People will boast of the queerest things sometimes, and the little boy who bragged about his mother's ability to take all her teeth out and all her hair off was not more foolish than some grown people we know of. For instance: a St. John paper, which was until recently a warm supporter of Sir John Macdonald, boasts that the policy of the new Government is to be exactly the policy advocated by its leaders when they were in opposition—exactly the policy that our boasting journal has devoted its energies to defeat! the crime which Sir John Macdonald's enemies claim to have been proved against the late Premier. The report says:

He explained the points which had been proved, maintaining that the chain of evidence had been unbroken, and that it was manifest that Sir Hugh Allan had paid the large sum of $162,000 for the port of his company. The case has been proved to be exactly the same as that of a Mayor whose municipality, wanting a public building, said to a contractor, "Give me money to spend in order that I may make myself popular and I will secure to you the contract. It was natural to suppose that if the contractor, would make myself popular and I will secure to you the cost of the building would be increased by that amount. Sir Hugh Allan haying spent $102,000 to popularize the Ministry, would naturally expect to be reimbursed by receiving the contract, as no on would suppose that the would take this large sum out of his own profits or out of his own profits or out of his own pocket. (No, no.) This amount would be put on the cost in order to be given to the Ministry, and thus they would dispense for their own benefit the moneys of the prople.
