

ELECTRIC RAILWAY CARS CRASH TOGETHER.

One Man Probably Fatally Injured-- Many Others Less Seriously Hurt.

Manchester, N. H., July 16--An extra car, carrying no passengers, and a regular car, leaving the city at 6:30 o'clock, collided on the Goffs Falls line of the Manchester electric railroad tonight, about three miles from the centre of the city. The cars met head on, on a curve. Both were under full headway, and they came together with great force. Peter Villiers, motorman of the extra car, received a broken leg and internal injuries. His condition is critical.

Others injured were: Dorothy Gray, of No. 7 Walnut street, this city, probably injured internally. Mrs. P. L. Bercant, of No. 76 Lowell street, broken nose and severe bruises. Gen. Fox, of Goffs Falls, cut about face and hand.

Robert Hamilton, conductor of extra car, injured leg. Seth Wilson, motorman on regular car, cut on head and bruised.

Wm. L. Folsom, conductor on regular car, badly bruised. Annie Fuller, No. 121 School street, suffering from shock.

Lula Theiss, of Goffs Falls, badly bruised. Henry Robert, of Goffs Falls, right leg injured.

The injured were brought to this city as soon as possible and the most serious hurt were taken to the hospital. The motorman had barely time to reverse their motors before the crash came and the passengers on the regular car had no time to jump. Villiers was thrown forward and caught under the heavy dasher of his own car.

The cause of the accident has not yet been officially decided, but it is believed that the extra was trying to make a turnout a little further up the line, while the regular car's crew supposed that they had a clear road.

KILLED BY HORSE.

Isaac Dale, Queens County Farmer, Lost His Life Thursday.

Isaac Dale, of Young's Cove, Queens county, met a sad death yesterday morning, having his life crushed out by one of his horses. He went out about six o'clock to feed his horses, and one of the animals knocked him down and stepped on his chest, causing a frightful injury. A messenger was sent for Dr. Earle, but the unfortunate man was dead before the doctor arrived.

Mr. Dale was a well-known and respected farmer and his death is regretted by the whole community. He was about 55 years of age and leaves a wife, formerly Miss Wheaton, of Carleton, Coroner Earle did not consider an inquest necessary.

It seems that a dog, through barking or leaping at the horse, irritated it so that suddenly rearing the animal hoofs struck Mr. Dale with enough force to cast him to the ground. In this position he received the hoofs upon his chest with such violence that before he could be carried into his home he had passed away.

Deceased was born at Young's Cove and had farmed there all his life. There are five brothers living and three sisters. His brothers are Thomas, George and Alexander, of Young's Cove, and Capt. Robert and Wm., of this city.

76 YEARS OLD; MARRIED EIGHT WIVES.

Aged Jersey Lothario Accused of Bigamy by His Seventh Spouse.

Burlington, N. J., July 16--Peter Joseph Kremer faced Justice Charles H. Zeigler to answer to charges of bigamy, desertion, non-support and obtaining money under false representations. Kremer, though 76 years old, has had, according to his own admission, eight wives, two of whom are living, and today he was contemplating a ninth marriage with a comely young woman of 25, who hails from Camden.

In the justice's court, Kremer was confronted by his seventh choice, Mrs. Minnie Kremer, nee Gilpin, who is 62 years old and lives in Bridgeboro, a hamlet two miles from Riverside. Her eyes flashed contempt for the prisoner when he attempted to hide his guilt behind the excuse of old age and a weak mind.

Mrs. Margaret Moore, of Philadelphia, who fell an easy victim to Kremer's wiles for getting money and wives, and was also. Though not a matrimonial sacrifice, Mrs. Moore mourns the loss of $200, which she asserts Kremer borrowed from her in two instalments.

According to the records of Squire Zeigler, Kremer married Miss Minnie Gilpin on May 23 of last year. The couple apparently lived happily until several months ago, when Kremer suddenly disappeared, leaving no trace of his whereabouts. The deserted bride grew anxious, and began to mourn her husband as dead when, on June 11, a letter came to Riverside from Valburg that gave a clue to Kremer's whereabouts and his reason for deserting his seventh wife.

Mrs. Kremer No. 7 accused her husband of having seven other wives living, but this the old man denied. He gave no reason for leaving No. 7 and said No. 8, and Justice Zeigler held him for the grand jury.

LATEST DESPATCH FROM BLYTH, ONT.

