My dear Charlie:

I thank you for your card of Christmas greetings and good wishes. I quite envy you being in the Niagara Peninsula with its many historic associations.

The day he gave up his business at Dundas and moved to Queenston to begin the publication of a newspaper there, for the purpose of making politics a major interest, Mackenzie planted the seeds of some larch trees in front of the house in which he went to live. He said he was doing so as a souvenir of giving up a peaceful life to test the stormy seas of political ~~life~~. The trees grew somewhat during his residence there, but in some letter ~~written by~~ ~~Mr. F. C. F. F. C.~~, he tells how they had grown to an enormous size on his return after
