

FOR WOMEN

TRUE MARRIED HAPPINESS NOT RESULT OF LOVE

Ideal Marriage is the Union Which Enables Man and Woman to Fulfill Appointed Tasks.

LOVE NOT LIFE AND NEEDS DISCIPLINE

Real Happiness Comes Only from a Sense of Duties Done and Tasks Well Carried Out.

Cross-Atlantic News Service. (Copyright) by Lady Frances Evelyn Warwick, Countess of Warwick. London, May 17.—What is the ideal marriage, the one that brings happiness through life? This is the answer my experience has taught: It is the union that enables the man and the woman to fulfill their appointed tasks; it is the union of laudable ambitions and consistent activities.

Love is not enough; happiness is not the proper aim of marriage. By itself, marriage will not make happy people. The happiest men and women are those who express themselves. The form of expression ranges over the whole expanse of human activities.

Love becomes capable as it gathers strength. Love is indeed happiness, but it is not life, and must be disciplined by two kindred souls. Love will smooth a thousand obstacles and take the sharp edge from many miseries, but it cannot entirely fill one's undivided life.

There are certain people of limited outlook and sluggish temperament who are mentally able to pass through life without living. To eat, drink, sleep, to dress, to gossip, to amuse themselves is sufficient. They are the useless by-products of a civilization that will accept possessions in lieu of purpose. They do not concern me.

The truth is that the good things of life are made of sterner stuff than pleasure, or happiness. Homeyness is like honey comb, sweet but apt to clog. Love is an excellent dish on the menu of life's feast, but there are many others of which the full flavor must be savored before happiness is found. Too much pleasure is enervating; love is, too often, the great exciter.

Many young married people retire from the circle of their friends, and seek to lead secluded lives quite unconscious that they pursue a path as dangerous as it is selfish. Only when we realize that we were made for the world do we understand that love is not enough.

As I understand it, love is the staff that supports us and aids us in the pursuit of life. If we use it to this end, we shall be happy; or at least we shall have the background of happiness spread for us.

Business And Social Meeting

Women's Canadian Club Met Last Evening and Celebrated Loyalist Day—Pleasant Evening With Delightful Programme.

Business, sociability and stories of the Loyalists were all parts of the programme of the Women's Canadian Club meeting held last evening in Trinity Church School Room. Mrs. L. P. D. Tilley presided in speaking of the special occasion, referred to the fact that Trinity church was distinguished by a Loyalist church as it was the first frame church erected by the early settlers and the first building on the green and site was put up in 1761. The beds are in memory of the Loyalists and the church contains many mementoes of early days.

On the platform with Mrs. Tilley were Mrs. W. H. Shaw, Mrs. D. C. Dearden, treasurer, and Miss Clara O. McGivern, secretary.

After the reading of the minutes of the executive meeting by Mrs. Dearden Mrs. Tilley told of the meeting of an appointed committee consisting of Mrs. George F. Smith, Mrs. G. A. Robring, Miss McGivern and herself with a committee from the Canadian Club to make arrangements for the visit of General Sir Arthur Currie, who has promised to speak before both clubs. It was decided by this joint committee that an evening meeting in the Imperial with a twenty-five cent reserved seat fee, would give everyone an opportunity to give a fitting welcome to so distinguished a visitor to the city. Members of both Clubs will have the privilege of purchasing reserved seats one day before the general public.

The treasurer's report as submitted by Miss Clara O. McGivern showed a balance of $46 on hand. The statement in detail showed that almost every lecture had caused a deficit in funds though all had been successful in point of attendance.

In the discussion which followed, several members voiced their appreciation of the splendid lectures which have been given through the efforts of Mrs. Tilley to the city, and it seemed to be the opinion of the meeting that it was necessary to change a small admission fee in order to help defray expenses.

The matter of raising the membership fee will come up for discussion at the September meeting when arrangements are being made for the annual meeting in October.

A vote of appreciation of the outstanding speakers who the Club had been privileged to hear this season and who had been brought to the city largely through the efforts of Mrs. Tilley was moved by Mrs. George F. Smith, seconded by Mrs. Alfred Morley and carried by a unanimous vote.

Mrs. Tilley stated that all speakers had been met at the train by members of the executive committee to help them to the hotel, where they were to speak and back to their hotels. It had been possible to do this through the kindness of Mrs. W. F. Bonnell, Mrs. James F. Robring and Mrs. W. E. Foster and Senator Thorne who had loaned their cars.

S. S. Association Conference Held

Charlotte St. Baptist Church Scene of Large Gathering of Sunday School Workers Last Evening—Addressed by Rev. J. H. Jenner.

The West St. John District of the Sunday Schools Association held a conference last evening in the Charlotte Street Baptist Church, West Side.

After the reading of the minutes of the meeting on the relation of Pastor to the Sunday school, the pastor of the church was also the pastor and head of the Sunday School. He should have some part in its programme.

At the close of the programme Rev. J. H. Jenner pronounced the benediction.

Sir Auckland Geddes Lauds Nurses

Declares That Without Expert Nursing Three-Quarters of the Practical Value of Scientific Knowledge of the Medical Profession Would be Lost.