Blyth, June 17--Everybody is remarking how well Mr. Pollock is looking since his recovery from Bronchitis. He was sick for quite a long time, but Catarrhosis cured him perfectly. What Mr. Pollock says in favor of Catarrhosis is backed up by many of the greatest benefactors from its use. Catarrhosis is really a sure cure for Bronchitis, Croup and Tracheitis, and as such receives a rank among the scientific discoveries of the age which is well earned, and can be used by many permanent cures as Catarrhosis. It is a remedy that those who need such a remedy will try. Druggists sell it in two sizes, 50c. and $1.00.

The Prudent Scotchman.

A cautious Scotchman, 85 years old, had saved enough to purchase a piece of freehold land upon which he had his eye for some time. He repaired to the freeholder and opened negotiations for the purchase. The freeholder, however, informed him that for some reason or other he could not part with the freehold, but he would give him a lease for 60 years. This he was informed, was practically the same thing. "Na, na," said the aged one, shaking his gray head, "time soon runs awa'."

ON GETTING RICHES.

DR. TALMAGE'S WARNING TO PEOPLE WHO ARE TRAVAGANT.

AN ATURAL HISTORY ALLUSION.

Causes That Have Led to the Financial Distresses of the Past 60 Years--The Rehearsals of Life--The Question of Extravagance--Each Must Judge For Himself.

Washington, July 14--In this discourse Dr. Talmage shows the causes of the great financial disturbances which have placed every few years and arraigns the people who live beyond their means. Text, Jeremiah xvii, 11. "As the partridge sitteth on eggs, and hatcheth them not; so he that gathereth riches, and doth not bring them in, shall be as the partridge, and shall be left, and his end shall be a fool."

Allusion here made to a well known fact in natural history. If a partridge or a quail or a robin build the eggs of another species, which she place here and there, but that happened to brood them, but at the first opportunity will assort with their own species. Those of us who have been brought up in the country have seen the dismay of the farmyard hen, having brooded aquatic fowls, when she sees a pair of turkeys tumble into their natural element, the water. So my text suggests that a man may gather under his wings the property of others, but it will after a while escape. It will leave the man in a sorry predicament and make him feel very silly.

What has caused all the black days of financial disasters for the last 60 years? Some say it is the credit system. Something back of that. Some say it is the spirit of gambling ever and anon becoming epidemic. Something back of that. Some say it is the sudden shrinkage in the value of securities, which even the most honest and intelligent men could not have foreseen. Something back of that. I will give you the principal cause of all these disturbances. It is the extravagance of modern society which impels a man to spend more money than he can honestly get, and therefore he speculates in order to get the means for inordinate display, and sometimes the man is to blame and sometimes the man is to blame and sometimes the man is to blame and sometimes the man is to blame.

Now for the elegances and the refinements and the decorations of life. I can't say my vote. While I am considering this subject a basket of flowers is handed in--flowers paradisaical in their beauty. White calla with a green background of begonia. A cluster of heliopes nestling in some geranium. These are the marks of God's finger. When I see that basket of flowers, I persuade me that God loves beauty in government and in decoration. God might have made the earth so as to supply the gross desire of men to have his robes adorned or attractions instead of the variegated colors of the seasons the earth might have worn an unchanging dull brown. The trees might have put forth its fruit without the prophesy of leaf or blossom. Niagara might have come down in gradual descent without thunder and winged spray.

Look out of your window any morning after there has been a dew on the grass, and you will see a dew. Put a crystal of snow under microscope and see what God thinks of architecture. God commanded the priest of olden time to have his robes adorned with a wreath of gold and the hem of his garment to be embroidered in pomegranates. The earth might have been made in the presence of the American people so far as I can get their attention I want to arraign this monster curse of extravagance. I want you to put it with your scorn and hurl at it your anathema.

How many fortunes every year are wrecked on the wardrobe. Things have got to such a pass that when we cry over our sins in church we wipe the tears away with a $150 pocket handkerchief. I show you a domestic tragedy in five acts:

Act the first--Enter plain and beautiful. Enter newly married pair. Enter contentment. Enter as much happiness as ever gets in one home.

Act the second--Enter discontent. Enter desire for larger estate. Enter envy, enter jealousy.

Act the third--Enter the queerly dressmakers. Enter the French milliner. Enter all costly plate and all great extravagances.

Act the fourth--Tiptop of society. Princes and princesses of upper tenantry enter in and out. Everything on a large and magnificent scale. Enter contempt for other people.

Act the fifth and last--Enter the assignee. Enter the sheriff. Enter the creditors. Enter humiliation. Enter the wrath of God. Enter the contempt of society. Enter ruin and death. Now drop the curtain. The pauperish.

