

DECISION ARRIVED AT IN WALLBERG CASE

Mr. Justice Cassels Decides That Claims of Moncton Contractor Is Will Found and Directs Bill To Be Paid.

Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Mr. Justice Cassels handed out judgment this morning in the case of Wallberg vs. the King. This case arose out of certain work done by Wallberg in connection with the sewerage and water system of the Intercolonial Railway buildings in Moncton, N. B. Although no written contract was made out for such work, the work was done under instructions of the chief engineer and was supervised by the railway officials. The contractor claimed $105,240 and brought a claim in the Exchequer Court for that amount. By consent of both parties, a reference to ascertain the fair value of the work done was made to L. A. Andrus, a chartered surveyor, who held that the value should be estimated upon the basis of works other than those directed by the chief engineer. The reference found a round sum of $53,000 as compensation to the contractor. Wallberg appealed from this report claiming that under the reference the contractor had received full value of the work executed by him. Judge Cassels in his judgment holds the claim of the contractor to be paid more than allowed him by the registrar and he is ordered to pay in the main accepts the prices fixed by the government engineer, which in round numbers went to $50,000. Mr. Wallberg is to get costs of his appeal.

Pilot Boats in Exciting Race.
A number of interested spectators watched a close race between two yesterday during the pilot boat Defender, the latest addition to the fleet, and the veteran Howard D. Troop, which heretofore has been the victor. The little brush occurred at the mouth of the harbor. Although enthusiastic supporters of the Troop, declare that the old craft is easily the fastest boat on the shore, yesterday it appeared as if the Defender was getting the best of the argument.

Wanted—A Man.
In St. Andrew's church last evening Rev. David Lang preached to a large congregation, taking for his subject "Wanted—A Man." The speaker made a strong plea for symmetry of character and said that any man who did not have a purpose in life and who did not concentrate his energies towards the attainment of some ideal was unworthy of the name. The great secret of success in the lives of some men was their Christian faith. No man could attain real success without faith. No man could remain true to the highest ideals unless imbued with a strong religious belief. In closing the speaker urged young men to they would attain success to be steadfast Christians.

An Honor That Came Too Late.
Friends of the late James Ward Linkletter will be interested to learn that his long service on the International has been recognized by the granting of the Imperial Service Order. The honor comes several months too late to be enjoyed, for Mr. Linkletter passed away nearly a year ago, but the medal will no doubt be valued and preserved by his surviving family. Mr. Linkletter was twenty-three years a brakeman on the road and for some time before his death reaped the benefit of the contributions to the I. C. R. Provident Fund.

Police Notes.
Fred McAfee, aged 22, was arrested last evening by Police Officer Wm. H. Finley for begging from door to door on Paradise Row. McAfee has been working for some time and has become a public nuisance. He served a month in prison for vagrancy some time ago and has applied for protection at the police station on two recent occasions. Charles Higgins and James Mackin were arrested Sunday morning between two and three o'clock for hiding and lurking in an alley off Carmarthen street and not giving a satisfactory account of themselves.

Raising the Rates.
A St. John doctor is relating with much gusto how on a recent occasion he scored off one of the telephone company in an attempt to raise his rates. One room in his residence is set apart as an office and has hitherto contained a telephone. The company under the new rate for residential phones he was prepared to pay $30 a year. Much to his indignation an emissary from the company waited upon him at the rate of $45 a year. "The phone's in my residence," retorted the outraged medico, "can't I put the thing where I like? Where do you think I live—in King Square?" "Well," replied the man with an air of finality, "I should say you lived in your bedroom." "Then you tell the company to put a phone in my bedroom and take the other one out," retorted the doctor as he opened the front door. "It had gone to have to pay $30 a year, but I'm dead sure I won't pay $45. And that ended it."

GOVERNMENT IN ENGLAND. LIBERAL CANDIDATES TO GET ELECTIONS TO GETS ELL

The most sanguine among them hardly predicted the capture of the majority in the House, while the Liberals found small satisfaction in gains from yesterday's belated returns and two from among the seven seats announced today. The week ends with the Unionists jubilant and confident. The Liberals cannot possibly control enough of the remaining elections to derive them an independent majority in the House, however small. The day's results follow the trend begun on Thursday. The counties continue to come forth for the Unionists who are reversing the Liberal majorities in many places and achieving substantial gains in all the county constituencies except in a few where party quarrels occurred, or the Liberal candidates commanded great personal popularity.