Washington, May 17.—Sir Auckland Geddes paid tribute last night to the nurse and her profession in an address made more in his capacity as a physician than as a statesman. He spoke at the Florence Nightingale Centenary celebration of the American Red Cross and referred to the knowledge of the medical profession would be lost. He drew from his own experience a composition of a nurse as added to the qualities of the ideal creature. She is competent, neat with her hands, rather unemotional. Little inclined to sentimentality, rather short in her way with humbugs, but extraordinarily patient and tender with the sick. Her work has to be done on a steady basis, and she must be self-possessed and calm (bombed hospitals and torpedoed ships abound all that), forgetful of self and fatigue while work has to be done.

That is said," he said. "It suggests that the scale of values has got deranged and that many young women are engaged in chasing rainbows."

Social Evening Greatly Enjoyed

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by the large number of members who attended the Natural History Society's annual conversation held in the Society's rooms last evening.

The enjoyable programme was directed by the President, Dr. J. Roy Campbell who occupied the chair. It consisted of an address of welcome delivered by the President, in which he presented in an interesting manner the work being done by the Society. Quoting from Curator McIntosh's report, he stated that 3,125 visitors had called at the museum in the last three months; $210 donations had been received and 1,210 specimens had been added to the collection.

An interesting education contest between the eleven members of the Rev. Macqueth's class was won by Mrs. J. C. Page, of Ferguson and Page, awarded a handsome medal donated by H. C. Page, of Ferguson and Page. The judges for the contest were the Rev. Mr. Ewing and Mrs. Knapley. Dr. Harry Heats took the solo part in two pantomimes "Old Black Joe" and "Tired Dear" the others featuring in them were Myrtle Crawford, Florence Roden and Mrs. B. D. Porter.

The rest of the evening was enjoyably spent in the dancing of Scottish dances in which a real pipper played an important part.

Open Night With Clan Mackenzie

Pleasant Time Enjoyed Last Evening by Members of the Clan and Their Friends—Delightful Programme Carried Through.

Last evening was "Open Night" with the Clan Mackenzie at their rooms on Germain Street, where a pleasant evening was enjoyed by the members of the clan and their friends. The regular Sunday evening service. The picture has already been run at the Queen Theatre, Dallas, where it attracted so much attention that there was a general demand for its presentation before the Sunday evening congregation. Basil King's story, an adaptation of his novel of the same title, is exerting a great influence throughout the country in converting religious bodies to a recognition of the good in photoplays. Recently it was made the subject of a sermon at the Presbyterian in Los Angeles and everywhere it has been highly endorsed by organizations interested in developing the moral consciousness of a community. During the run of "The Street Called Straight" at the Queen Theatre, it came to the notice of the pastor of the Oak Cliff Christian church, who deemed it a suitable subject with which to follow a sermon on the benefits of right thinking.

DR. RICE FOUND SOUTH AMERICAN "WHITE INDIANS" Legendry Cannibals of the Amazon Made Attack on Exploring Party. PURSUED PARTY FOR SEVERAL DAYS Tribesmen Numbered About Two Hundred, All of Them Giants in Stature. New York, May 14.—"The legendary white Indians" of the Orinoco, the conquering savage mountaineers of South America who have been the terror of their copper-colored neighbors for centuries, have been found again, a whole tribe of them, all fit to be circus giants, by Dr. A. H. Rice, one of the most famous of his explorations along the Amazon and its tributaries. He arrived recently from Paris by the steamer "The Orinoco," and he had found the tribe, and for a few days he feared they might take back to the other tribes of their nation some fine American scalps.

But the cannibals would not let the explorers out of their sight and kept pace with them on the river bank. Dr. Rice said: "For four days and nights they pursued us. The savages apparently had no canoes, being a mountain tribe, and they ran along the bank, shooting arrows in our direction. It seems miraculous that any of us were hurt. After the fourth day they became disheartened at their inability to capture us or even to injure our equipment and gave up and pursued in three more days were safe at Esmeralda."

The doctor is confident he rediscovered the legendary white, or red, white, cannibals. He believes they were seen only once before and then only by the Spaniards during their explorations made under the Spanish Government. They are, Dr. Rice says, neighbors of the Marqui tribes, who hold them in deadly terror.

Mrs. Rice, in accompanying her husband on his expedition, has made in nineteen years, has achieved the distinction of penetrating further into the Amazon wilderness than any other woman. This is the record previously made by Mrs. Louis Agassiz in 1885, when she was a member of a party headed by her husband and sent out by the Spanish Government. Others of Dr. Rice's party who got in the Amazon are John C. Douzons, who was launch engineer in the salt up the Amazon; John W. Swanson, who had charge of the wireless equipment; Dr. Guy E. Byers of Roosevelt Hospital and James H. Mason, steward.

Colors That Combine in the New Fabrics

Brown and red are colors that have been combined with real success and smartness in some of the new frocks. We used to see this combination of colors only in little girls' sailor suits. There were brown serge sailor suits with red anchors and braided trimmings on sleeves and collars, and truth to say, the combination often seemed particularly ugly. Very much smarter frocks that are now being made seem in children's sailor or middie suits, but the brown ones had the advantage known to the careful mother and not showing that or wear so readily as the more distinct tones of blue or black. But in the new frocks the combination is really interesting.
