that and said that there might be something in the back of the truck to sell to the Italians. for example "bully beef" He wanted to stop before we got there to see what was in the back, but I told him that he could look when we got to Florence. After I stopped the vehicle in Florence, Tm. Lombardo climbed into the back of the truck while I was taking the motor out. He was rummaging about. He said that he had found no bully beef but a full case of soap that had not been opened. We went in the house for ten minutes and ~~he said~~ Tm. Lombardo said that he was going out to ^{try to} sell the soap on the street. In about 30 minutes time he came back and said he had a buyer for it but never sold it, so then he asked the fellow in the house if he would sell it for him, and he would. Come back another time and get the money. (This house is the same place as outlined in a hand-sketch this morning in the major's room) Tm. Lombardo left the soap at this house and came back