The Nationalists are assured of the control of the House according to all political prophets. The report was circulated today that Premier Asquith would resign and request the King to summon a Conservative to organize the government. If the Liberals failed to secure a majority of their own party so that they could conduct legislative business without the help of their Irish allies, politicians, however full of value of the work executed by him. Judge Cassels in his judgment holds the claim of the contractor to be paid more than allowed him by the registrar and he is ordered to pay in the main accepts the prices fixed by the government engineer, which in round numbers went to $50,000. Mr. Wallberg is to get costs of his appeal.

The excitement over the elections in the provinces. The week closes in the metropolis quietly. The members of the Cabinet and their political opponents are still studying the country, and both parties are concentrating their forces in the districts which are yet to vote. The position of the Nationalists is unique. With them all questions are subservient to home rule. The tariff reformers claim that the Irish are all protectionists, if they could vote that issue without complications. The Nationalists in the last parliament, declared against the budget principally because they were opposed to increased whiskey taxes, but they would help it through the House as a measure of political strategy.

Home rule is not likely to get far next session, according to well versed politicians, because the reform of the House of Lords, which the prime minister has written at the head of his programme, promises a great struggle. John Redmond, leader of the Nationalists, will be a figure almost as important as the premier, because Mr. Asquith can do nothing without him. Repentant Liberals. The Conservatives believe that the old slogan of the Liberal party, "Home rule and Home rule," was sent by Premier Asquith, War Secretary Halland and Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey, now reports of having renounced the Liberal party. Lloyd-George and Winston Churchill, Mr. Asquith and others performed a prodigious amount of work on the stump. The Liberal party, moreover had a most effective organization. Home rule, since they alone view all things proportionately as a whole, our domestic, foreign and imperial policies, navy, army, education and the like, out of the influence of the radicals with this tariff reform, which however, your labor leaders may blink at, is the root and branch of all home and social progress. Regarding the Liberal party, Lloyd-George says: "I think that the Liberal party, in the hands of Lloyd-George, has become a party of the future. It is a party that has the support of the people, and it is a party that has the support of the people."

Most Long Headed.
"Truth even now, the Unionists, for all their Toryism, are the most long headed among us, yes I say it. Some of the great things that they alone view all things proportionately as a whole, our domestic, foreign and imperial policies, navy, army, education and the like, out of the influence of the radicals with this tariff reform, which however, your labor leaders may blink at, is the root and branch of all home and social progress. Regarding the Liberal party, Lloyd-George says: "I think that the Liberal party, in the hands of Lloyd-George, has become a party of the future. It is a party that has the support of the people, and it is a party that has the support of the people."

The Distracted Ones.
Sir Edward Grey, Lord Morley, Mr. Asquith and one or two others in the cabinet are trusted by the people, but Lloyd-George, Churchill, and other leading campaigners, by their methods and tactics have greatly disturbed the Conservative elements in the United Kingdom. The vacillating policy of the government in regard to the tariff reform is a source of great uneasiness to the people. The Liberal party, while Lloyd-George's attitude during the Boer war is said by well informed campaigners to have cost the government tens of thousands of votes.

Wonderfully Changed.
The struggle is bitter even at the present moment, there is no question. The one-time chivalrous atmosphere of British politics has been wholly changed. So many persons feel and so many charges of lying and intimidation have been unknown since the reform bill days. The Liberal party, while Lloyd-George's attitude during the Boer war is said by well informed campaigners to have cost the government tens of thousands of votes.

William T. Stead.
"William T. Stead says: 'The Liberal party is as long as each of the four nations composing the United Kingdom return a majority, however small, against the peers, the ministers of the government will be justified in regarding it as decisive. If, however, the English members show a majority the other way, it will be vain to invoke the votes of the Celtic fringe to overrule the voice of England. Gladstone tried it in 1892 and failed.'"

WIFE FLED WHEN THREATENED WITH BUTCHERS' KNIFE

Mark Carey Under Arrest On Serious Charges—Went In Pursuit With Loaded Shotgun.