You know very well there are thousands of families in our great cities who stay in neighborhoods until they have exhausted their capacity to get trusted. They stay in the neighborhoods until the druggists will let them have no more medicines, and the butchers will sell them no more bread, and the grocerymen will sell them no more sugar. Then they find the remedy, and they hire a carman, whom they never pay, to take them to some new quarters where the merchants, the druggists, the butchers the bakers and the grocerymen come and give them the best rounds of beef and the best sugars and the best merchandise of the sort until they find out that the only compensation they are going to get is the acquaintance of the patrons. There are thousands of such people in all our big cities. You see I call them by the right name, for if a man buys anything he does not mean to pay for it.

Of course sometimes men are stung of misfortunes and they cannot pay. I know men who are just as honest as having failed at other men's honest in succeeding. I suppose there is hardly a man who has gone through life but there have been some who have been stung so hard that they cannot meet his obligations, but all that I put aside. There are a multitude of people who have been stung so hard that they never intend to pay for, for which there is no reasonable expectation they will ever be able to pay. Now, if you have become oblivious of honesty and mean to defraud, why not save the merchant as much as you can? Why not go some day to his store and when nobody is looking just shoulder the ham or the sparrib and in modest silence steal away? The merchant will not know because in the other way you take not only the man's goods, but you take the time of the merchant and the time of the messenger who brought you the goods. Now, if you must steal, steal in a way to do as little damage to the trader as possible.

Oh, I am so glad it is not the absolute necessities of life which send people into misfortunes. It is almost always the superfluities. God has promised us a house, but not a tombstone; a wife, but not a widow; food, but not canvasback duck. I am yet to see one of these great defalcations which is not connected with the extravagance of modern society.

Extravagance accounts for the disturbance of national finances. Aggregations are made up of units, and the greatest of these units is the country. The other half of our country owe the other half how can we expect financial prosperity? Again and again at the national election we are told of the extravagance of the one administration and let us have a new deal of things and then we are told of the extravagance of the other. I do not care who is president or how much secretary of the treasury or how much change he has got out of the world and has left nothing for his family, nothing for the objects, and as he goes out of the world he steals the doctor's pills and the undertaker's shippers.

Oh, my friends, let us take our stand against the extravagances of society. Do not pay for things which are frivolous when you will not need them. Do not put one month's wages or salary into a trinket, just one trinket. Keep your credit good by seldom asking for any. Do not start a party to afford one Belshazzar's carnival. Do not buy a coat of many colors and then in six months it is all gone. Flourish not, as some people I have known, who took apartments at a fashionable hotel and had elegant drawing rooms, and then they vanished in the night, not even leaving their compliments for the landlady. I tell you, my friends, in the day of God's judgment we will not only have to give an account for the way we made our money, but for the way we spent it. We have got to leave all the things that surround us now.

Alas, if any of you in the dying hour felt like the dying actress who brought her to her and then turned her over with her pale hand and said, "Alas, that I have to leave you so soon," I would like to see you with your treasure of heaven than the bridal trousseau of a Marie Antoinette or to have been sent with Caligula at a banquet with his cost in thousands of dollars or to have been carried to our last resting place with senators and princes as pallbearers. They that consecrate their wealth, their time, their all, to God shall be held in everlasting remembrance, while I have the authority of this book for proof. The name of the wicked shall rot.

Flies Are Great Fighters.

Flies, taken as a whole, are very quarrelsome and are great fighters. When several are confined in a glass together, they fight incessantly, doing most of their battling by standing on their hind legs and striking their opponents with the others. In a big battle a half dozen of them may be seen rolling over and over each other, losing legs and antennae and at last giving up their lives in the struggle. There is a record of a flea which lived ten days after such an encounter with no antennae, three plates of his side broken in, one eye gone, and with only four legs, and these cut off at the first joints.

Kitchen Work Made Easy.

When commencing to cook dinner, you will save much time and labor by placing all the things likely to be wanted on the kitchen table. At the same time it is not well to accumulate too many articles. Clear as you proceed. You will thus always have a clear kitchen. The plates and dishes should be placed on a screen before the fire as soon as the cooking begins. Hot plates are indispensable to the enjoyment of a good dinner.

Rains Help Crops.

Kansas City, Mo., July 17--Generous rains this afternoon over the larger part of the corn belt of the southwest. The good that will result to late corn and pastures will undoubtedly be great.

play is ended, and the lights are out.

I call it a tragedy. That is a misnomer. It is a farce. Extravagance accounts for much of the pauperism. Who are these people whom you have to help? Many of them are the children of parents who had plenty lived in luxury, had more than they needed, spent all they had, spent more, too; then died and left their families in poverty. Some of those who call you to help for aid had an ancestry that supported on burgundy and woodcock. I could name a score of men who have every luxury, they smoke the best cigars, and they drink the best wines, and they have the grandest surroundings, and when they die their families will be left in poverty. I have seen a score of men who have every luxury, they smoke the best cigars, and they drink the best wines, and they have the grandest surroundings, and when they die their families will be left in poverty.

