At the paragraph relating to unsettled claims, Mr. Seely inquired if the subsidy expended by the Province on Eastern Extension, which had since been taken by the Dominion as part of the Intercolonial, was one of the claims presented by the Delegates, and what other claims were referred to in the Speech.

Mr. Young replied that Eastern Extension was one of the claims which the Delegates contended for. The St. John Peniteutiary and Tracadic Lazarette were others. He had every reason to believe they would receive the careful attention of the Privy Council, and was hopeful of success.

Mr. Jones said unsettled claims is a standing paragraph in every speech, and standing paragraph in every speech, and British Pouts.

At the paragraph relating to the Assessment Bill, Mr. Lindsay inquired if any essays on Assessment had been received by the Government, and what action had been taken.

Mr. Young replied that a number of essays had been received. The members could move for them.

At the paragraph relating to the amend ment of the Attachment Law, Mr. Jones characterized the original Act as rude, rough and unsatisfactory; that it had worked much mischief amongst people in business, and no matter could so well engage the serious attention of the Government. The Act is perfectly useless in the collection of small means of all credit, which is a serious matter to them.

For this purpose, the Legislature of the State of New York has granted a charter to a number of our most westify and respectable merchants, and those gentlemen have purchased no less than eight blocks of the most valuable land in the city of New York. The building to be erected will be seven stories high (150 feet in height) surmounted by a magnificent dome, and will cover a space of 22 acres. It will be constructed of iron, brick and glass, and made fire-proof. The bonds which are all for $20 each, are secured by a first mortgage on the land and building, and for the purpose of making them popular, the directors have decided to have quarterly drawings of $150,000 each; this money being the interest on the amount of the whole loan.