Mark Carey was arrested about 8 o'clock on Saturday evening by Officers Finley and Ross, charged with assaulting his wife in her home on Chesley street and threatening to kill her with a knife. He is also charged by Mrs. Mary Connelly with forcing an entrance into her home carrying a loaded shotgun, using abusive language to her, and refusing to leave when ordered. Carey, whose mind is thought to be unbalanced, had some words with his wife on Saturday evening and she is said to have suddenly seized a large butcher's knife, which was lying on a table and seizing her round the body, threatening to kill her. Mrs. Carey alleges that he even drew the dull edge of the knife across her neck. She became very much frightened and ran from the house to the home of one of her friends on Douglas avenue, where she remained in a hysterical condition. To Shoot on Sight. Carey followed her after a time carrying with him a loaded shotgun and swearing that he would shoot her on sight. He went to the home of Mrs. Mary Connelly on Douglas avenue and demanded admittance, saying that he wished to see his wife. Mrs. Connelly refused to open the door, but he forced it open, and entering, commanded Mrs. Connelly to tell him where his wife was. On being told that she was not there, he became abusive and said he would search the house. Mrs. Connelly then sent her son to telephone for the police. Officers Finley and Ross were soon on the scene and when they arrived Carey was being held by the officers. He was taken to the police station and found Carey standing outside the door. He was placed under arrest and taken to the North End Police station, where he was kept until early yesterday morning, when he was removed to the Central station.

London Wonders.
All London is discussing the marvellous phenomenon by which a great Liberal majority of almost 200 in the Commons has melted practically to nothing at the point and electors of every grade are asking how it all happened. Without doubt the Liberals had a most popular campaign in the budget and without any doubt they were helped for all it was worth. Moreover the Liberals had undoubtedly the best of it as far as effective orators are concerned. Lloyd-George, Winston Churchill, Mr. Asquith and others performed a prodigious amount of work on the stump. The Liberal party, moreover had a most effective organization. Home rule, since they alone view all things proportionately as a whole, our domestic, foreign and imperial policies, navy, army, education and the like, out of the influence of the radicals with this tariff reform, which however, your labor leaders may blink at, is the root and branch of all home and social progress. Regarding the Liberal party, Lloyd-George says: "I think that the Liberal party, in the hands of Lloyd-George, has become a party of the future. It is a party that has the support of the people, and it is a party that has the support of the people."

Remarkable Demonstration.
On this prominent issue, there has been as yet no common demonstration of free traders, a remarkable demonstration in many of the most important business centres against the policy inherited from Cobden. Some of the most prominent of the thin edge of protectionism has been driven into Lancashire, and the situation prompts prominent free trade organs to say that it becomes the friends of free trade, the friends of the protective tariffs, which have forced up the cost of living in the United States, and have made them the homes of the wicked, and the friends of the world to keep their armor on and in fighting readiness. Fiscal reform is not killed; it is only scorched. Nothing is to be gained by belittling the protectionist issue. In the camp of the Chamberlain the outcome, though not all they have desired, is regarded with complacency. A bigger gain would have astonished them as much as it would have dismayed their opponents. As matters stand, they profess to have won what was worth fighting for as the Birmingham Post puts it, and can "afford to wait a year or so longer."

Germany Advised.
Protectionist newspapers give prominence to a dispatch from the Berlin Kreuz Zeitung, from its London correspondent, who reviewing the results of the polls thus far, bids Germany to be on their guard against the possibility of a "German revolution" being near future and to for-forego their fiscal arrangement accordingly. Precisely what course Mr. Asquith, at the head of the coalition of Liberals, Laborites and Irish Nationalists, will take is a theme of wide conjecture. The most ardent ministerialist concedes that the Prime Minister will have need of all his authority and dexterity to keep his following compact and to avoid pitfalls. The opposing coalition of old-line Tories, Whig landlords and Liberals who opposed home rule on the Gladstone or Parnell basis, and "young Conservatives" like Lord Hugh Cecil who stands for free trade as a principle, but think the so-called socialism of Lloyd-George, a deadlier evil than protection, this party will be more stalwart in the new Parliament than it was before.

