

ACHIEVEMENT AWARDS

Admirable Restraint award to Ross Barros and Roger Comartin for not streaking Color Night. Paul Cadogan for not saying anything bad about Clare Drake all year long. In print. Brian McCaulder and Darrel Ness.

Empire Builder's award to Lorne Holladay for forming Media Productions, Portrait, et al, who has also exercised amazing restraint in not trying to completely take over Gateway. This year.

The Stich in Time award to the UAB Color Night Committee for taking the advice of Ombudsman Scott, last year's after dinner speaker who took an hour and a half explaining why after dinner speakers should be eliminated. (Scott was the recipient of last year's Okay We Know You Mean It award.)

It's 4:00 A.M. and I Wish I Were In Bed award to Scott Partridge, Gateway production staff, for sticking it out to the bitter end.

The Gobble-uns'll Get You award to Jim Talbot, science rep to Students' Council, who has staunchly displayed unflagging paranoia all year long, despite the fact that almost everyone loves him.

A Blank Wall Plaque
to Burt Krull, Students' Union finance manager, who is just as happy to remain anonymous.

We Know He's Been Around All Year but What The Hell's He Done award to Chris Gates and Brian Makin.

The Gotcha award
to Ivor Dent for whatever he did over the past year.

The Bronze Crackerjack award to John Savard.

Chameleon award
to Max Billingsly for doing an excellent job of impersonating Walter Plinge.

Sugar and Spice award to the Panda Volleyball team for their part in a Saskatoon caper which is better left more or less unmentioned.

Stature of the Year award to the kampus kops who are getting shorter...and shorter...and shorter....Could this mean anything?

T.J. Lambert award to Bob Beaulieu, Golden Bear hockey player, and Bob Bennet, Golden Bear assistant football coach, the two gassiest guys on campus.

The Shut up Already award to Jim Tanner, theorist extraordinaire, for his wild and wooly excursions into the Land of Hyperbole.

The Holy Moses I Have Been Deceived award
to Bernie Fritze, Gateway editor-elect who seriously believes he's going to turn the Gateway into a meaningful relevant newspaper.

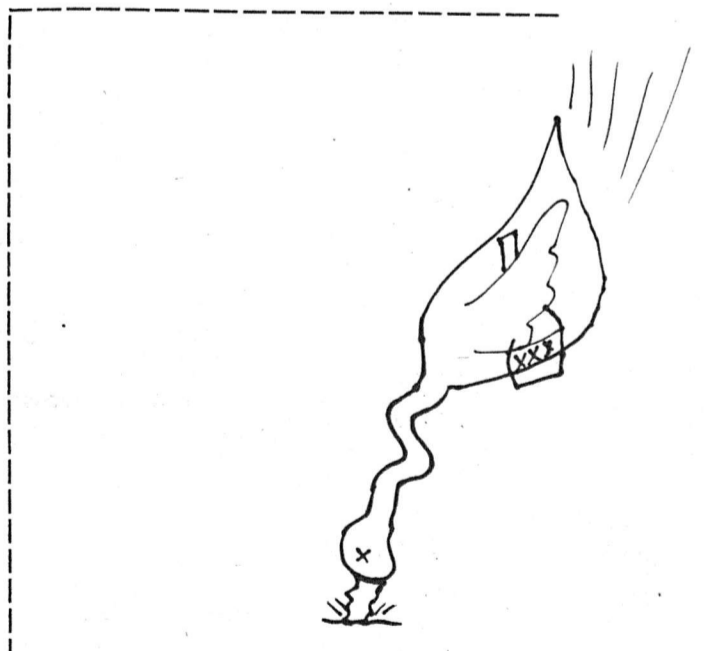

Sheer Gall award
to the Housing and Food Services Commission for daring to serve up that stuff they call food in SUB cafeteria and elsewhere on campus.

Damn the Torpedoes Full Speed Ahead award to Wayne Madden the only person on campus capable of reciting the first sentence of the Hunchback of Notre Dame at a rate of 465 words per minute without taking a breath, and for his activities on Students' Council as Ed. rep.

The Dewey Defeats Truman award to Poundmaker for their Plebiscite headline.

The Whoops award
to Randy McDonald who should watch where he's going when he drops stuff like that--it does the darndest things.

Swan Song of the Year award to George Mantor, Charlie Hall and Gary Croxton who embarked on "one last fling" before turning in their keys to the SU general office. When manager Darrel Ness entered his office the following morning, he found it stripped nearly bare, only the carpet and telephone remaining. The outgoing executive denied any connection with the prank.