On Monday next St. John will be honored for the first time with the presence of Lord Minto, governor general of Canada, accompanied by Lady Minto and the vice-regal party. They will arrive by special train on that morning at six o'clock, and will remain here until Tuesday at noon. During that time they will be the guests of the city and will be entertained in a manner befitting their station. The programme of entertainment will commence on Monday morning at 11 o'clock, when Lord Minto will be present with an address from the city. The address will be hand-dominantly engraved and the presentation will be made by Mayor Daniel. At the conclusion of that ceremony the fire alarm will be rung, in order that their excellencies may see how quickly St. John's firemen respond. In the afternoon the party will be driven about the city, visiting the park and falls and probably Cushing's mill which will be seen in a circuit. The original intention was that on Monday afternoon, His Excellency would deliver to the returned soldiers the certificates granting to them the freedom of the city, but as they will not be completed in time this idea has been abandoned.

On Monday evening, Lord and Lady Minto will hold a reception in the council chamber in the Court House, which is being decorated for the occasion. Tuesday morning they will be taken for a sail on the harbor and through the falls, on Robert Thomson's steam yacht Scandia. They will leave here Tuesday at noon.

It was said yesterday that the residence of P. S. MacNutt, Queen square (the Governor Boyd House), will be offered for the use of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall during their stay in this city. It was also stated that, we in this plan adapted, considerable improvements would be made in the square and the locality.

Mayor Daniel, last evening, said that the report was without foundation, as it was nothing had been decided on as to where their excellencies would stay while here.

HAS BEEN ROUND THE WORLD.

Truro's Globe Trotter on the Home Stretch--Personal and Business Notes.

Truro, July 18--Karl M. Oelmann, who left his home here in May, 18, on a cycling tour of the world, has now about circled the globe and is seeing England. He has just been through Ireland. He travelled 800 miles while in the Emerald Isle. He was at Waterford, England, July 4, and was about to start on a cruise through the southern portion of England. This completed, he proposes to sail for Nova Scotia and arrive here about the end of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Fenwick Fulton, of New York, are visiting their old home at Bass River. The former has just undergone an operation in New York and is recuperating down here by the sea. Mr. and Mrs. Fulton went away from Bass River two years ago, groom and bride, and are welcomed home again by their many friends.

Work will commence at once on a large addition to be made to the government wharf at Bass River, for which $100,000 was voted at the last session of parliament. The work will likely be completed in two months. This enlargement was made necessary by the large amount of food flour being shipped from the works at Bass River. For this large vessels are required to call at the wharf. It is also decided to replace the steamer Beaver that has been calling at Bass River for some years with a larger boat this fall or next spring.

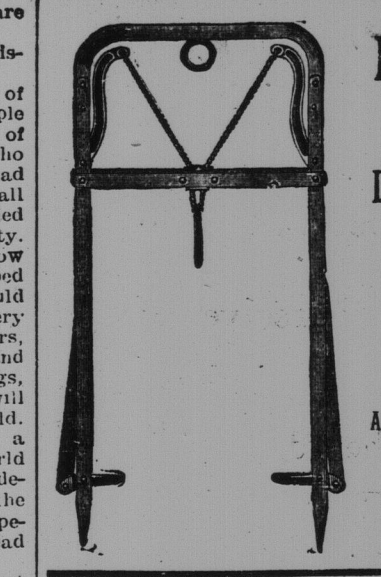

The Union Furniture & Merchandise Company of Bass River will shortly erect a large extension to their warehouse at Lowerwater station. They will also make additions to their premises at Bass River. Their factory at Bass River will close July 29 for two weeks' holidays.

A large addition is being built to Victoria Hall at Bass River to be used specially as a lodge room. The work is being rushed rapidly forward by Morton Fulton, who is in charge, and it is expected to have the building completed in time for the big "Old Home" concert, August 2.

STRICT EDUCATION LAWS.

Germany Considering Compulsory Measures With Stiff Punishments.

Frankfort, July 18--Rigid compulsory education laws, making parents and guardians liable to imprisonment and heavy fines for infraction of them, have been proposed by the provincial authorities of Germany, and are now under consideration by the imperial department of education. By them school attendance is made imperative from the age of six to fourteen years, and guardians of children are fined from ten pennies to two marks for each day they allow their children to miss school. Those unable to pay the fine may be imprisoned for periods ranging from three hours to three days. In addition to imprisonment, the guilty persons may be sentenced to do manual work on highways.