Cleared the Air.
Asquith is assuring his friends that the election has cleared the air sufficiently to make it much less difficult to deal with the radicals than he had ventured to expect. His confidence on this score it is said, grew out of the frequent admission by members of the Opposition during the campaign that the reform of the hereditary chamber was desirable and that this reform should be in the direction of a partial application of the elective principle. He is reminded by a Unionist journal would not be on all fours

Funerals.
Miss Edith Russell.
The funeral of Miss Edith Russell, daughter of Mr. James Russell, was held yesterday afternoon from her father's residence, King street, East, and was very largely attended. Service was conducted at the house by Rev. H. A. Cody, rector of St. James' Church, and his love for the child afterwards extended to the whole world. A Contract. Just as a diamond and a piece of charcoal were of the same substance, the difference being only in the lives might be different. One person might go through the world giving nothing out, while another seeing the blessings of the world would give it to the common good. In his concluding remarks Mr. Cody said tonight might come to one person would do a lot to quell a disturbance and he hoped all would practice the virtues of Christianity. He asked his hearers to give him their sympathy, support and prayer and he should try to give them in return the best that he could. The funeral will take place today from her late residence. Mrs. Mary D. Clark. The death of Mrs. Mary D. Clark, widow of Mr. John H. Clark, of Carleton, occurred on Saturday morning. Mrs. Clark was a daughter of the late Mr. W. H. Craft. She was 89 years of age and for 63 years was a prominent member of the Ludlow street Baptist church, of which she was one of the charter members. She was survived by four sons and four daughters, one brother and one sister. The sons are George J. Clark, E. Quay Clark, Thomas W. Clark and Whitney S. Clark. The daughters are Mrs. John McCullum, Mrs. James McFarlane and Mrs. John Harriet. The brother is Mr. George Craft of Millidgeville, and the sister Mrs. McCaffrey. The funeral will take place today from her late residence. Mr. John McDonald. Mr. John McDonald, for many years a resident of Buctouche, Kent county, died at his home, 223 South Common street, Lynn, Mass. on Tuesday last after a lingering illness incident to old age. He was born in Antigonish county, Nova Scotia, about 75 years ago. He had made his home in Lynn for the past 18 years. Although he had been in ill health for several years, Mr. McDonald was seriously sick only for a few days and the end came suddenly. Mr. McDonald was a member of the Holy Name Society of the St. Mary's church, and has taken a prominent part in the work of the society. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Margaret McDonald, a son, John R. McDonald, and two daughters, Slater M. Francesca of St. Vincent's Convent, St. John, N. B., and Mrs. John Robertson, of Bathurst, N. B. Dispensary at the Board of Health. At a meeting of the executive of the St. John Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis to be held at the Board of Health rooms this afternoon at 4.30 o'clock the establishment of a dispensary will be considered. The Board of Health have offered their rooms to the association one day in the week for the purpose and it is believed their offer will be accepted. If the dispensary is started a physician will be in charge on the days it is open and no fee for attendance, etc., will be given free to all who apply.

Yukon Territory and the Prospector Is Going Backward

Rev. H. A. Cody, New Rector of St. James' Church, Speaks of Conditions in Far North—Is Glad to Return To City of His Early Days—Preached First Sermon Yesterday Morning—The Importance of Little Things.

Rev. H. A. Cody, the new rector of St. James' church, arrived in the city on Saturday and preached his first sermon yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Cody was for some years in charge of the parish of Greenwich and about six years ago went out to the Yukon as a mission and laborer. He had spent his early days there and attended the city schools and his heart had always been with St. John. Speaking with The Standard yesterday Rev. Mr. Cody said he was glad to get back to the city and he had spent his early days there and attended the city schools and his heart had always been with St. John. Yukon Going Behind.
Asked as to the condition of White Horse at the present time, he said he was going backward. When he went out there six years ago the missionary the stamped was on and the place was flourishing but today the boom was over and White Horse like the rest of the Yukon was going behind. In the far west he had met many New Brunswickers, he said, and as a matter of fact the west was really the east as far as its population came from that quarter. The winter at White Horse had been a very cold one. As early as the first of November the thermometer had gone down as low as 40 and 50 degrees below zero. He left White Horse with his family on Dec. 30. They went first to Skagway then to Vancouver and from there to San Francisco and Los Angeles. They then travelled across the continent to New York and from there to St. John. All together they had been twenty-four days on the way. Asked if he intended to occupy the rectory of the church on Duke street, he said he had not yet decided. In White Horse he had lived in a log house. His family was small one, he added, and they would be in a small house if it could be arranged.

Lord Roseberry.
Lord Roseberry is looked to as the likeliest man to solve the problem of the readjustment of functions and composition. He is a close friend of the King, Edward, and is the statesman whom Asquith most admires and esteems. T. P. O'Connor, who made the big success at Liverpool predicts that the Liberal party will have a "few years." John Redmond admits that another general election must intervene and one fought on this particular issue. The German war scare had its effect in the eastern counties, people there feared they will be the first victims of the German invasion which the Unionist newspapers have been threatening.

