Bad backs—aching backs—come from bad kidneys. Bad kidneys come from bad blood. Blood does the dirty work of the body. It carries the waste products of the body to the lungs and kidneys. If the blood is impure, the kidneys are overworked and the back aches. The first sign of this fatal trouble is a dull, dragging pain in the lower back, which is worse in the morning and after sitting. The back aches, the joints ache, the head aches, the eyes are sore, the skin is itchy, the stomach is full, the appetite is lost, the nerves are all out of order, and the blood is impure. RUSSIAN STRIKERS PLAN BIG TIE-UP

Orders Issued to Stop All Traffic and All the Wheels of Commerce Today, and Make St. Petersburg a "Dead City"—Refusal of Eight-hour Day Makes Dissension in the Ranks—Rumor of Mutiny in Manchurian Army.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 18, 1.45 a. m.—Though, according to surface indications, yesterday, the outlook for the speedy ending of the strike was gloomy, the revelations made at a meeting last night of the council of workmen's delegates showed that a large portion of the workmen were breaking loose from the control of the leaders and were anxious to return to work, and a plebiscite which will be taken today in the various factories probably will result in a decision to abandon the strike Monday.

At the meeting of the council which was held in the same hall where Father Capon, Maxim Gorky and other leaders denounced the emperor on the eve of January 22 ("Red Sunday") delegates of the council, from different factories, arose and reported that the workmen, under the influence of the ultimatum issued by the employers announcing that the factories would be shut down indefinitely unless work was resumed on Monday, and with the pleading of their wives and of the conservative workmen singing in their ears, were demanding that the strike should be ended.

This precipitated a hotly contested debate between the moderates, who declared that the strike in the first instance was a strategic mistake and that it would be a greater error in tactics to attempt to force the men to remain in line and "the dead city" faction, especially the unattached delegates who are members of the council by virtue of their membership in Socialist organizations.

One fiery speaker who, in order to be better heard, had mounted the balcony from which Father Gapon in disguise had delivered his last address in the hall, thundered his denunciation of those who wished to discontinue the struggle. "To Make the Capital a 'Dead City.'"

"Even if we cannot continue the strike until the purposes for which it was attained," he said, "let us not abandon it without inflicting a real blow on the government. A three days strike is a mere pin prick in the hide of that crafty fox, Witte and his followers, so let us keep it up for a fortnight. The men in other factories of St. Petersburg are daily joining us, our delegates are closing the pharmacies and the railroad tie up is complete."

After a long discussion a motion to call off the strike was rejected and it was decided to call meetings of workmen in factories today to lay the situation before them and to abide by their decision. The leaders, however, were determined not to permit the strike to die without a final great demonstration of their power to render St. Petersburg a "dead city."
