken eager anticipation in the hearts of many grown-ups? The circus arrived early yesterday morning and was soon established in its big stretch, water-proof tents in the Marathon grounds, where it paraded through the city this morning in a long line as the usual procession of acrobats, equestrians, gymnasts, the funny clowns, imposing wagons, herculean animals and callions.

BRUTALITY BY THE OFFICERS

Further Reports of Inhumanity To Recruits in German Army—Light Punishment For Offenders

Berlin, July 12.—The unceasing criticism of press and parliament is slowly reducing the number of cases of treatment of soldiers by their officers, but a recent report shows that 400 non-commissioned officers and officers were convicted of such offences last year. This was a reduction of ninety cases from the figures of five years ago. These 400 convictions by no means indicate, however, that only that number of private soldiers were brutally handled during the year. A recent case, and one by no means unusual, was the conviction of a non-commissioned officer of the Third Bavarian Regiment, who was charged with no less than ninety offences against the men under him. One soldier was lamed by being struck on the kneecap with a gunbutt, and there were dozens of cases in which recruits were choked and struck in the face. It is not long since a captain was forced to leave the service after his third conviction for mistreating recruits. The charges against him covered brutal treatment in 140 cases. With all credit to the minister of war, it must nevertheless be said that sentences in the majority of these cases are extremely mild and in many cases are related to discourage brutal officers from a repetition of their offences. The non-commissioned officer just mentioned was sentenced to three months and 15 days' imprisonment and degraded. This is a really severe sentence, but it is at the same time a most unusual one. Not only is imprisonment for such a term rarely meted out, but degradation is still rarer. The following case is typical of the nearly ten cases occurring on an average each week. A non-commissioned officer of the Third Guard Field Artillery Regiment commanded a recruit to clean his harness. He was not satisfied with the recruit's work and started expressing his dissatisfaction by striking the man over the head with a bit. He then forced him to march up and down in the stables and to do settling up exercises, including the fatiguing "knee-bend" until the recruit fell from exhaustion. He kicked him in the thigh and on the knees and otherwise maltreated him. The recruit

MILITANTS HAVE CAUSED LOSS OF NEARLY $2,000,000

London, July 12.—The Morning Post publishes statistics of the damage wrought by the militant suffragettes since the beginning of 1913. According to the Post the militants have set fire to 146 public buildings, churches, houses and other structures, and have exploded or attempted to explode forty-three bombs. The material damage is estimated at $1,920,000, excluding the damage to works of art, which cannot be measured. London, July 12.—Annie Bell who yesterday tried to destroy the church of St. John Brangell, Westminster, was arraigned in the police court to day and said: "The only thing I regret is that the beastly thing did not go off." She expressed intense pride in her act. "I meant the bomb to go off," she said, "and blow up the church right enough." The prisoner then stretched her self at full length on a seat in the prisoner's enclosure and asked the woman warden to give her a pillow and wale her when the case had been concluded. "Goodby, you paid bully," was Miss Bell's farewell to the magistrate when he remanded her.

NOT ON HIS PROPERTY Thomas Waites, coal dealer of Brunswick street, called at The Times office this morning and gave denial to a published report that the shooting by which Special Officer O'Leary lost his life had been committed on his property. The Brennan family, Mr. Waites said, had never lived on his premises, and the shooting had taken place in the rear of 120 St. Patrick street, several doors from his place. EARLY CLOSING It is believed by those prompting the movement towards earlier closing in the summer months in the North End stores that success will be met with in certain branches of the trade. One large grocery store has given instructions that it will close at six o'clock each evening except on Saturdays, when the closing hour will be 10 sharp. Now, with the close of the stores the closing hour is eleven o'clock, but there is strong opposition to it. A petition is to be circulated asking for earlier closing on Saturday nights, and with some branches of the trade so hour earlier each evening. There were so many passengers on the Oceanic this morning that all of them were unable to obtain seats. It was the biggest Monday morning's business of the season. Saturday evening was also the busiest evening at Public Landing. More than 2000 people were present at the dancing pavilion. Yesterday was rainy until late in the afternoon, but the evening was fine and this morning on the river was delightful. Next Saturday evening a pie social will be held at the pavilion at Public Landing. Charles Millward, 28 and Frank Maguire, 14, were drowned on Sunday while bathing in a swimming hole near Sackville.