Seamen's Mission Campaign.
The campaign to raise fifteen hundred dollars for the building fund of the Seamen's Mission will commence Wednesday, Jan. 26th, and continue until Friday, Jan. 28th. Citizens are asked to give liberally to all of those who present properly signed books. These books must be signed by the president, R. Morton Smith, and the young ladies from the city church are asked to meet at the Seamen's Institute this afternoon at 3 o'clock to discuss directions, credentials, cards and badges of management are requested to meet at 8 p. m.

How The Window Was Broken.
One of the windows of street corner 72 was broken in a peculiar manner on Saturday. While the car was waiting at Indiantown, Conductor Needham heard a sound of breaking glass and thinking that a stone had been thrown through the window, ran to the rear end of the car, and here he met with one of the biggest surprises of his career, for instead of the stone he expected, the conductor found a large chicken hawk. The bird had broken its wing by contact with the glass. It was taken to the car shed where the wing was set. The bird has since been cared for in the sheds and is receiving the best of treatment.

LABOR DISPUTE RECORDS.
Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The total number of strikes and lockouts in existence in Canada during 1909 was 60, or exactly the same number as in the previous year. There was, however, a considerable increase in the loss of time to employees occasioned by trade disputes. This was owing to strikes in Nova Scotia and the strike of coal miners in Alberta and Eastern British Columbia. There were approximately 17,881 employees involved in trade disputes as compared with 25,222 in 1909. Approximately 842,275 working days were lost as compared with 718,443 in 1909. Of the 60 disputes thirty ended in favor of the employers and ten in favor of the workers, while a compromise was reached in thirteen disputes.

Cleveland's Thousands

Alleges Blackmail Is the Object—Will Sue J. H. Heault Of Disraeli For $100,000 Damages.

Mr. R. D. Isaacs, the well known land agent and mining promoter, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Sherbrooke, P. Q., after a very unpleasant experience. A dispatch appeared in an afternoon paper on Saturday stating that Mr. Isaacs had been arrested on a charge of abduction and had been released on furnishing bail of $4,000. Mr. Isaacs in an interview last night said that the whole thing was a bold attempt at blackmail. The plaintiff in the case, he said, had never thought he would allow the matter to go into court for business reasons and it was hoped to squeeze him out of his interest in some valuable lumber and mining lands which he had acquired some years ago for a very small amount, but which now were worth thousands. He had already served writs on J. H. Heault, of Disraeli, the complainant, asking damages for $100,000 on the grounds of slander and defamation of character. The despatch states that Mr. Isaacs alleged to have spoken with Mr. Heault's daughter, who is only a few years of age, Mr. Isaacs emphatically denies the charge.

OBITUARY.
Miss Eva Alma Clayton.
Much sympathy will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Joshua P. Clayton in the loss of their eldest daughter, Miss Eva Alma, who died on Saturday night at 11.30 o'clock at her father's residence, Fernhill cemetery. Miss Clayton contracted a cold while skating about two weeks ago, which developed into pneumonia, and later terminated in tuberculosis. Although given every care and attention, she continued to grow weaker until the end came on Saturday morning. She was 21 years of age and was a member of the Holy Name Society of the St. Mary's church. She was survived by four brothers and three sisters. Interment will take place from her father's residence, Fernhill cemetery on Tuesday at 2.30 o'clock. The funeral will be private. Mrs. Mary D. Clark. The death of Mrs. Mary D. WORKMEN IN A CLEVELAND.
Cleveland, O., Jan. 22.—When Cleveland workmen and their families, 35,000 men, women and children, on strike against high prices of foodstuffs, they pledged themselves to a boycott movement which they will spread until it becomes a wide food strike. This is the most radical action they have come to signalize the protest of the people against the extortionist tariff-fostered food trusts. Every effort is to be made, the strikers declare, to keep the uprising in peaceful bounds. If they cannot then there will be no strike demonstrations, which might lead to food riots. Labor leaders say that a boycott will force the meat to its knees, and the end will come.

Boycott Against Increase in Prices of Foodstuffs.
Boston, Jan. 22.—Old friends tonight sent up their appeal from the high prices of the ties of life, a mass meeting of people listening to addresses by Rev. Patrick Kelly, Jeremiah W. Geo. L. Cady, Mrs. Susan, ad, secretary of the Massachusetts Suffrage Association, and William H. O'Brien, president of the Boston Union.
